ARMY CROWDED AT SHOW OPENING

Automobile Show Formally Opened by Mayor Canfield on Thursday Evening—Governor Whitman Makes an Address.

With one of the greatest gatherings ever assembled in the state armory the first automobile show ever held in Kingston was formally opened on Thursday evening. The occasion was marked by the visit of Governor Charles S. Whitman, who delivered an eloquent address, and was given a hearty welcome by the city. Fully 2,000 people crowded every nook and corner of the big drill shed to hear and welcome the governor of the state. The show was formally opened by Mayor Canfield.

Shortly after seven o'clock the big armory began to fill with people gathered to see the first automobile show, and also to pay a welcome to the governor and long before the time scheduled for the governor's address the armory was crowded. It was nine o'clock before the governor and his party reached the armory and while the crowd waited for his arrival the many exhibits came in for a share of attention. Without question the exhibit is one of the finest ever held in this section of the state and reflected great credit not only on those who had charge of the show but on the local dealers who had spared no expense to make the exhibit a noteworthy one.

The Governor Arrives.

It was an hour after the scheduled time before the governor and his party reached the armory. His entrance was marked by prolonged applause and the tooting of automobile horns and it was several minutes before the applause subsided and Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, in introducing Mayor Canfield, said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: We are about to open formally one of the best shows that the city of Kingston has ever done herself the honor to have. As chairman of the reception committee, before saying another word, I want to congratulate the organizations which have made this exhibition possible, and for the wonderful result which they have accomplished. I am glad that you are not to be imposed upon by having to listen to a speech from me. The Automobile Club knew too much to invite me. I take great pleasure in having the opportunity of introducing to you a citizen of Kingston of whom everybody is proud. He has the personality, and intelligence, the courage, and the character to bring the mayor's office of the city of Kingston back to its ancient traditions. (Loud applause.)

"We are all proud of Mayor Canfield, whom I now introduce to you."

Mayor Canfield Speaks.

Mayor Canfield spoke as follows:

This is an important event from both a civic and a military standpoint. We witness the gathering here of thousands of citizens and visitors. We see here illustrations of what the achievements in the realms of science and invention and the genius of the mechanical mind have presented to us for our use, convenience and enjoyment. We note that we have gathered in this armory which is sustained by the state and which is dedicated to the spirit of liberty and patriotism. This is the military home of Company M, every member of which has shown that he is imbued with this spirit and the personification of patriotism by his membership in this company.

Above other reasons, this is an important event because we have with us he who is our civil commander-in-chief, and the commander-in-chief of our state militia. It is a great privilege to have the chief executive of our state with us. To one who believes in mere perfunctoriness in the performance of his duties it might be an easy matter to spare the time to be with us. To one, however, who is conscientiously endeavoring to perform his duty and all his duty, time is the most precious possession. When we realize that our governor is continually confronted by those who seek by subversive methods to gain their own selfish ends, and that he is met by those who endeavor to embarrass and check him by the interposition of obstacles, and that his efforts are retarded and obstructed by those who make accomplishments difficult by vexatiously hindering Progress by factious opposition, we appreciate the more his presence here.

We of Ulster county should be interested in the office of governor. This county is the only county other than New York county that has been represented in the chair of the chief executive of our state for more than ten years of its existence as a state. This state at its birth in 1777 drew upon one of the honorable and distinguished families of Ulster county and elected him as its first governor. Not only did he receive the plurality of votes cast for governor but also for lieutenant governor. The committee that officially notified him of his election to the two offices, politely requested him to resign from one of the offices and he resigned as lieutenant governor. Counting Governor DeWitt Clinton, who was born in this county, as an Ulsterite, this county has furnished men who have occupied the great office of governor of this state during about thirty years of its existence. At the time Governor Whitman was elected, New York county had also been represented in this office during about thirty years. In other words, New York and Ulster were nip and tuck in its gubernatorial representation until a year ago. New York city is now ahead and the only way I can figure to balance and even matters is to elect an Ulster county man as governor after Governor Whitman has served his second or third term.

However, tonight the automobile is supreme here. We think not of the steamship flashing through the night and trampling the riotous waves of the maddened ocean; nor do we see the steam engine whose tread rivals in its noise and power, the uproaring of the wind. Tonight we bow to our wonderful mechanical servant, the automobile. It was not necessary for me or anyone else to officially open this show. It is founded upon and bounded by the work of a committee of such earnest and sincere workers that it must have necessarily bursted forth and broken out with a blaze of success. However, the automobile show is open, and with this auspicious opening, no blackness of night can now hide it, and no flaming stars can now stop it in its favorable revolutions around the circuit of assured success.

Governor Whitman Speaks.

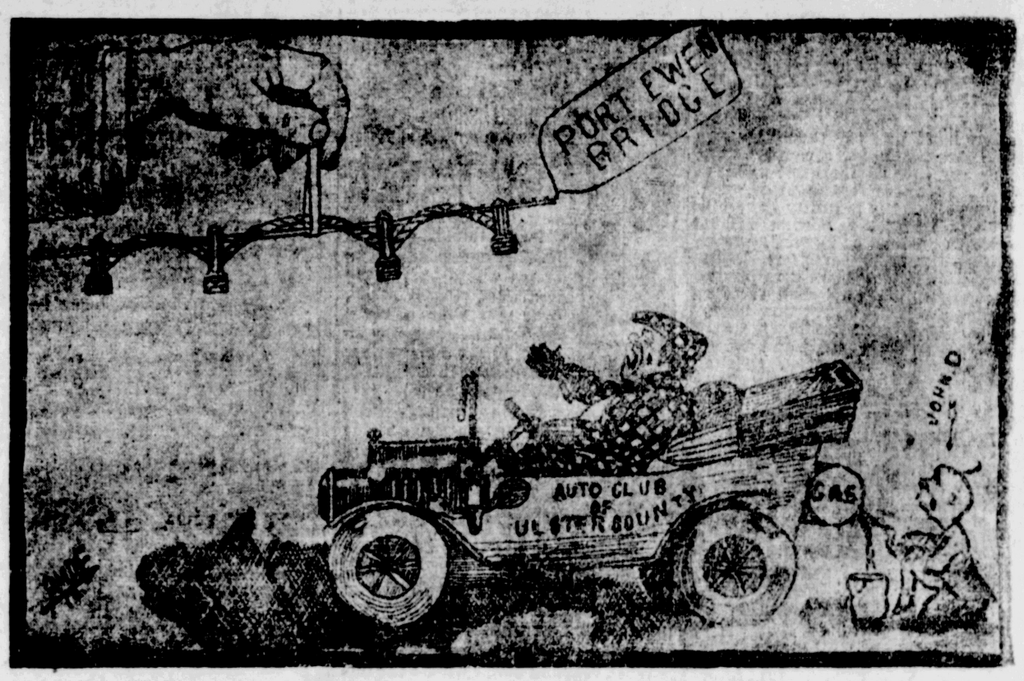

Governor Whitman as he arose to speak was greeted with prolonged applause. He said that he was here because he wished to come here and that it was a great source of pleasure and privilege to be permitted even for a few minutes to talk to the people who go to make up the greatest state in the union. He spoke briefly of American enterprise and genius represented by the automobile industry. He complimented the city upon the auspicious opening of this, its first automobile show. It's a good thing for any community to hold these shows as they stimulate business.

"There is a subject," he continued, "which I want to talk to you about for a few minutes because it is a subject that interests every man, woman and child in this great state. You represent a great state. The state of New York is the greatest political unit which the sun shines on in the great western world. It has been said that the governor represents the state, that the constitutional convention represents the people, that the legislature represent the will of the people but the governor is not, the state legislature is not, public official gathered together do not represent in any true sense the great state of New York. Out on the hillside, in the forest, in every town, vilage and city, along its rivers, up to its mountains and down to the valleys of this great state is being lived today, as it has been for the past one hundred years in the lives of the men and women—good lives and clean, wholesome lives. American lives. In the homes today is being lived the life of the state. You represent, and men and women like you represent the clean, wholesome lives your father and mother and my father and mother lived and as a result the state is good, and it was never better than it is today. There is no question should we be called upon, and God grant it may never come, but the sons of the men would be willing to lay down life itself that the nation may live. They would be absolutely willing as well as their fathers to spend all and be all spent that the things for which you and I stand, the things that your father and my father stood for shall live in this great state and live in this great nation.

"As I came down your streets tonight with your boys in uniform ahead keeping step to the music I realized as I know you do that these

GUEST OF HONOR AT CLUB BANQUET

Warm Welcome Given Chief Executive and His Sentiments by Members and Guests at Automobile Club Banquet—State Association Officers Tell of Achievements

Governor Whitman was the guest of honor and principal attraction at the annual banquet of the Ulster County Automobile Club which was held at the Stuyvesant Thursday night following the formal opening of the Automobile Show. Accompanied by Judge Hasbrouck, Philip Elting and Judge of the Court of Claims William D. Cunningham and other members of the committee, the executive arrived at the hotel at 9:30 o'clock and the banquet was under way immediately after. The dining room, decorated with the American flag, flowers and automobile tires, presented a most animated scene to which the presence of the ladies lent added attraction.

Following an elaborate menu, faultlessly prepared and served, President Elva H. Bogart opened the ball and presented the governor, who was greeted with an outburst of applause as pronounced as the rising salute given by the diners upon the entrance of the executive and his escort.

Governor Warmly Greeted.

Governor Whitman was presented to the gathering by President Bogart whose brevity in introducing the speakers made him an ideal toastmaster. The governor was in fine voice but the strain of speaking trips of the past week had plainly wearied him. In opening he expressed his pleasure at being present and laid stress upon the difficulties of the occupant of the executive chair visiting all sections of the state when his official responsibilities were of such vital concern to the welfare, present and future, of the state.

He told a story of his work as district attorney when an irate consituent demanded a half hour of his time and how he had figured out that on that basis, working day and night without a stop, it would require just 19 years and three months of his time to give each citizen of New York county an equal share of time, which was what this correspondent believed to be the prosecutor's public duty.

"So, ladies and gentlemen," said the governor, "when the demand is made for instant attention from the governor of a state that is larger in population and wealth than the Dominion of Canada, I want you to remember that it is impossibe, physically and absolutely, for one man to do all of the things desired and perform al lthe things that the citizens of New York, the great state of New York, demand and wish done in the office of their governor."

Pleads For Preparedness.

Continuing, the governor made a straight from the shoulder plea for preparedness and military training, not service, in the schools, declaring that it was the wish of all citizens that their officers accomplish the things that assure the welfare of the state. By the state he meant, he said, not any special unit but the nation itself and it was the best endeavor of the ideal public servant to perform that duty in the day and generation that he lives and serves. Preparedness he declared to be a subject of very vital meaning and concern not only to himself and his hearers but to the county of Ulster, the state and the nation as well.

"It is easy to say we want to prepare ourselves," said the governor. "It is easy to say that the army must be increased, the navy strengthened and our coast defenses built up, and that governments be called to account upon their treaties with the United States. That is all easy to say, indeed. Just how this is to be done requires thought and study and the subject is one already causing disagreement among those called upon to assure the defense of the nation and to see that the property and lives of its citizens wherever they may be, be protected because they are American citizens.

Flag Should Protect All.

"We believe in our hearts, as citizens we assent to the proposition that the flag shall be protected with every inch of the ground over which it flies and that there be given to every American citizen who demands its protection whatever and wherever he may be."

Prolonged applause greeted this ringing period and the speaker went on to declare that this was not doctrine of any partisan nature, that although the Republican party stood for that doctrine, it was just a plain, simple American issue, an issue which Americans had been taught from the cradle to believe in as sacred, one in which every American citizen had been taught to believe he should protect with his life if need be.

Ability to Answer Call.

With unmistakable emphasis, the governor stated his belief that every American should be so trained that if his country calls he can respond for the protection of its institutions. "Not complete military service but complete military training is what I mean," he declared, "just as that is given to the boys in Switzerland and in Australia."

Continuing he referred to the state's education of its youth as not merely for the sake of literature, mathematics or the other subjects taught nor yet for the success in life of our youth but that we give our school houses, free books, teachers and all the educational equipment for the same reason that the state is devoting millions to public works, the protection of health, the people being

PARADES AND CLUB RECEPTION

Thousands Lined the Streets to Get a Sight of the State's Chief Executive—Escorted by Company M to the Armory.

Governor's Day and the inaugural of the Automobile Show made Thursday, March 30th, a red letter event in the history of Kingston from the arrival of the executive guest of honor late in the afternoon to the formal opening of the big exhibition at the armory and the social preliminaries which preceded and followed that function. With the exception of some brief delays which did not interfere with the carrying out of the program complete in every detail, the occasion proved most auspicious in every way and the stamp of popular approval unmistakably placed on Kingston enterprise was emphatic and enthusiastic in the extreme.

The greeting to Governor Whitman was as hearty as that popular official could desire. For fully a half hour before the time set for his arrival on the ferry Transport from Rhinecliff, crowds of automobiles and pedestrians had gathered in the vicinity of the ferry shed. Judge Hasbrouck with Mayor Canfield met the governor and his military aide, Captain Lorillard Spencer, at the Rhinecliff station with an automobile and the party on its arrival in Kingston was greeted with a chorus of automobile salutes from the fifty or more machines banked near the Ferry street teminus.

With Charles A. Warren's machine carrying a squad of Boy Scouts and their official flag at the head of the procession, the automobile containing the governor came next and then the long strung out line of automobiles made up the escort to Judge Hasbrouck's residence on Clinton avenue. All along flag-bedecked Broadway waiting throngs of children and grown-ups greeted the executive whose hand and hat were kept busy in acknowledging salutes until final arrival at the destination.

The governor has had a busy time this week with speeches at Rochester and Syracuse and up to the time of his reception at the Kingston Club every consideration was shown the guest of honor. The reception at the club, which was confined to the membership, gave an opportunity for many Kingstonians to meet and greet the governor.

At 7:30 o'clock the eighty members of Company M under Captain Meagher and headed by Muller's band marched up Broadway to Fair street where they were joined by about eighty Boy Scouts and the parade then marched and countermarched about the streets in that section of the city unil 8:30 o'clock when the governor was met at Judge Hasbrouck's home and to the martial strains of the band was finally escorted to the armory where the militiamen broke ranks and the executive entered to a resounding chorus of foots from the automobiles lined up on the crowded floor of the drill hall.

Makes Address To High School Pupils

MOST INTERESTING SPEECH OF ALL

Character of the Audience Made Governor Whitman's Appearance in the High School Most Interest-Feature of His Visit to Kingston.

All the more interesting because of not being on the bills, the visit of Governor Whitman to the high school this morning was a decided novelty which because of an unfortunate insufficiency in announcement was not taken advantage of by the public to any extent, only a handful of citizens being present beside the upwards of 800 students in attendance at the usual morning exercise in the auditorium. Notwithstanding the fact, however, it was plain that the audience was perhaps the most interesting that it fell to the lot of the governor to confront during his entire eighteen hour sojourn in Kingston.

With every student and teacher standing, the entrance of the party was impressively simple and the handclapping which greeted Governor Whitman's appearance on the stage showed an appreciation of his presence by the entire student body that was reflected in the governor's brief address. Principal Moulton presented the governor and with him on the stage were President Sam Bernstein of the board of education, Superintendent Michael and President Bogart of the automobile club with Messrs. Baucus and Baker with Judge Hasbrouck and Captain Spencer, the governor's aide.

"I may not look like it, but I am a soldier," was the governor's opening sentence," I am commander-in-chief of the 17,000 soldiers comprising the New York State National Guard whose numbers perhaps include the brothers and the fathers of some of you here."

Continuing the Governor called attention to the fact that he was a sailor also by virtue of a similar with respect to the naval reserve.

"The state navy has a flagship too," he said, "a flagship nailed to the dock in New York—if I've got to command a ship I very much prefer it should be nailed to a dock!" This sally was greeted with laughter.

Of both these branches of defense for which the State is paying from two to three millions a year to maintain, the executive spoke in praise, referring to the regard felt by the commonwealth for these men to whom the state must look to keep it safe and "to hold those things which you and I have received from our fathers and our fathers' fathers.

"The state trusts these two forces, military and naval, and would look to them at once if need be," he declared, and then went on to tell his hearers of the many criticisms that beset the executive pathway in the approving of these and other necessary appropriations for the welfare of the state. Such criticism, he held, was a proper right for the people to exercise in the disapproval of the actions of public officials if they felt so inclined. He affirmed, however, his belief in the militia and the great extent to which the state must depend upon these forces for safety, and the protection of the lives and property if the occasion should ever arise.

"But there is an army," he declared, "bigger than the United States regular army, greater than the greatest army ever engaged on the soil of this vast country of ours. We have this army in this great state of ours and I'm not its commander-in-chief but only partially so, I refer to the boys and girls who comprise the most precious army in the world to the fathers and mothers, the men and the women who are honestly concerned about the welfare of this great state of ours."

Against the two or three millions expended for the militia, he explained, the state by its taxpayers and through the counties and cities and villages is spending today on its army of boys and girls ninety millions of dollars annually, a sum which make possible the benefiting of ever child within the state, everyone of whom not by virtue of being born rich or poor, but merely because they were born in the state, secures this heritage, a proper service to the children who in a most fitting and proper sense belong to the state.

"Here," he said, "is our greatest and finest and best armory ever created for the equipment, training and discipline of its soldiers, fitting our boys and girls to become real pillars of the state and the nation in future years. Here in a very true sense you are training as soldiers to take your part in the great battle of life. As you school yourselves here, so shall you conduct yourselves in the larger field of actual service.

"In the make-up of the soldier, a great deal depends upon the individual. 'No man ever makes a soldier of another,' is the saying of that great French general which rings true today. It all depends upon you as an individual the same as the soldier's training depends upon himself. Nobody can harm you here, nobody can injure you here, as much as you can injure yourself.

"We cannot do as we please in this world always, a fact to which self-discipline will teach you to adjust yourself. This beautiful school with its superb advantages with which the city of Kingston has so bountifully endowed you means in itself a privilege and a great opportunity to give the boys and girls a greater tomorrow than that of today. There is no greater time to work than the present, there is no greater time in all the world's history in which to live than today.

"In a sense I believe Judge Hasbrouck and these other gentlemen feel as I do and I express to you and for you, the boys and girls of this great state of ours, the hope that these opportunities may be grasped and fulfilled to their utmost to develop higher standards of citizenship. By this I do not mean to say a higher type of citizenship than was exhibited by the pioneer men and women whose self-denial and self-sacrifices developed a standard unequalled in the annals of civilization, but I do mean that these advantages may be so used by you that you may make yourselves better men and women, fit descendants of the noble men and women who have made this state what it is and who gave up their lives to make this nation what it is and that this nation might be protected for all the years to come."

An enthusiastic outburst of applause greeted the governor's conclusion, after which the executive party left the building so that the governor could connect with the Empire State Express train for Albany at Rhinecliff.

TAYLOR FIRST IN ANNAPOLIS EXAM

Results have just been received at the office of Congressman Ward of the competitive examination which he held at Kingston on March 22nd to determine the scholarship standing of the young men of this congressional district who desired an appointment to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Francis Taylor, of Kingston, with an average of 91.60 per cent gained the highest standing and as a result of making the highest average in the examination will be appointed if he qualifies in the physical test and entrance examinations to be held on April 18.

In the event of the failure of the principal to pass the entrance examinations, Leo J. Larkin, of Ellenville, having made the second highest rating with an average of 85.76 per cent will be nominated as first alternate, Charles W. Egan, of Valatie, with an average of 81.40 per cent, second alternate, and Sherman V. Hasbrouck, of Stone Ridge, with an average of 80.73 per cent, third alternate.

The other candidates taking the examination, receiving rank in the order named, were John L. Hoffman, of Sharon Springs, Raymond M. Hicks, of Kingston, and Charles J. Matzinger, of Liberty.

Taylor is to be complimented for the excellent showing which he made. He was graduated last June from Kingston Academy. Kingston will be honored to have another of its youths enter the institution and will join in hoping that Mr. Taylor successfully passes the final test, together with the physical examination which he must undergo before entering the academy. Taylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Taylor of John street, and is at present employed in the down town Atlantic & Pacific Tea Store.

High School Concert.

Posters announcing the High School Glee Concert Friday evening, April 7, have been distributed tarough the city and call music lovers' attention to a treat for them. Over a hundred voices will comprise the chorus and popular selections will be rendered. Extra rehearsals are being held nights to put on the finishing touches.

Flag Should Protect All.

"We believe in our hearts, as citizens we assent to the proposition that the flag shall be protected with every inch of the ground over which it flies and that there be given to every American citizen who demands its protection whatever and wherever he may be."

Prolonged applause greeted this ringing period and the speaker went on to declare that this was not doctrine of any partisan nature, that although the Republican party stood for that doctrine, it was just a plain, simple American issue, an issue which Americans had been taught from the cradle to believe in as sacred, one in which every American citizen had been taught to believe he should protect with his life if need be.

Ability to Answer Call.

With unmistakable emphasis, the governor stated his belief that every American should be so trained that if his country calls he can respond for the protection of its institutions. "Not complete military service but complete military training is what I mean," he declared, "just as that is given to the boys in Switzerland and in Australia."

Continuing he referred to the state's education of its youth as not merely for the sake of literature, mathematics or the other subjects taught nor yet for the success in life of our youth but that we give our school houses, free books, teachers and all the educational equipment for the same reason that the state is devoting millions to public works, the protection of health, the people being

Thousands Lined the Streets to Get a Sight of the State's Chief Executive—Escorted by Company M to the Armory.

Governor's Day and the inaugural of the Automobile Show made Thursday, March 30th, a red letter event in the history of Kingston from the arrival of the executive guest of honor late in the afternoon to the formal opening of the big exhibition at the armory and the social preliminaries which preceded and followed that function. With the exception of some brief delays which did not interfere with the carrying out of the program complete in every detail, the occasion proved most auspicious in every way and the stamp of popular approval unmistakably placed on Kingston enterprise was emphatic and enthusiastic in the extreme.

The greeting to Governor Whitman was as hearty ag that popular official could desire. For fully a half hour before the time set for his arrival on the ferry Transport from Rhinecliff, crowds of automobiles and pedestrians had gathered in the vicinity of the ferry shed Judge Hasbrouck with Mayor Canfield met the governor and his military aide, Captain Lorillard Spencer, at the Rhinecliff station with an automobile and the party on its arrival in Kingston was greeted with a chorus of automobile salutes from the fifty or more machines banked near the Ferry street terminus.

With Charles A. Warren's machine carrying a squad of Boy Scouts and their official flag at the head of the procession, the automobile containing the governor came next and then the long strung out line of automobiles made up the escort to Judge Hasbrouck's residence on Clinton avenue. All along flag-bedecked Broadway waiting throngs of children and grown-ups greeted the executive whose hand and hat were kept busy in acknowledging salutes until final arrival at the destination.

The governor has had a busy time this week with speeches at Rochester and Syracuse and up to the time of his reception at the Kingston Club every consideration was shown the guest of honor. The reception at the club, which was confined to the membership, gave an opportunity for many Kingstonians to meet and greet the governor.

At 7:20 o'clock the eighty members of Company M under Captain Meagher and headed by Muller's band marched up Broadway to Fair street where they were joined by about eighty Boy Scouts and the parade then marched and countermarched about the streets in that section of the city until 8:30 o'clock when the governor was met at Judge Hasbrouck's home and to the martial strains of the band was finally escorted to the armory where the militiamen broke ranks and the executive entered to a resounding chorus of foots from the automobiles lined up on the crowded floor of the drill hall.

Makes Address To High School Pupils

Character of the Audience Made Governor Whitman's Appearance in the High School Most Interesting Feature of His Visit to Kingston.

All the more interesting because of not being on the bills, the visit of Governor Whitman to the high school this morning was a decided novelty which because of an unfortunate insufficiency in announcement was not taken advantage of by the public to any extent, only a handful of citizens being present beside the upwards of 800 students in attendance at the usual morning exercise in the auditorium. Notwithstanding the fact, however, it was plain that the audience was perhaps the most interesting that it fell to the lot of the governor to confront during his entire eighteen hour sojourn in Kingston.

With every student and teacher standing, the entrance of the party was impressively simple and the handclapping which greeted Governor Whitman's appearance on the stage showed an appreciation of his presence by the entire student body that was reflected in the governor's brief address. Principal Moulton presented the governor and with him on the stage were President Sam Bernstein of the board of education, Superintendent Michael and President Bogart of the automobile club with Messrs Baucus and Baker with Judge Hasbrouck and Captain Spencer, the governor's aide

"I may not look like it, but I am a soldier," was the governor's opening sentence," I am commander-in-chief of the 17,000 soldiers comprising the New York State National Guard whose numbers perhaps include the brothers and the fathers of some of you here."

Continuing the Governor called attention to the fact that he was a sailor also by virtue of a similar with respect to the naval reserve.

"The state navy has a flagship too," he said, "a flagship nailed to the dock in New York—if I've got to command a ship I very much prefer it should be nailed to a dock!" This sally was greeted with laughter

Of both these branches of defense for which the State is paying from two to three millions a year to maintain, the executive spoke in praise, referring to the regard felt by the commonwealth for these men to whom the state must look to keep it safe and "to hold those things which you and I have received from our fathers and our fathers' fathers.

"The state trusts these two forces, military and naval, and would look to them at once if need be," he declared, and then went on to tell his hearers of the many criticisms that beset the executive pathway in the approving of these and other necessary appropriations for the welfare of the state Such criticism, he held, was a proper right for the people to exercise in the disapproval of the actions of public officials if they felt so inclined. He affirmed, however, his belief in the militia and the great extent to which the state must depend upon these forces for safety, and the protection of the lives and property if the occasion should ever arise.

"But there is an army," he declared, "bigger than the United States regular army, greater than the greatest army ever engaged on the soil of this vast country of ours. We have this army in this great state of ours and I'm not its commander-in-chief but only partially so. I refer to the boys and girls who comprise the most precious army in the world to the fathers and mothers, the men and the women who are honestly concerned about the welfare of this great state of ours."

Against the two or three millions expended for the militia, he explained, the state by its taxpayers and through the counties and cities and villages is spending today on its army of boys and girls ninety millions of dollars annually, a sum which make possible the benefiting of ever child within the state, everyone of whom not by virtue of being born rich or poor, but merely because they were born in the state, secures this heritage, a proper service to the children who in a most fitting and proper sense belong to the state.

"Here," he said, "is our greatest and finest and best armory ever created for the equipment, training and discipline of its soldiers, fitting our boys and girls to become real pillars of the state and the nation in future years. Here in a very true sense you are training as soldiers to take your part in the great battle of life. As you school yourselves here, so shall you conduct yourselves in the larger field of actual service.

"In the make-up of the soldier, a great deal depends upon the individual. 'No man ever makes a soldier of another,' is the saying of that great French general which rings true today. It all depends upon you as an individual the same as the soldier's training depends upon himself. Nobody can harm you here, nobody can injure you here, as much as you can injure yourself.

"We cannot do as we please in this world always, a fact to which self-discipline will teach you to adjust yourself. This beautiful school with its superb advantages with which the city of Kingston has so bountifully endowed you means in itself a privilege and a great opportunity to give the boys and girls a greater tomorrow than that of today. There is no greater time to work than the present, there is no greater time in all the world's history in which to live than today.

"In a sense I believe Judge Hasbrouck and these other gentlemen feel as I do and I express to you and for you, the boys and girls of this great state of ours, the hope that these opportunities may be grasped and fulfilled to their utmost to develop higher standards of citizenship. By this I do not mean to say a higher type of citizenship than was exhibited by the pioneer men and women whose self-denial and self-sacrifices developed a standard unequalled in the annals of civilization, but I do mean that these advantages may be so used by you that you may make yourselves better men and women, fit descendants of the noble men and women who have made this state what it is and who gave up their lives to make this nation what it is and that this nation might be protected for all the years to come."

An enthusiastic outburst of applause greeted the governor's conclusion, after which the executive party left the building so that the governor could connect with the Empire State Express train for Albany at Rhinecliff.

TAYLOR FIRST IN ANNAPOLIS EXAM

Results have just been received at the office of Congressman Ward of the competitive examination which he held at Kingston on March 22nd to determine the scholarship standing of the young men of this congressional district who desired an appointment to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Francis Taylor, of Kingston, with an average of 91.60 per cent gained the highest standing and as a result of making the highest average in the examination will be appointed if he qualifies in the physical test and entrance examinations to be held on April 18.

In the event of the failure of the principal to pass the entrance examinations, Leo J. Larkin, of Ellenville, having made the second highest rating with an average of 85.76 per cent will be nominated as first alternate, Charles W. Egan, of Valatie, with an average of 81.40 per cent, second alternate, and Sherman V. Hasbrouck, of Stone Ridge, with an average of 80.73 per cent, third alternate.

The other candidates taking the examination, receiving rank in the order named, were John L. Hoffman, of Sharon Springs, Raymond M. Hicks, of Kingston, and Charles J. Matzinger, of Liberty.

Taylor is to be complimented for the excellent showing which he made. He was graduated last June from Kingston Academy. Kingston will be honored to have another of its youths enter the institution and will join in hoping that Mr. Taylor successfully passes the final test, together with the physical examination which he must undergo before entering the academy. Taylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H M. Taylor of John street, and is at present employed in the down town Atlantic & Pacific Tea Store.

High School Concert.

Posters announcing the High School Glee Concert Friday evening, April 7, have been distributed through the city and call music lovers' attention to a treat for them. Over a hundred voices will comprise the chorus and popular selections will be rendered Extra rehearsals are being held nights to put on the finishing touches.

GASOLINE GOING NO HIGHER.

Head of Automobile Organization Pooh-Poohs Dire Predictions.

After a thorough investigation of the situation and prospects Alfred Reeves, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday that he is satisfied the high point in the present rise of gasoline had been reached. "Our information leads us to the conclusion that the oil refiners are not likely, under any excuse whatever, to make further advances in the price," Mr. Reeves said. "It is pretty generally understood that the market will be downward instead of upward. As to these sensational reports, it ill becomes government officials to predict 45 cent gasoline with such facts as are now available in government reports. The automobile industry looks to the government and its experts for relief from every gasoline difficulty. We object to the statement that the war is responsible for the price, because the government figures prove that the export of all mineral oils in 1915 was only 5 per cent more than in 1914; and so far as gasoline is concerned, these figures show only 112,000,000 gallons exported in 1915, against 162,000,000 in 1914."

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Fashionable Gown.

1539—Semi-Princess Dress for Misses and Small Women (with Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths.)

Serge, poplin, voile, taffeta, velvet and corduroy could be used for this design. The model is cut with waist back and fronts combined with the skirt portions. The waist portions are lengthened over the sides by plaited skirt portions. The sleeve is close fitting in wrist length. Both this length and the short style have a neat cuff finish. The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. It requires 5⅛ yards of 44 inch material for a 16 year size; the skirt measures 3⅛ yards at the foot with plaits drawn out.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

The KITCHEN CABINET

The resourcefulness of today is the outcome of experience with the odds of yesterday.

DELICIOUS DISHES.

When it seems hard to find something for dessert try this:

Peach Melba. — In a sherbet cup place a cone of ice cream on top the half of a canned peach, over this pour a tablespoonful of raspberry sirup, stick four sweet wafers around the side of the cup and serve.

Peach Canapes.—Cook in a little butter circular pieces of sponge cake until delicately brown. Drain canned peaches and place with a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan over the heat, add a grating of nutmeg and a few drops of lemon juice. When hot serve on the hot circles of cake.

Add a little cooked rice to the meat loaf. It will make it go farther, add to the flavor and slice in neat slices either hot or cold.

When roasting beef sprinkle the top, while roasting, with finely minced onion, it adds to the flavor of both meat and gravy.

To make a truly elegant dish of roast leg of lamb, roast with a sprinkling of chopped onion or onion juice mixed with lemon juice, using a teaspoonful of onion and half a lemon. Spread the leg with a thin coating of jelly, either currant or gooseberry, and baste while roasting.

Paper Gingersnaps.—Boil a cupful of molasses five minutes, add a teaspoonful of soda, a half cupful of lard and a tablespoonful of ginger. Cool and stir in flour enough to roll very thin. Bake in a hot oven.

Tomato Marmalade.—Take a cupful of pulp, that is strained tomato through a sieve to remove the seeds, add one and a half cupfuls of sugar, the juice of a lemon, a half teaspoonful of the acid that comes in the package with acidulated gelatin, a half teaspoonful of ginger and a little allspice. Cook until thick. Serve with roast beef.

A delicious dish with corn is prepared with a layer of tomatoes and a layer of corn, seasoned with salt, pepper, onion juice and covered with buttered crumbs. Bake until well heated through.

MOMBACCUS HEIGHTS.

Mombaccus Heights, March 30.—The Rev. Ambrose Quick attended the M. E. conference at Peekskill during the past week or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Simpson of Pataukunk visited her mother, Mrs. Harriet Morehouse, on Sunday.

Raph Depuy of Unadilla and Miss Edna Smith of this place were quietly married on Saturday afternoon by the Rev. H. D. Frost at the Reformed parsonage at Accord. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Lorin Davis of Granite. The happy couple left on the evening train for Unadilla, where the groom has a furnished home prepared for his bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Van Etten spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Ambrose Quick.

S. Lavine is spending some time in New York.

The regular monthly service was held in the Reformed Church on Sunday afternoon.

Abram Smith and family, Alfred Rose, Leonard Van Etten, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Smith, Mrs. Harry Smith and Miss Olive Smith were callers at James Lennon's on Sunday, during the day and evening.

F. P. Smith was an Accord visitor Monday.

The roads are improving some. They were very bad for any kind of travel when the big drifts began to soften.

A break down to part of the machinery caused a stagnation at the saw mill recently, making a trip to Kingston necessary for the proprietor.

WEATHER FAVORS AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Kingston's big automobile show was again favored by fine weather today and again a large crowd turned out to view the machines on exhibition. Without a doubt the exhibit is one of the finest ever seen in any city along the river and nearly all of the well known makes of machines are shown, making the task of purchasing a new car a rather difficult problem for the would be buyers. The choice is so large and the machines all so close to the high standard that it is not an altogether easy task to decide upon which is best. Not only purchasers but many who are now owners and have no intention of buying, are in attendance simply to see the latest appliances and accessories which are shown in the side rooms off the big drill shed.

Trucks Attract Attention.

The exhibits outside the armory are attracting much attention from the business men as most of these exhibits are of trucks. A Vim truck from the Central Garage attracted a great deal of attention from the man who faces the light delivery problem while a larger Reo from the same agent answered the wants of the more heavy delivery. The big Gramm and Koehler trucks from George Schryver's Garage, both on exhibition, are models of the heavy machines. A light Overland delivery car also is in evidence from this same concern's show rooms.

From Fiat to Ford.

Inside the armory are all sizes and prices, from the ever ready Ford runabout handled by Millard's Garage to a monster of a Fiat car selling at $4,850. The Fiat is sold in town by the Stuyvesant Garage and in this line are many bodies and different models and types. These cars are made at Poughkeepsie, although the machine was originally of foreign make but owing to the large demand an American branch was established in America.

Franklin Exhibit Convincing.

Forsyth & Davis, dealers in town for the Franklin, the best known air cooled automobile, also Chandler, Grant and Mac Farlan cars, have a model of each of their products on exhibition. In the Franklin exhibit is a novel display. A board on which is placed all of the different parts which have been eliminated by the air cooled motor, is the center of attraction. For the average motorist to realize that the cooling of a motor requires these hundreds of large and small parts is a difficult matter, but nevertheless the Franklin people have not only realized the fact but have eliminated them by the direct air cooling feature which has made their car famous.

Schryver's Exhibit.

The Kingston Taxi Service have one of the most interesting exhibits, consisting of a huge Willys Knight and three of the smaller relatives of this car, the Overland. The reputation of these cars is undisputed and the company is turning out hundreds of thousands of cars annually.

Luxurious Cadillac.

The Cadillac, handled by the Ulster Garage, Martin H. Snyder, proprietor, is one of the most luxurious and well equipped cars manufactured and for performance is unexcelled, the eight cylinder Cadillac being famous for its service. A six cylinder Paige also handled by this firm attracts much attention.

A Great Combination.

Van's Garage have a combination which it is hard to beat. The famous Packard Twin-six, two Studebakers, the Chalmers and Dodge. Whether a high priced high grade car or a medium priced high grade car, Van's combination is sure to please.

Lezatte's Pullman.

N. C. Lezatte and Son, who have the agency for the Pullman, have two models on exhibition, a touring car and one of the new three passenger clover leaf types.

The Bright Red Spot.

Beside the big Fiat of The Stuyvesant Garage a model of the Oldsmobile and also the fiery red car of Chief Chipp are shown. Here Bert Chambers has an exhibition of the Winton 33, one of the first firms to make sixes exclusively, and also the Maxwell, which has recently completed a record continuous run in California. These little cars are making a name for themselves and every one who followed road and track racing for the past year knows of the records hung up by these little speed marvels. Not only at speed alone but hill climbing and continuous performance these cars have established records of which many another company may cast wishing glances.

Of Course, the Ford.

Kingston's show would not be complete without an exhibit by James Millard and Son, local dealers for the reliable Ford car. The fact that over 900,000 were sold during the past year is evidence of their reliability and quality. A full line of bodies is exhibited, only one chassis being made by that company, the famous model T.

Kennedy's Outdoor Show.

O. M. Kennedy, who has an open air exhibit of the Vim and Reo trucks, has a booth where the Saxon six touring car and four runabout together with the Reo four and six. In this exhibit is a Saxon six chassis with an able demonstrator to explain all of the points of the machine.

The Super-Six and Others.

A Great Combination.

The Oakland and the Mitchell Six of Sixteen are shown by Stryker & Youmans and are a combination hard to beat for actual performance. The Mitchell six motor has become known as a marvel of engineering ability and is so flexible that a speed of from four miles an hour to more than is safe to use on a highway may be obtained without changing gears and from the minimum to the maximum speed requires but a few seconds.

The Little Brothers.

The motorcycle exhibit is very complete and between A. L. Terpening who handles the Harley-Davidson and the Miami motor-bike and Charles N. Behrens with the Indian the two wheelers are fairly represented. The eight valve Indian racer, which has attained a speed of 94 miles an hour at the Chicago Speedway, attracts the attention of those interested in these speedy little brothers of the automobile. At the booth of the Indian motorcycle riders may obtain applications for the New York state licences which are required by motorcycles in accordance to a new law to go into effect.

The Accessories.

The accessories are shown in a side room to the right of the main entrance and form one of the most interesting branches to the man who at present owns a car. Charles A. Warren, the Brown Auto Supply Company, J. G. Johnson, the Eagle Garage, Forsyth & Davis and Burt Chambers have all a most complete line of supplies and accessories pertaining to machines. James Austin and L. S. Winne also have exhibits of supplies.

The Tireless One.

Harris Brown of Brown's Vulcanizing Works is on hand to explain and tell about the tire business. Mr. Brown has one of the best equipped vulcanizing departments in the Hudson valley and all motorists who are thoughtful of their tires, one of the biggest items of upkeep, have learned that "if it's tires, see Brown." Mr. Brown is the local agent for the famous Diamond squeegee tread tire but also is glad to quote attractive prices on all standard makes.

Attractions Tonight.

Undoubtedly the attendance at the show this evening will equal that of last evening when an eager throng attended to hear Governor Whitman speak. Secretary of State Hugo will be the speaker and everyone who has heard him knows of his ability and will want to hear him again tonight. There is no doubt in the minds of those in charge that tonight and tomorrow night when Judge Cunningham speaks the crowd will be as large or larger than last evening when the governor of New York state was the speaker.

"Silas Marner" at the Casino.

Lovers of the works of George Eliot will be interested in the motion picture production of "Silas Marner" which will be staged at the Casino on Broadway on Saturday afternoon and evening. This dramatization has been pronounced one of the most accurate and all familiar with the story can understand how its action can be faithfully reproduced on the screen with an interpretation that would not feel the need of the spoken word in the slightest degree to tell the pretty tale of how the golden hair of a child came to take the place of the gold treasure stolen from the weaver miser. Motion pictures on such subjects never fail to draw forth a wide degree of support from lovers of motion pictures whose ranks include all stations in life.

Fate of Kelder House Uncertain.

It is not known whether the Kelder homestead on Fair street will be renovated into a store by S. Weisberg, who has bought the property, or a new structure erected on the site. Definite plans will soon be made.

Woolsey-Donnelly.

Ralph Merritt Woolsey of No. 124 Green street and Miss Maria Agnes Donnelly of No. 69 Cedar street, were united in marriage on Monday, March 20, by the Rev. John J. Hickey.

Sterilized Instruments

After every operation in a Cady Dental Office, instruments are sterilized by boiling them for twenty minutes. In the five offices, Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Middletown, Newburgh and Peekskill, there are ten dental nurses engaged in this work. This sterilization of instruments safeguards the 20,000 yearly patients of these offices.

GASOLINE GOING NO HIGHER.

Head of Automobile Organization Pooh-Poohs Dire Predictions.

After a thorough investigation of the situation and prospects Alfred Reeves, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday that he is satisfied the high point in the present rise of gasoline had been reached. "Our information leads us to the conclusion that the oil refiners are not likely, under any excuse whatever, to make further advances in the price," Mr. Reeves said. "It is pretty generally understood that the market will be downward instead of upward. As to these sensational reports, it ill becomes government officials to predict 45 cent gasoline with such facts as are now available in government reports. The automobile industry looks to the government and its experts for relief from every gasoline difficulty. We object to the statement that the war is responsible for the price, because the government figures prove that the export of all mineral oils in 1915 was only 5 per cent more than in 1914; and so far as gasoline is concerned, these figures show only 112,000,000 gallons exported in 1915, against 162,000,000 in 1914."

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Fashionable Gown.

Serge, poplin, voile, taffeta, velvet and corduroy could be used for this design. The model is cut with waist back and fronts combined with the skirt portions. The waist portions are lengthened over the sides by plaited skirt portions. The sleeve is close fitting in wrist length. Both this length and the short style have a neat cuff finish. The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. It requires 5⅛ yards of 44 inch material for a 16 year size; the skirt measures 3½ yards at the foot with plaits drawn out.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

The KITCHEN CABINET

A man without ambition is like a busted bank, all building and no assets. —Caxton.

The resourcefulness of today is the outcome of experience with the odds of yesterday.

DELICIOUS DISHES.

When it seems hard to find something for dessert try this:

Peach Melba. — In a sherbet cup place a cone of ice cream on top the half of a canned peach, over this pour a tablespoonful of raspberry sirup, stick four sweet wafers around the side of the cup and serve.

Peach Canapes.—Cook in a little butter circular pieces of sponge cake until delicately brown. Drain canned peaches and place with a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan over the heat, add a grating of nutmeg and a few drops of lemon juice. When hot serve on the hot circles of cake.

Add a little cooked rice to the meat loaf. It will make it go farther, add to the flavor and slice in neat slices either hot or cold.

When roasting beef sprinkle the top, while roasting, with finely minced onion, it adds to the flavor of both meat and gravy.

To make a truly elegant dish of roast leg of lamb, roast with a sprinkling of chopped onion or onion juice mixed with lemon juice, using a teaspoonful of onion and half a lemon. Spread the leg with a thin coating of jelly, either currant or gooseberry, and baste while roasting.

Paper Gingersnaps.—Boil a cupful of molasses five minutes, add a teaspoonful of soda, a half cupful of lard and a tablespoonful of ginger. Cool and stir in flour enough to roll very thin. Bake in a hot oven.

Tomato Marmalade.—Take a cupful of pulp, that is strained tomato through a sieve to remove the seeds, add one and a half cupfuls of sugar, the juice of a lemon, a half teaspoonful of the acid that comes in the package with acidulated gelatin, a half teaspoonful of ginger and a little allspice. Cook until thick. Serve with roast beef.

A delicious dish with corn is prepared with a layer of tomatoes and a layer of corn, seasoned with salt, pepper, onion juice and covered with buttered crumbs. Bake until well heated through.

MOMBACCUS HEIGHTS.

Mombaccus Heights, March 30.—The Rev. Ambrose Quick attended the M. E. conference at Peekskill during the past week or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Simpson of Pataukunk visited her mother, Mrs. Harriet Morehouse, on Sunday.

Raph Depuy of Unadilla and Miss Edna Smith of this place were quietly married on Saturday afternoon by the Rev. H. D. Frost at the Reformed parsonage at Accord. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Lorin Davis of Granite. The happy couple left on the evening train for Unadilla, where the groom has a furnished home prepared for his bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Van Etten spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Ambrose Quick.

S. Lavine is spending some time in New York.

The regular monthly service was held in the Reformed Church on Sunday afternoon.

Abram Smith and family, Alfred Rose, Leonard Van Etten, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Smith, Mrs. Harry Smith and Miss Olive Smith were callers at James Lennon's on Sunday, during the day and evening.

F. P. Smith was an Accord visitor Monday.

The roads are improving some. They were very bad for any kind of travel when the big drifts began to soften.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAR. 31, 1916.

An experiment that may be worth while will be watched with interest next week when Superintendent Ashley, of the Middletown State Hospital, will take the celebrated artist Blakelock to New York to attend an exhibition of Blakelock's paintings in order to study closely the effect on the artist of the plunge into artistic surroundings after nearly seventeen years of seclusion in the Middletown Hospital. Some of Blakelock's art commands fabulous prices. An Ohio museum recently paid $26,000 for one of his paintings. Since he has been at Middletown he has not painted pictures. When he went there his fame had not become sufficiently established to permit his acquiring a competence for the benefit of those dependent upon him and next week's exhibition of his work has been arranged for the purpose of realizing funds for such dependents. In recent talks Blakelock has shown signs of returning activity of his memory and after the lapse of nearly seventeen years, during which his artistic ability and thought have been in involuntary subjection, if they have not suffered annihilation, the experiment of endeavoring to revive the particular brain corrugations responsible for his former genius is at least worth trying.

Fifty years ago, when Artemus Ward was in his prime, there must have been a Congress similar to the one we have in Washington today. The great humorist rose to the occasion and issued "Advice to Congress," as follows:

Gentlemen of th' senate an' also of the house, you've sat there an' drawed your pay an' heard yourselfs talk long enuff. The country at large, includin' th' undersigned, is displeesed with you. Why don't you do somethin' that will stir the popular heart under the public weskit? Why don't you produce a statesman who can rise up an' meet the emergency an' bat it over th' head? Why don't you quit your everlastin' talkin' an' git to work?

In a speshal 'lection in my district th' other day, I delibritly voted for Henry Clay.

I admit that Henry Clay has been a long time dead, but inasmuch as we haven't anny live statesman in our nashunal mob of law-jugglers, let us by all means secure a first-class dead one!

The United States has an exciting history, and it is notable that in every great emergency some man did arise who could "meet it an' bat it over th' head." In the complicated situation in which we now find ourselves the big man is as yet hidden from our view. President Wilson is a lamentable failure, but he insists upon being boss of the situation, so that strong men like Garrison are squelched. Thus he is able to delay the coming of the man of the hour, but not to prevent it. The next few years will teem with thrilling experiences.

Addressing a New York suffrage audience several days ago, Mrs. Bertrand Russell, suffrage worker and philanthropist, said if she had her way she would say: "'Don't let any of the men go on the battlefield before they are 60 or 70.' We don't want to lose our healthiest and youngest. It would be perfectly fair, wouldn't it, if everyone did the same?" The cheerful egotism of Sister Russell and her sublime contempt for men of 60 or 70 is refreshing. A few years ago Dr. Osler attained prominence by his theory that men should be chlorformed when they became 50 years old, yet the affairs of the world continue to be guided largely by men over that age. When they are 60 or 70 do men lose their attraction to Sister Russell? Beyond that age it is doubtful if most men could carry guns or manage mortars on the battlefield, but they are active enough at 60 or 70 to wreak considerable damage. What an inspiring sight, too, of gray beards cannonading each other, cheered by the thought that their more active sons and grandsons are back home enjoying good health and becoming converts to the cause espoused by Sister Russell. The all-round self-sacrifice is beautiful to contemplate, surely. Of course it would be all right "if everyone did the same." There are great possibilities in "if." "If" all men had the same ideas, they might all vote for suffrage "if" all the women were alike. "If" we have sufficient imagination and faith we may yet see Rip Van Winkle's companions creating thunder with guns instead of rolling pins—"if" we are foolish enough to believe such a thing possible.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Does he occupy his pulpit satisfactorily?" "Well, he has gained twenty pounds since he came with us."—Judge.

Jones—"Does my daughter's piano practice annoy you?" Neighbor—"Oh, not at all. But tell me; what does she wear—mittens or boxing-gloves?"—Life.

"How are things at your wife's club?" "All right. Everything they undertake is thoroughly misunderstood and disagreed upon."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Why do you dislike your teacher so, Willie?" "I don't exactly dislike her, but it's perfectly plain to me why she never got married."—Detroit Free Press.

Husband—"This is the limit! You've ordered two new dresses—don't you know that we are already head over ears in debt?" Wife—"Oh, yes, I know—but the dressmaker doesn't."—Boston Transcript.

"I know you don't believe in gambling, and I play cards and bet on the races, but I can prove my moral superiority in so doing." "Then prove it." "You are a good man—I don't deny it. But I am a bettor."—Baltimore American.

Representative Volemer, answering at a Washington luncheon an attack against his armament exportation bill said: "These men misunderstood my bill. They misunderstood it as completely as the young lady misunderstood the lasso. A young lady, pointing to the lasso coiled on his pommel, said to a cowboy: "What is that line for?" "To catch steers and hosses ma'am," the cowboy answered. 'Indeed!' said the young lady, looking rather astonished. 'And what bait do you use?'"—Norfolk Virginia Pilot.

A True Prophet.

A lady took her 10-year-old, red-haired, freckled son inside. The woman of wisdom bent over the crystal ball.

"Your son will be a very distinguished man if he lives long enough!" she murmured in deep, mysterious tones.

"Oh, how nice!" gushed the proud mother. "And what will he be distinguished for?"

The Head of the House.

Col. J. J. Irish, who is a strong anti-suffragist, said in San Francisco.

"The recent elections show plainly the unpopularity of woman suffrage. I think the voters were wise. There are enough husbands already in Brown's boots.

"Brown and Black," continued Colonel Irish, "were arguing at their club on the question as to who should be the head of the house—the man or the woman.

"'I'm the breadwinner,' Black said firmly, 'and, therefore, I rule in my house.'

"'Well,' said Brown, 'before we were married my wife and I made an agreement that I should make the rulings in all the major things, and she in all the minor ones.'

"'And how has it worked?' Black inquired.

"Brown smiled wanly. 'So far,' he replied, 'no major matters have come up.'"—San Francisco Bulletin.

As She is Spoke in Lunnon.

Times were bad—very bad, indeed. No wonder that Af and 'Erb, who lived by their wits and nimble fingers, were discouraged. Surely this was no place for a man who desired to turn an honest penny. "It's most ernough to myke one grow honest," grumbled Alf, the dogmaster, as he pored through the "Lost and Found" column of a daily paper. "Ayn't there nuffin'?" asked his pal. "Not arf of nuffin'," grunted Alf. "Why, where's your eyes, Alf?" said 'Erb, a minute later. "Listen 'ere, "Lorst at 4 o'clock last evenin', a black poodle, between Shottlegate Stryt and Grimstone Drive. No questions arst. Take 'em the bloomin' poodle yer collared this mornink." "They're arskin' for a black poodle, funny," sneered Alf, "and mines a white 'un." "Garn, that doesn't matter," retorted 'Erb. "Jes' tell 'em it 'owled ori night and turned white wif grief."—Argonaut.

Breeches Wearing.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw said, in Philadelphia, in an address on the divorce evil:

"Another cause of divorce is domineering on the wife's part—her wearing of the breeches, as the old saw has it.

"Is there much of this wifely breeches wearing? Well, I know, at any rate, a man whose little boy once said to him at the theatre:

"'Pa, what's a leading woman?'

"The man answered, gloomily:

"'Any married woman, my son.'"—Philadelphia North American.

HE SAW THE GOVERNOR.

But in His Hurry He Fell and Broke His Arm.

Little Jimmy Welch of No. 156 Fair street, fell and broke his arm on Thursday evening. The lad was running to see the governor and his escort marching to the armory to open the automobile show and in his hurry he slipped and fell. Dr. Frank A. Johnston, the health officer, attended to his injuries.

YES—IT IS POSSIBLE TO STOP RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is a tormenting and stubborn malady. In some cases it yields to treatment which is without avail in other cases.

The darting pains, lame muscles or stiffened joints only disappear by gradually expelling the uric acid, and so many thousands have been relieved by the blood-enriching oil-food in Scott's Emulsion that you should give it a faithful trial. Scott's Emulsion acts as a powerful blood-purifier by increasing the red corpuscles and it strengthens the organs to carry off the acids which cause the trouble.

Try Scott's Emulsion. It cannot harm. It has helped thousands and may be exactly what you need. No Alcohol.

MASONS TO VISIT HOME AT UTICA

The Masons of the Fifteenth Masonic District, comprising the counties of Ulster and Greene, will take a pilgrimage to the Masonic Home at Utica, on Sunday, April 16. A special train has been chartered for the trip which will stop at Highland, Kingston, Saugerties, Catskill and Coxsackie. The hour of departure from these points has not yet been fixed but the plan is to arrive at the home about 1 o'clock in the afternoon and returning to arrive at Kingston at about eleven. Further details of the pilgrimage will be announced later. The children of the home will give the visitors an entertainment in the chapel during the afternoon and the brothers will have ample time to inspect and go through the buildings and the property. There are fourteen lodges in the district and over 3,000 Masons. All are co-operating in making this pilgrimage a success and a great delegation is expected to avail themselves of this opportunity. The railroad fare for the round trip is to be $3.10. Arrangements are being made to discharge the passengers at the home, there being switching accommodations there. This pilgrimage is being conducted under the auspices of Kingston Lodge, No. 10 and Rondout Lodge, No. 343, both of which have appointed a committee of arrangements.

METTACAHONTS.

Mettacahonts, March 30.—Miss Ray Markle has returned home, after a very pleasant trip of several days spent at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Charles E. Woolsey, Clinton avenue, Kingston.

A very pleasant surprise party was given Miss Hazel Baker at her parent's home. A large crowd was in attendance and a jolly evening enjoyed by all. Dancing was indulged in, games were played, also cards. Dainty refreshments were served, and all left at a late hour, wishing Miss Baker would soon entertain again.

The black and white bird dog of Fred Hendrickson, which had been missing for nearly two weeks, was located at Stephen Davis's at Krumville, by an item in Friday's Freeman. Mr. Hendrickson went after the dog and brought him back. The dog is an exceptionally fine and valuable bird dog, and Mr. Hendrickson was very glad to find him.

Mrs. Floyd Depuy was entertained on Thursday evening by Mrs. C. B. Osterhoudt.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Osterhoudt and children and Mr. and Mrs. John Vandemark and children were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Burger on Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Earl Miller was kicked by a horse at Jacob Baker's on Friday.

Charlie Depuy was a visitor at Mombaccus Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hendrickson will move this coming week from their present location to a house nearer his work at Accord. We will miss them very much from this place, and regret seeing them go.

A large crowd, comprising five sleigh loads, attended the meeting in the church Sunday evening. All regret the condition of the roads, while Mr. Walter was among us, causing many people to fail seeing him.

Some of our people are planning on attending the automobile show this week.

Automobile Collision.

Through some mistake in signals two automobiles collided at the corner of John street and Wall street about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. One machine was proceeding down Wall street when a second machine came out of John street. The King machine which was proceeding down Wall street was struck in the rear slightly bending the mud guards while the headlight of the other machine was broken and the guard also bent. A crowd quickly gathered but there was little excitement and both machines proceeded on their way.

Home Made Food Sale.

There will be a home made food sale Saturday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock at the Wolven dry goods store on Wall street. Cakes, pies, biscuits, bread, etc., will be on sale. The proceeds from this sale will be for the McBride memorial building fund of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church.

Chronic Grouch.

The subject under discussion was lucky signs, omens and the like. "I must confess to being a firm believer in number seven," remarked a successful tradesman. "For instance, there are just seven letters in the word success." "Yes, and in failure, too," growled the inevitable pessimist.—Exchange.

American Suits for American Men

When a man orders a suit, generally he doesn't care a rap what they're wearing in Paris. He isn't looking for the latest frills of the London tailors. He wants something like the right dressers of his own city and country are wearing. He would dress as real red-blooded men of today dress. And this is as it should be. He wants his suit well made, so that it will fit his particular lines. He wants it made of good material—to stand lots of wear and still be good material. That's the kind of suits we make. Come in and look over our new Spring suitings.

EAST KINGSTON GIRLS MISSING

Two Girls Who Work in City Factories Are Missing—Police Last Heard That They Had Bought Tickets For Highland and Left City.

It was reported to the police on Wednesday that Miss Dowanda Gilbert, 15 years old, and Miss Ada Flannigan, aged 16 years, had failed to return to their homes in East Kingston Tuesday evening. They work in local factories and return home every evening in the East Kingston stage. Wednesday the anxious mothers appeared at police headquarters and said that their daughters had failed to return home as usual. They were of the impression that they had stayed at the home of a girl friend on O'Neil street. The police investigated and learned that the girls had not stayed in Kingston over night but had bought two tickets for Highland and left on the West Shore train, leaving shortly after 7 o'clock. The parents are very anxious and any news of their whereabouts should be reported to police headquarters. No reason is known for their not returning home.

Mrs. Leslie McKinley entertained a number of friends at her home on Monday afternoon in honor of her son Edward's birthday. Those who were present in the afternoon were: Mrs. James Lauler and daughter, Margaret, Mrs. George Dunn, Mrs. Ira Hyde, Mrs. E. Haines, Mrs. Nathan Cole, Mrs. Frank Lasher, Mrs. Clifford Hicks and daughters, Dorothy and Marian, Mrs. Charles McDonald and daughters, Nellie and Florence, Mrs. John Myers, Mrs. Russel Mauer and son, Edward, Mrs. Margaret Hyatt, Evelyn Hotaling, Milton and Lauretta Blodgett and Edith Blodgett. At 6 o'clock a bountiful repast was served. Others who came for the evening were Mrs. John Mauer and daughter, Ida, Miss Katie Spinneweber, the Misses Annie and Katherine Cole, Nettie and Helen Clair, Josie Bechtold, Annie Schriver, Maggie Blitzover and the Misses Emma and Julia Myers. Little Edward received a number of useful presents.

Mrs. John Gurney, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, is still confined to her bed.

Thomas Crittenden was called east on account of the serious illness of his mother. Mrs. Crittenden is a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Watts, at Kingston.

Poor Coffee in Java.

It is said that nowhere in the world is coffee, the drink, worse than in Java, where coffee, the bean, is supposed to be at its very best. Japanese distill coffee essence of extreme strength, bottle it, and pour a few drops into a cup of hot water when they wish refreshment.

Possible Enjoyment.

"Bliggins is trying to be an optimist." "The last time I saw him he thought everything was going to smash." "He thinks so yet. But he's getting into a frame of mind that makes him suspect that maybe he'll enjoy seeing it happen."—Washington Star.

RIVER NAVIGATION STARTS SATURDAY

Attempt Will be Made to Open River to Navigation by Boats Leaving Albany and New York.

An attempt will be made Saturday to open the Hudson river to navigation. The Hudson Navigation Company will have the steamer Trojan leave Albany for down the river that day, provided the ice gorge at Stuyvesant moves out. The Central Hudson Steamboat Company will have the steamer Odell leave New York for Rondout that afternoon. It is not expected that the Odell, which has been running all winter between Poughkeepsie and New York, will have much trouble in breaking a channel through to Rondout.

KAISER SENDING SONS ON FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Prince Eitel Friedrich and Prince August Wilhelm.

London, March 30.—New activities for members of his family have been found by the kaiser. Prince August William, his fourth son, is expected to arrive shortly in Brussels to take up eventually the position of governor-general, now held by Gen. von Bissing.

It is understood that at first the prince will serve as assistant to Gen. von Bissing, but ultimately will supersede the present ruler.

Another son, Prince Eitel Friedrich, is said to have been delegated by the kaiser to go to Constantinople to present a sword of honor to the sultan in commemoration of the bravery of the Turkish army.

He is due to arrive soon, says a dispatch from Amsterdam. Two hundred especially picked policemen have been sent to Constantinople from Berlin to take precautionary measures for the safety of the prince. He will also visit the Turkish front in Asia Minor.

MARBLETOWN.

Marbletown, March 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Greene Lockwood of Stone Ridge spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. S. Myer.

Walter Markle and family moved to Stone Ridge one day the past week.

Mrs. Benjamin Bush is quite ill at this writing, Dr. Hutchins of High Falls is attending her.

Dr. Sherman of Stone Ridge called on Judge Myer, also inspected the school house in this place on Tuesday.

Mrs. Arthur Christiana of Cottekill spent Friday with her parents in this place.

How to Beat an Egg Quickly Without the Fuss of Whipping It.

Break the egg into an ordinary glass tumbler. Place a piece of clean tissue paper on the top. Hold it firmly down all round to keep out the air. Place the other hand on the top of the paper and shake the tumbler vigorously two or three times. The egg is then ready to use without any further effort and is as well beaten as if whipped for ten minutes.

How to Make Quince Marmalade For Breakfast Rolls.

Quince marmalade is made by grating or grinding the peeled and cored quinces fine; then to one cupful of quince pulp add two cupfuls of water and two and a half of sugar. Boil an hour, stirring often, and then pour into jelly glasses.

WEATHER FAVORS AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Kingston's big automobile show was again favored by fine weather today and again a large crowd turned out to view the machines on exhibition. Without a doubt the exhibit is one of the finest ever seen in any city along the river and nearly all of the well known makes of machines are shown, making the task of purchasing a new car a rather difficult problem for the would-be buyers. The choice is so large and the machines all so close to the high standard that it is not an altogether easy task to decide upon which is best. Not only purchasers but many who are now owners and have no intention of buying, are in attendance simply to see the latest appliances and accessories which are shown in the side rooms off the big drill shed.

Trucks Attract Attention.

The exhibits outside the armory are attracting much attention from the business men as most of these exhibits are of trucks. A Vim truck from the Central Garage attracted a great deal of attention from the man who faces the light delivery problem while a larger Reo from the same agent answered the wants of the more heavy delivery. The big Gramm and Koehler trucks from George Schryver's Garage, both on exhibition, are models of the heavy machines. A light Overland delivery car also is in evidence from this same concern's show rooms.

From Fiat to Ford.

Inside the armory are all sizes and prices, from the ever ready Ford runabout handled by Millard's Garage to a monster of a Fiat car selling at $4,850. The Fiat is sold in town by the Stuyvesant Garage and in this line are many bodies and different models and types. These cars are made at Poughkeepsie, although the machine was originally of foreign make but owing to the large demand an American branch was established in America.

Franklin Exhibit Convincing.

Forsyth & Davis, dealers in town for the Franklin, the best known air cooled automobile, also Chandler, Grant and Mac Farlan cars, have a model of each of their products on exhibition. In the Franklin exhibit is a novel display. A board on which is placed all of the different parts which have been eliminated by the air cooled motor, is the center of attraction. For the average motorist to realize that the cooling of a motor requires these hundreds of large and small parts is a difficult matter, but nevertheless the Franklin people have not only realized the fact but have eliminated them by the direct air cooling feature which has made their car famous.

Schryver's Exhibit.

The Kingston Taxi Service have one of the most interesting exhibits, consisting of a huge Willys Knight and three of the smaller relatives of this car, the Overland. The reputation of these cars is undisputed and the company is turning out hundreds of thousands of cars annually.

Luxurious Cadillac.

The Cadillac, handled by the Ulster Garage, Martin H. Snyder, proprietor, is one of the most luxurious and well equipped cars manufactured and for performance is unexcelled, the eight cylinder Cadillac being famous for its service. A six cylinder Paige also handled by this firm attracts much attention.

A Great Combination.

Van's Garage have a combination which it is hard to beat. The famous Packard Twin-six, two Studebakers, the Chalmers and Dodge. Whether a high priced high grade car or a medium priced high grade car, Van's combination is sure to please.

Lezatte's Pullman.

N. C. Lezatte and Son, who have the agency for the Pullman, have two models on exhibition, a touring car and one of the new three passenger clover leaf types.

The Bright Red Spot.

Beside the big Fiat of The Stuyvesant Garage a model of the Oldsmobile and also the fiery red car of Chief Chipp are shown. Here Bert Chambers has an exhibition of the Winton Six, one of the first firms to make sixes exclusively, and also the Maxwell, which has recently completed a record continuous run in California. These little cars are making a name for themselves and every one who followed road and track racing for the past year knows of the records hung up by these little speed marvels. Not only at speed alone but hill climbing and continuous performance these cars have established records of which many another company may fast wishing glances.

Of Course, the Ford.

Kingston's show would not be complete without an exhibit by James Millard and Son, local dealers for the reliable Ford car. The fact that over 900,000 were sold during the past year is evidence of their reliability and quality. A full line of bodies is exhibited, only one chassis being made by that company, the famous model T.

Kennedy's Outdoor Show.

O. M. Kennedy, who has an open air exhibit of the Vim and Reo trucks, has a booth where the Saxon six touring car and four runabout together with the Reo four and six. In this exhibit is a Saxon six chassis with an able demonstrator to explain all of the points of the machine.

The Super-Six and Others.

A Great Combination.

The Oakland and the Mitchell Six of Sixteen are shown by Stryker & Youmans and are a combination hard to beat for actual performance. The Mitchell six motor has become known as a marvel of engineering ability and is so flexible that a speed of from four miles an hour to more than is safe to use on a highway may be obtained without changing gears and from the minimum to the maximum speed requires but a few seconds.

The Little Brothers.

The motorcycle exhibit is very complete and between A. L. Terpening who handles the Harley-Davidson and the Miami motor-bike and Charles N. Behrens with the Indian the two wheelers are fairly represented. The eight valve Indian racer, which has attained a speed of 94 miles an hour at the Chicago Speedway, attracts the attention of those interested in these speedy little brothers of the automobile. At the booth of the Indian motorcycle riders may obtain applications for the New York state licences which are required by motorcycles in accordance to a new law to go into effect.

The Accessories.

The accessories are shown in a side room to the right of the main entrance and form one of the most interesting branches to the man who at present owns a car. Charles A. Warren, the Brown Auto Supply Company, J. G. Johnson, the Eagle Garage, Forsyth & Davis and Burt Chambers have all a most complete line of supplies and accessories pertaining to machines. James Austin and L. S. Winne also have exhibits of supplies.

The Tireless One.

Harris Brown of Brown's Vulcanizing Works is on hand to explain and tell about the tire business. Mr. Brown has one of the best equipped vulcanizing departments in the Hudson valley and all motorists who are thoughtful of their tires, one of the biggest items of upkeep, have learned that "if it's tires, see Brown." Mr. Brown is the local agent for the famous Diamond squeegee tread tire but also is glad to quote attractive prices on all standard makes.

Attractions Tonight.

Undoubtedly the attendance at the show this evening will equal that of last evening when an eager throng attended to hear Governor Whitman speak. Secretary of State Hugo will be the speaker and everyone who has heard him knows of his ability and will want to hear him again tonight. There is no doubt in the minds of those in charge that tonight and tomorrow night when Judge Cunningham speaks the crowd will be as large or larger than last evening when the governor of New York state was the speaker.

"Silas Marner" at the Casino.

Lovers of the works of George Eliot will be interested in the motion picture production of "Silas Marner" which will be staged at the Casino on Broadway on Saturday afternoon and evening. This dramatization has been pronounced one of the most accurate and all familiar with the story can understand how its action can be faithfully reproduced on the screen with an interpretation that would not feel the need of the spoken word in the slightest degree to tell the pretty tale of how the golden hair of a child came to take the place of the gold treasure stolen from the weaver miser. Motion pictures on such subjects never fail to draw forth a wide degree of support from lovers of motion pictures whose ranks include all stations in life.

Fate of Kelder House Uncertain.

It is not known whether the Kelder homestead on Fair street will be renovated into a store by S. Weisberg, who has bought the property, or a new structure erected on the site. Definite plans will soon be made.

Woolsey-Donnelly.

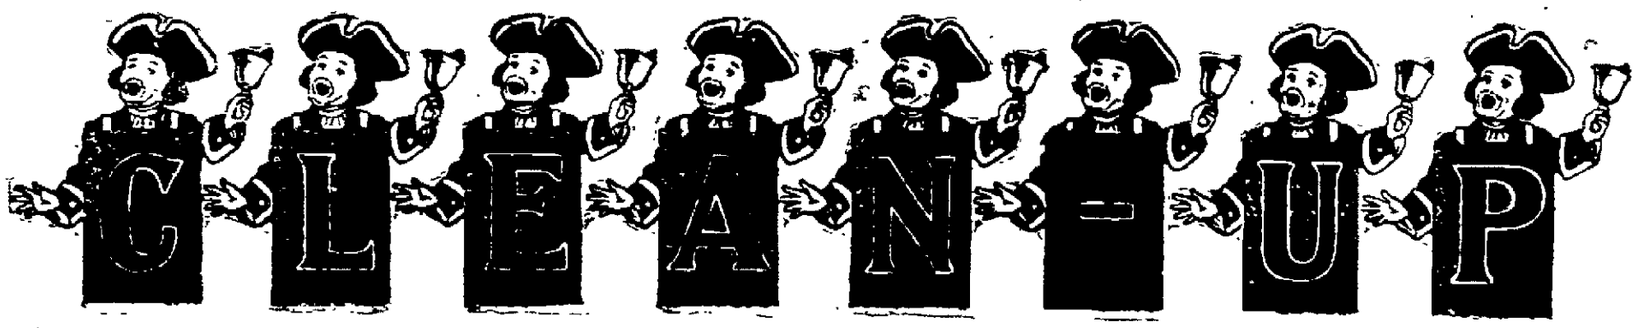

Ralph Merritt Woolsey of No. 124 Green street and Miss Maria Agnes Donnelly of No. 69 Cedar street, were united in marriage on Monday, March 20, by the Rev. John J. Hickey.

Good Meats Only at Lay's Saturday Sale

Every new convert to the merits of this market usually comes to us out of curiosity and often with distrust born of past disappointments elsewhere, but invariably he or she remains to buy. The answer is simple. It consists in the fact that our Meats, Bolognas, Frankfurters, Bockwurst, and in fact all the food articles we sell, have more than fair words to commend them. No home, boarding-house or hotel-keeper, who is sufficiently interested to come and see, can doubt this statement. In selecting our meats we use the most painstaking care to see that they carry a real value which fully justifies us in our claims. No market in Kingston which keeps GOOD meats can undersell us, nor will you obtain better service anywhere in the city.

NEW PASTOR IN TRINITY CHURCH

On Sunday next the Rev. P. C. Weyant, the newly appointed pastor of Trinity M. E. Church of this city, will occupy the pulpit both morning and evening. Mr. Weyant comes from Delhi, after having served two and one-half years on that charge, where he has done a strong work, and is held in high esteem by the members of his congregation and the community at large. He is well equipped to take up the work at Trinity,, and members of the church and congregation look forward to a very successful administration under the new leadership. It is expected that he will be greeted with a large congregation both morning and evening.

LAWRENCE COPLEY THAW.

WITH $25,000 A YEAR AT SEVENTEEN PLANS LIFE OF WORK.

New York, March 31.—Lawrence Copley Thaw, seventeen, a half nephew of Harry K. Thaw, has just had his income increased to $25,000 a year by the surrogate's court, and is planning a life of work.

"Don't you consider $25,000 a year pretty extravagant for living expenses?" he was asked.

"No, I am not extravagant," answered Mr. Thaw. "I've always been quite a tight-wad, at least they tell me I am.

"Just now I am preparing for Columbia, where I intend studying law," he explained amiably. "No, my income will not deter me from practising. I regard it merely as a means toward preparing me for a useful career,"—and he coughed discreetly.

"Do you really think it will cost you $25,000 a year to live?"

"I can't tell until I've tried a model month," Thaw replied. "I hope it won't, because I would like to save part of it if possible."

"Well, what would you do if you didn't have this income?" the reported asked.

"What would anyone else do?" asked Thaw. "I look pretty healthy, don't I? I'm not afraid of work. But I don't like the idea of being called a 'model boy'. I think it implies that one is more or less effeminate, and thank heaven, I've never been accused of that.

"I am a follower of all sorts of athletics, and although I am not particularly adept in any special branch, I am fond of them and admire those who participate in them."

Young Thaw is an ardent motorist and spends much of his time driving his high-powered car.

How to Tell a Woman's Age Without Asking It.

The American Magazine gives the following rule for telling a woman's age:

"My son, wouldst thou know a woman's age? Watch her when she putteth on her hat, whether she rammeth it on carelessly or regardeth the mirror with overmuch care, for, behold, her eyes shall tell thee where her mind wandereth!"

How to Make a Scalloped Edge in Embroideries Durable.

Before embroidering a scalloped edge place the piece under the machine and stitch around on the outline mark, then work from the outside of stitching, and the scallop will be twice as durable.

THE HIGHEST MEAT STANDARDS AT Messinger's Saturday Sale

"The folks who come our meats to buy, find that our standard's very high." We've purposely set our standard high and propose to keep it there, come what will. High-grade meats served in a superior way have earned for this market a reputation that is resulting in constantly increasing business. A telephone order will receive the same careful attention that greets a personal visit. In the face of higher wholesale cost of certain kinds of meats, we are keeping our prices down as low as possible, as will be seen by a scrutiny of our Saturday quotations.

SUPPLIES AT COLUMBUS N.M. SERVICE.

Owing to Carranza's refusal to allow the American expeditionary force to use the railroads of Mexico difficulty is being experienced in getting food, fodder and other army supplies to the American flying columns. Motor truck trains are doing their best to carry these supplies on to the American forces, but the distance is great.

The photograph shows great grea quantities of hay, grain and other supplies piled up at Columbus, N. M., awaiting shipment by motor trucks to General Pershing's forces in Mexico.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, March 30.—Last Wednesday evening, March 22, was a stormy one. Snow came down rapidly and the wind blew, as it always blows in March, and was very disagreeable. Still, it was known the Knights of Pythias had issued a number of invitations for their reception and the people felt as if they must make extra effort to be present and there was present for the affair over 100 people, and all were glad they ventured out for they were well paid. The program was fine. The orchestra, composed of Mrs. Kelsey Staples at the piano, Bessie Dickinson, violinist, Charles DuBois, cornet, Hubert Elting, trombone, Kelsey Staples, tenor, was largely responsible for a lot of good music throughout the evening, which was greatly appreciated. Byron Clearwater was master of ceremonies, and called upon A. D. Lent, who welcomed the guests in an appropriate address, delivered in his usual nappy vein. Mrs. E. A. Marsh, who is an elocutionist of exceptional ability, gave a recitation which was funny and exceedingly well delivered. She was greeted with enthusiastic applause and responded with a very cute encore. A vocal duet by E. Van Wagner and Clifton Carpenter, was well received. E. A. Marsh, principal of the high school here, gave a fine address and one long to be remembered by all who heard it, and last on the program was the farce entitled "Dinner at Six," and a capital little play it was too. The cast, Mrs. Charles DuBois, Mrs. Lloyd Plass, Misses Hattie and Bessie Dickinson, little Ruby Cornell, George Canfield and William Maynard. These people were all called clever amateurs and the auditors were not slow in recognizing their excellent portrayal with most generous applause. The program was said to be the best ever given for the K. of P. receptions. Mrs. R. H. Decker had the full management of the farce. At the conclusion of this, fine refreshments were served and a social time enjoyel. It seemed good after the cares and trials of the day for all to lay aside their work and spend the evening in a cheerful, social way with the members of the order, who have friendship, charity and benevolence as their foundation stones. Zeno Lodge may congratulate themselves that one more social event has passed on in the history of the Knights of Pythias.

The dance in Feeter's Hall last Saturday night was well patronized. Several from out of town attended and they danced till the wee small hours in the morning.

Mrs. Gertrude Simpson has been quite ill for some time. She is now able to sit up some and we hope soon to see her around as usual.

April 5, the Grangers are going to have an illustrated lecture. All members earnestly invited to be present for this will be interesting.

Mrs. Myron Terpening is spending several days in Poughkepsie with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Jere Miller of Poughkeepsie were guests of relatives here Sunday.

Miss Beatrict Short, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Short, has returned home, after spending some time in Kingston with her grandmother, Mrs. Ganoung.

Reuben Dawald is in Poughkeepsie at St. Francis's Hospital, where he went a few weeks ago. Sorry to report his condition is very serious and we hear no hopes of his recovery. He was a painter and paper hanger and decorator, always had a great deal to do and was a good workman. He will be missed here and out of town also, for he did work in many places and always gave satisfaction.

Highland Library seems to be on the increase with reading matter. It is a grand thing for our place. They have just elected new officers and we expect to see it boom greatly.

G. Bradshaw is at his home here on Milton avenue. He is in Montreal, Canada, and visits his family as often as he possibly can.

Dr. and Mrs. B. W. Reynolds have been entertaining guests from Poughkeepsie a few days the past week.

Rev. J. C. Coddington arrived home from the conference Tuesday evening. He had a busy time. Methodist people here are very grateful that he comes to them again for he is well liked both in and out of the pulpit and is a fine preacher.

Miss Daisy Davis, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. G. S. Davis, former pastor of M. E. Church here, now of Hyde Park was a guest of Miss Clara Mandershied last week at her home on Washington avenue.

Mrs. George Davis, wife of Rev. G. S. Davis of Hyde Park was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Melins recently.

The Masonic order met on Monday evening and admitted one candidate.

Miss Dora Steller, who has been south for some time, has returned to her home on Grand street.

People will not drop asleep in this place, if parties and entertainments can keep them awake for the calendar seems to be filled to overflowing for days and nights. The city will have a job to keep pace with the country.

Miss Ruth Dumond of West Park is spending some time here with her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Simpson.

The men of the Presbyterian Church gave a clam chowder supper Tuesday evening. They declared it was good and we have not heard of any case of indigestion from it. They will be so elated at the service that perhaps they may be called on to act as caterers for some parties in the future. They said they did it all themselves.

Mrs. James S. Mack and Mrs. Nash were shoppers in Poughkeepsie on Monday.

Alfred Palmer of New Jersey was a week end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Palmer, on Grand street.

Queen Esther Circle of M. E. Church was delightfully entertained by Mrs. B. A. Reynolds Monday evening. It was a very interesting meeting.

Wednesday evening, April 5, the Daughters of America will hold their regular meeting. The councilor most earnestly urges the officers to be on time and requests all members to be present as there will, at that meeting, be a candidate for initiation.

Eastern Star will hold their regular meeting on Monday evening, April 3. Every member is expected to be present.

Auxiliary Club will hold their regular business and social on Friday, April 7. The hostesses will be Mrs. Fred Decker, Mrs. John Fisher, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. Edward Tubbs. This meeting will be held in the church parlor, and the membership most cordially requested to be present as the supper and sale will be discussed and many other items taken up.

Auxiliary Club will hold a supper and sale of candy and aprons and many other useful articles the last of April. We have noticed in some papers it said a fair. This is not the case; the season for fairs seems to be winter time. They did not expect to hold a fair this year and it was voted on to that effect months ago. This will be held in the church. The supper will be served downstairs where they have a kitchen and ample seating capacity in the dining room and the sale will be upstairs in the lecture room. We hear they are to have music, and a good time is expected. The committees in charge will tell more of this later, but no doubt this will be first class in every respect as these people never disappoint. They always keep in mind that whatever is worth doing is worth doing well—well worthy and well done acts, like well done meals, are easy to digest.

Mrs. S. A. Ferris was greatly takn back one evening last week when her Sunday school class arrived there and gave her a real old-fashoned surprise party, and to say they enjoyed themselves would be putting it lightly. One of them said they had the best time of the whole season. They enjoyed games and a bountiful supply of refreshments.

Miss Eugenia Terwilliger and brother, William Terwilliger, from this place, were guests the week end of Mrs. Deborah DeGraff at Milton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Rose were out of town Monday.

The M. E. Church here was closed last Sunday on account of the pastor's absence to conference, with the exception of Sunday school, which was held as usual at half after nine, and in the evening the Epworth League held their meeting. J. W. Feeter was the leader. His topic was a fine one and he handled it admirably, showing forth what work they should undertake. These meetings are growing in interest and numbers, and the league and Sunday school are sisters. They belong to the same household. They are both departments of church work, and each should help the other. The league should be a recruiting station, from which may be drawn disciplined teachers every year, and also for the superintendent to draw his reserves in case of emergency. We offer sincere congratulations to the pastor over the auspicious activities of all the societies in connection with the M. E. Church of this place.

Odd Fellows met Thursday evening in the council room, and they had a good time as usual.

Mrs. Kelsey Staples was a visitor in Poughkeepsie on Wednesday.

Ezra Selleck of Sullivan county was here recently for a visit of a week. He used to reside here several years ago. He is a brother of Mrs. Josiah Covert of Maple avenue.

A. W. Lent, one of our lawyers, has been in Plattsburg for a few days on a business trip.

Miss Susie Lent has been home for a few days from Richmond Hill.

Mrs. Daniel Starr has been on a visit in Newburgh for a few days and reports a very delightful time.

Mrs. Abram Brinckerhoff and daughter, Miss Belle, were shoppers in Poughkeepsie Friday.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church met in the church for their meeting Wednesday afternoon and at that time elected officers for the year.

Irving Rathgeb has been ill for a short time. Glad to report he is able to resume work again.

Mrs. Hopper and daughter, Mrs. Schumacher, spent one day last week visiting in Poughkeepsie with Mrs. Norbet Schutz and had a very delightful time.

Few women from here attended the card party given at Wagner Inn by some suffrage people of Poughkeepsie last Friday afternoon. They spent a delightful afternoon at their games. Punch and cake were served.

James Westcott was in Poughkeepsie on business Monday.

Miss Bessie Dickinson entertained four week end guests from Poughkeepsie.

Look out for the April fool party, or some of those people will get a good joke on some of you people. But you must expect it and take it in fun as it is given.

Mrs. B. Johnson of Washington avenue, who has been in Vassar Hospital for five weeks, returned home Sunday. We were informed they did not operate on her as was expected, on account of high blood pressure. All hope she will improve rapidly at home while under the care of a good doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Millen entertained guests last Sunday from Newburgh.

STONE RIDGE.

Stone Ridge, March 30.—The Home Made Choir, given in the M. E. Church on Tuesday evening, was a great success in spite of the bad condition of the roads which prevented many people from coming. The proceeds amounted to about $45.

Mrs. J. L. Snyder went to Highland on Wednesday to attend the W. C. T. U. convention.

Rev. Chauncey Stevens will occupy the pulpit of the Reformed Church on Sunday morning, April 2.

Regular Grange meeting on Tuesday evening, April 7. Circle No. 1, will have charge of the lecturer's hour.

Masons are busy laying the foundation wall for the new Grange hall.

Irwin Cornish is making extensive improvements to the place purchased by him a short time ago.

DeForest Bishop is having his kitchen enlarged.

Joseph Pratt, Sr., intends putting an up to date plumbing and heating plant in his house, besides making other improvements.

Word has been received that Mrs. Fred Hansen is improving and expects to come home for a visit as soon as she is able to travel. Mrs. Hansen was formerly Miss Elizabeth Vandemark.

The C. E. prayer meeting on Sunday evening will be led by Cornelia Van Wagenen. Subject, "The Consecration of Time." Consecration meeting. Ps. 90:1-17.

The entertainment which was to Mission Band on Tuesday evening, Mission Band on Tuesday evenig, April 4, has been postponed on account of the bad roads until Tuesday evening, April 11. Those who are getting up this entertainment realize that there are many who wish to see this entertainment but who would be prevented from attending owing to the present condition of the roads, and as they wish to give everyone a chance to come, they have postponed it for a week. This is the same band that gave "The White Cap Sisters" last year, an entertainment which all who attended enjoyed. The band hopes to please you as well this year. Besides songs, etc., two dialogues will be given. One by the young ladies entitled "The Wrong Box," and one by the young gentlemen entitled "No Peddler Wanted."

An experiment that may be worth while will be watched with interest next week when Superintendent Ashley, of the Middletown State Hospital, will take the celebrated artist Blakelock to New York to attend an exhibition of Blakelock's paintings in order to study closely the effect on the artist of the plunge into artistic surroundings after nearly seventeen years of seclusion in the Middletown Hospital. Some of Blakelock's art commands fabulous prices. An Ohio museum recently paid $26,000 for one of his paintings. Since he has been at Middletown he has not painted pictures. When he went there his fame had not become sufficiently established to permit his acquiring a competence for the benefit of those dependent upon him and next week's exhibition of his work has been arranged for the purpose of realizing funds for such dependents. In recent talks Blakelock has shown signs of returning activity of his memory and after the lapse of nearly seventeen years, during which his artistic ability and thought have been in involuntary subjection, if they have not suffered annihilation, the experiment of endeavoring to revive the particular brain corrugations responsible for his former genius is at least worth trying.

Fifty years ago, when Artemus Ward was in his prime, there must have been a Congress similar to the one we have in Washington today. The great humorist rose to the occasion and issued "Advice to Congress," as follows:

Gentlemen of th' senate an' also of the house, you've sat there an' drawed your pay an' heard yourselfs talk long enuff. The country at large, includin' th' undersigned, is displeesed with you. Why don't you do somethin' that will stir the popular heart under the public weskit? Why don't you produce a statesman who can rise up an' meet the emergency an' bat it over th' head? Why don't you quit your everlastin' talkin' an' git to work?

In a speshal 'lection in my district th' other day, I delibritly voted for Henry Clay.

I admit that Henry Clay has been a long time dead, but inasmuch as we haven't anny live statesman in our nashunal mob of law-jugglers, let us by all means secure a first-class dead one!

The United States has an exciting history, and it is notable that in every great emergency some man did arise who could "meet it an' bat it over th' head." In the complicated situation in which we now find ourselves the big man is as yet hidden from our view. President Wilson is a lamentable failure, but he insists upon being boss of the situation, so that strong men like Garrison are squelched. Thus he is able to delay the coming of the man of the hour, but not to prevent it. The next few years will teem with thrilling experiences.

Addressing a New York suffrage audience several days ago, Mrs. Bertrand Russell, suffrage worker and philanthropist, said if she had her way she would say: "'Don't let any of the men go on the battlefield before they are 60 or 70.' We don't want to lose our healthiest and youngest. It would be perfectly fair, wouldn't it, if everyone did the same?" The cheerful egotism of Sister Russell and her sublime contempt for men of 60 or 70 is refreshing. A few years ago Dr. Osler attained prominence by his theory that men should be chloroformed when they became 50 years old, yet the affairs of the world continue to be guided largely by men over that age. When they are 60 or 70 do men lose their attraction to Sister Russell? Beyond that age it is doubtful if most men could carry guns or manage mortars on the battlefield, but they are active enough at 60 or 70 to wreak considerable damage. What an inspiring sight, too, of gray beards cannonading each other, cheered by the thought that their more active sons and grandsons are back home enjoying good health and becoming converts to the cause espoused by Sister Russell. The all-round self-sacrifice is beautiful to contemplate, surely. Of course it would be all right "if everyone did the same." There are great possibilities in "if." "If" all men had the same ideas, they might all vote for suffrage "if" all the women were alike. "If" we have sufficient imagination and faith we may yet see Rip Van Winkle's companions creating thunder with guns instead of rolling pins—"if" we are foolish enough to believe such a thing possible.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Does he occupy his pulpit satisfactorily?" "Well, he has gained twenty pounds since he came with us."—Judge.

Jones—"Does my daughter's piano practice annoy you?" Neighbor—"Oh, not at all. But tell me; what does she wear—mittens or boxing-gloves?"—Life.

"How are things at your wife's club?" "All right. Everything they undertake is thoroughly misunderstood and disagreed upon."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Why do you dislike your teacher so, Willie?" "I don't exactly dislike her, but it's perfectly plain to me why she never got married."—Detroit Free Press.

Husband—"This is the limit! You've ordered two new dresses—don't you know that we are already head over ears in debt?" Wife—"Oh, yes, I know—but the dressmaker doesn't."—Boston Transcript.

"I know you don't believe in gambling, and I play cards and bet on the races, but I can prove my moral superiority in so doing." "Then prove it." "You are a good man—I don't deny it. But I am a bettor."—Baltimore American.

Representative Volomer, answering at a Washington luncheon an attack against his armament exportation bill said: "These men misunderstood my bill. They misunderstood it as completely as the young lady misunderstood the lasso. A young lady, pointing to the lasso coiled on his pommel, said to a cowboy: "What is that line for?" "To catch steers and hosses ma'am," the cowboy answered. 'Indeed!' said the young lady, looking rather astonished. 'And what bait do you use?'"—Norfolk Virginia Pilot.

A True Prophet.

One of the attractions of the church fete was a fortune teller's tent.

A lady took her 10-year-old, red-haired, freckled son inside. The woman of wisdom bent over the crystal ball.

"Your son will be a very distinguished man if he lives long enough!" she murmured in deep, mysterious tones.

"Oh, how nice!" gushed the proud mother. "And what will he be distinguished for?"

"For old age," replied the fortune teller slowly.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The Head of the House.

Col. J. J. Irish, who is a strong anti-suffragist, said in San Francisco:

"The recent elections show plainly the unpopularity of woman suffrage. I think the voters were wise. There are enough husbands already in Brown's boots.

"Brown and Black," continued Colonel Irish, "were arguing at their club on the question as to who should be the head of the house—the man or the woman.

"'I'm the breadwinner,' Black said firmly, 'and, therefore, I rule in my house.'

"'Well,' said Brown, 'before we were married my wife and I made an agreemoht that I should make the rulings in all the major things, and she in all the minor ones.'

"'And how has it worked?' Black inquired.

"Brown smiled wanly. 'So far,' he replied, 'no major matters have come up.'"—San Francisco Bulletin.

As She Is Spoke in Lunnon.

Times were bad—very bad, indeed. No wonder that Alf and 'Erb, who lived by their wits and nimble fingers, were discouraged. Surely this was no place for a man who desired to turn an honest penny. "It's most ernough to myke one grow honest," grumbled Alf, the dogmaster, as he pored through the "Lost and Found" column of a daily paper. "Ayn't there nuffin'?" asked his pal. "Not arf of nuffin'," grunted Alf. "Why, where's your eyes, Alf?" said 'Erb, a minute later. "Listen 'ere. "Lorst at 4 o'clock last evenin', a black poodle, between Shottlegate Stryt and Grimstone Drive. No questions arst. Take 'em the bloomin' poodle yer collared this mornink." "They're arskin' for a black poodle, funny," sneered Alf, "and mines a white 'un." "Garn, that doesn't matter," retorted 'Erb. "Jes' tell 'em it 'owled orl night and turned white wif grief."—Argonaut.

Breeches Wearing.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw said, in Philadelphia, in an address on the divorce evil:

"Another cause of divorce is domineering on the wife's part—her wearing of the breeches, as the old saw has it.

"Is there much of this wifely breeches wearing? Well, I know, at any rate, a man whose little boy once said to him at the theatre:

"'Pa, what's a leading woman?'

"The man answered, gloomily:

"'Any married woman, my son.'"—Philadelphia North American.

HE SAW THE GOVERNOR.

But in His Hurry He Fell and Broke His Arm.

Little Jimmy Welch of No. 156 Fair street, fell and broke his arm on Thursday evening. The lad was running to see the governor and his escort marching to the armory to open the automobile show and in his hurry he slipped and fell. Dr. Frank A. Johnston, the health officer, attended to his injuries.

YES—IT IS POSSIBLE TO STOP RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is a tormenting and stubborn malady. In some cases it yields to treatment which is without avail in other cases.

The darting pains, lame muscles or stiffened joints only disappear by gradually expelling the uric acid, and so many thousands have been relieved by the blood-enriching oil-food in Scott's Emulsion that you should give it a faithful trial. Scott's Emulsion acts as a powerful blood-purifier by increasing the red corpuscles and it strengthens the organs to carry off the acids which cause the trouble.

Try Scott's Emulsion. It cannot harm. It has helped thousands and may be exactly what you need. No Alcohol.

MASONS TO VISIT HOME AT UTICA

The Masons of the Fifteenth Masonic District, comprising the counties of Ulster and Greene, will take a pilgrimage to the Masonic Home at Utica, on Sunday, April 16. A special train has been chartered for the trip which will stop at Highland, Kingston, Saugerties, Catskill and Coxsackie. The hour of departure from these points has not yet been fixed but the plan is to arrive at the home about 1 o'clock in the afternoon and returning to arrive at Kingston at about eleven. Further details of the pilgrimage will be announced later. The children of the home will give the visitors an entertainment in the chapel during the afternoon and the brothers will have ample time to inspect and go through the buildings and the property. There are fourteen lodges in the district and over 3,000 Masons. All are co-operating in making this pilgrimage a success and a great delegation is expected to avail themselves of this opportunity. The railroad fare for the round trip is to be $3.10. Arrangements are being made to discharge the passengers at the home, there being switching accommodations there. This pilgrimage is being conducted under the auspices of Kingston Lodge, No. 10 and Rondout Lodge, No. 348, both of which have appointed a committee of arrangements.

METTACAHONTS.

Mettacahonts, March 30.—Miss Ray Markle has returned home, after a very pleasant trip of several days spent at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Charles E. Woolsey, Clinton avenue, Kingston.

A very pleasant surprise party was given Miss Hazel Baker at her parent's home. A large crowd was in attendance and a jolly evening enjoyed by all. Dancing was indulged in, games were played, also cards. Dainty refreshments were served, and all left at a late hour, wishing Miss Baker would soon entertain again.

The black and white bird dog of Fred Hendrickson, which had been missing for nearly two weeks, was located at Stephen Davis's at Krumville, by an item in Friday's Freeman. Mr. Hendrickson went after the dog and brought him back. The dog is an exceptionally fine and valuable bird dog, and Mr. Hendrickson was very glad to find him.

Mrs. Floyd Depuy was entertained on Thursday evening by Mrs. C. B. Osterhoudt.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Osterhoudt and children and Mr. and Mrs. John Vandemark and children were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Burger on Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Earl Miller was kicked by a horse at Jacob Baker's on Friday.

Charlie Depuy was a visitor at Mombaccus Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hendrickson will move this coming week from their present location to a house nearer his work at Accord. We will miss them very much from this place, and regret seeing them go.

A large crowd, comprising five sleigh loads, attended the meeting in the church Sunday evening. All regret the condition of the roads, while Mr. Walter was among us, causing many people to fail seeing him.

Some of our people are planning on attending the automobile show this week.

Automobile Collision.

Through some mistake in signals two automobiles collided at the corner of John street and Wall street about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. One machine was proceeding down Wall street when a second machine came out of John street. The King machine which was proceeding down Wall street was struck in the rear slightly bending the mud guards while the headlight of the other machine was broken and the guard also bent. A crowd quickly gathered but there was little excitement and both machines proceeded on their way.

Home Made Food Sale.

There will be a home made food sale Saturday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock at the Wolven dry goods store on Wall street. Cakes, pies, biscuits, bread, etc., will be on sale. The proceeds from this sale will be for the McBride memorial building fund of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church.

Chronic Grouch.

The subject under discussion was lucky signs, omens and the like. "I must confess to being a firm believer in number seven," remarked a successful tradesman. "For instance, there are just seven letters in the word success." "Yes, and in failure, too," growled the inevitable pessimist.—Exchange.

American Suits for American Men

When a man orders a suit, generally he doesn't care a rap what they're wearing in Paris. He isn't looking for the latest frills of the London tailors. He wants something like the right dressers of his own city and country are wearing. He would dress as real red-blooded men of today dress. And this is as it should be. He wants his suit well made, so that it will fit his particular lines. He wants it made of good material—to stand lots of wear and still be good material. That's the kind of suits we make. Come in and look over our new Spring suitings.

EAST KINGSTON GIRLS MISSING

Two Girls Who Work in City Factories Are Missing—Police Last Heard That They Had Bought Tickets For Highland and Left City.

It was reported to the police on Wednesday that Miss Dowanda Gilbert, 15 years old, and Miss Ada Flannigan, aged 16 years, had failed to return to their homes in East Kingston Tuesday evening. They work in local factories and return home every evening in the East Kingston stage. Wednesday the anxious mothers appeared at police headquarters and said that their daughters had failed to return home as usual. They were of the impression that they had stayed at the home of a girl friend on O'Neil street. The police investigated and learned that the girls had not stayed in Kingston over night but had bought two tickets for Highland and left on the West Shore train, leaving shortly after 7 o'clock. The parents are very anxious and any news of their whereabouts should be reported to police headquarters. No reason is known for their not returning home.

RU-BER-OID ROOFING

COSTS MORE - WEARS LONGER

Every roll of RU-BER-OID that we have sold has given perfect satisfaction.

We know that RU-BER-OID is made of better materials than any other roofing that we could buy. It contains no paper, wood fibre, tar, asphalt or other short-lived materials such as are found in cheaper roofings.

RU-BER-OID roofs put on more than 20 years ago are still watertight and look as good as new.

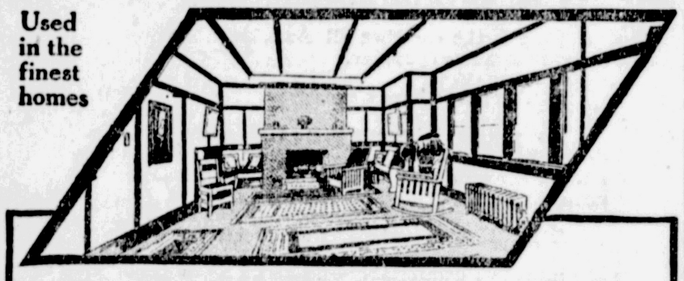

RU-BER-OID roofing always looks well. Its color is attractive gray—the same shade as more expensive slate. Colored RU-BER-OID (Kalor-oid) is made in permanent Tile Red and Copper Green.

Come in and let us show you this roofing, which is so good that it is widely imitated. So called "Rubber roofings" are counterfeits. There is only one RU-BER-OID. The genuine has the "Ru-ber-oid Man," shown above, on every roll.

BASEBALL BUG IN THE AIR

Boys' Baseball Teams to be Org'n-ized by Y. M. C. A.—Big Circus Coming—Volley Ball League Tonight.

With the advent of spring the baseball bug is in the air and the boys are commencing to talk and dream baseball. The Y. M. C. A. has decided to organize a boys' league for boys under 16 years of age. Any boy desiring to play in the league is requested to register with Physical Director Godfrey at the Association. It is hoped that enough boys will register so that at least six teams may be formed to play this summer.

Preparations are under way for the big indoor circus to be given at the Y. M. C. A. April 24 and 25. The circus promises to be the best ever held by the association.

This evening the seniors will organize a volley ball league to play during April and May.

WILLIE KEELER

WILLIE KEELER TO DON SPANGLES ONCE MORE.

New York, March 31.—Willie Keeler is to don the spangles once more. Wee Willie, one-time wonder with the bat and in the outfield, has been signed to manage the Allentown Club of the Pennsylvania State League.

Keeler has not been active in baseball since he left the New York Yankees. He was coach with the Superbas for a while and did some scouting work, but in the main he attended pretty strictly to real estate business in Brooklyn. Keeler was approached with what looked like a good proposition in Allentown, where it is understood he will have a financial interest in the club. Willie's advent as a manager wil be watched with great interest.

Each proposal must be accompanied by cash or a certified check payable to the order of the state commission of highways for an amount equal to at least five per cent of the amount of the proposal which such cash or check accompanies.

This cash or check will be held by the commission until the contract and bond are duly executed.

The successful bidder will be required to give a performance bond for fifty per cent of the amount of the contract, and a maintenance bond covering the wearing surface of all roads, except waterbound macadam and cement concrete pavements for twenty per cent of the contract price of the items which comprise the wearing surface, such bonds to be executed by a surety company to be approved by the commission, or a bond secured by the deposit of collateral securities to be approved by the commission.

Poor Coffee in Java.

It is said that nowhere in the world is coffee, the drink, worse than in Java, where coffee, the bean, is supposed to be at its very best. Japanese distill coffee essence of extreme strength, bottle it, and pour a few drops into a cup of hot water when they wish refreshment.

Possible Enjoyment.

RIVER NAVIGATION STARTS SATURDAY

Attempt Will be Made to Open River to Navigation by Boats Leaving Albany and New York.

An attempt will be made Saturday to open the Hudson river to navigation. The Hudson Navigation Company will have the steamer Trojan leave Albany for down the river that day, provided the ice gorge at Stuyvesant moves out. The Central Hudson Steamboat Company will have the steamer Odell leave New York for Rondout that afternoon. It is not expected that the Odell, which has been running all winter between Poughkeepsie and New York, will have much trouble in breaking a channel through to Rondout.

KAISER SENDING SONS ON FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Prince Eitel Friedrich and Prince August Wilhelm.

London, March 30.—New activities for members of his family have been found by the kaiser. Prince August William, his fourth son, is expected to arrive shortly in Brussels to take up eventually the position of governor-general, now held by Gen. von Bissing.

It is understood that at first the prince will serve as assistant to Gen. von Bissing, but ultimately will supersede the present ruler.

Another son, Prince Eitel Friedrich, is said to have been delegated by the kaiser to go to Constantinople to present a sword of honor to the sultan in commemoration of the bravery of the Turkish army.

He is due to arrive soon, says a dispatch from Amsterdam. Two hundred especially picked policemen have been sent to Constantinople from Berlin to take precautionary measures for the safety of the prince. He will also visit the Turkish front in Asia Minor.

MARBLETOWN.

Marbletown, March 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Greene Lockwood of Stone Ridge spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. S. Myer.

Walter Markle and family moved to Stone Ridge one day the past week.

Mrs. Benjamin Bush is quite ill at this writing. Dr. Hutchins of High Falls is attending her.

Dr. Sherman of Stone Ridge called on Judge Myer, also inspected the school house in this place on Tuesday.

Granville Lockwood of the Island spent Sunday with his grandparents in this place.

Loran Coddington of The Clove called on friends in this place on Tuesday.

Mrs. Arthur Christiana of Cottekill spent Friday with her parents in this place.

How to Beat an Egg Quickly Without the Fuss of Whipping It.

Break the egg into an ordinary glass tumbler. Place a piece of clean tissue paper on the top. Hold it firmly down all round to keep out the air. Place the other hand on the top of the paper and shake the tumbler vigorously two or three times. The egg is then ready to use without any further effort and is as well beaten as if whipped for ten minutes.

How to Make Quince Marmalade For Breakfast Rolls.

Quince marmalade is made by grating or grinding the peeled and cored quinces fine; then to one cupful of quince pulp add two cupfuls of water and two and a half of sugar. Boil an hour, stirring often, and then pour into jelly glasses.

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

If the one rear wheel of a car is jacked up and then a mark put on the universal, so that it can be watched, and the rear wheel is then turned around, is the gear ratio given the correct ratio? In other words, if a car is geared say, four to one and the wheel is turned around once, will the shaft turn four times, or will the fact that the one gear in the differential is not moving cause a drag and therefore give a wrong ratio?

The ratio with one wheel jacked up will not be the correct ratio because there are two reductions to be considered. When turning the wheel the first reduction is between the shaft bevel and the spider bevels and the second between the ring gear and the driving pinion. The correct ratio can be obtained by jacking up both wheels and turning both of them. Why not try this on your own car? Jack up one wheel, place the gear shift lever in direct and then turn the one wheel which has been jacked up.

When going up a grade slowly on high gear my engine makes a dull, thumping sound. The carburetor is set low, requiring a long manifold. Do you think this sound is due to condensation in the manifold? I was told that the trouble might be remedied by having a new exhaust manifold made divided, a separate exhaust for each pair of cylinders, for the trouble might be that the explosions overlap and the engine not scavenge properly.

The knock is either a spark knock or a gas knock. If it is a spark knock you should retard the ignition somewhat when in heavy pulling, such as up grade work. If it is a gas knock try closing the throttle a little more when pulling up a hill. Open the throttle gradually as the load on the motor becomes heavier. It is not likely that a double exhaust manifold would benefit you. Do not try to negotiate steep hills on high gear. Give the motor a chance by dropping to a lower gear when the pull is too much for direct drive. If it were true that the cylinders are not scavenged properly you would notice it at other times than when climbing hills.

How can rim cutting be prevented? I am having great trouble with casing rim cutting on my car. I use sixty pounds in 30 by 3½ inch tires and seventy pounds in 31 by 4 inch.

Rim cutting is due to under inflation. Get a new pressure gauge that you are sure is correct. Probably your gauge is reading too high, making it appear that the tires are properly inflated when they are not.

What may be the injury caused by using overtension on clutch springs? Is there an excessive pressure brought to bear on the crank shaft bearing by using tight clutch springs?

If the clutch is properly designed with a thrust bearing there will be no pressure brought to bear upon the crank shaft bearing by the clutch springs. The big objection to too tight an adjustment on the clutch spring is that it will make the clutch grab instead of giving it a gradual engagement.

My car works nicely running below fifteen miles an hour, but over that speed it misfires and spits back in the carbureter. It will do the same on heavy pulls, on hills and on sudden opening of the throttle above a certain point. Carbureter adjusting does not do any good. I have put in new piston rings and new brushes in distributor and breaker boxes. Is the trouble in the magneto or the carburetor?

It is possible that your trouble is caused by a poor adjustment of the interrupter of the magneto. This interrupter is used for both battery and magneto circuits, and should the points be too far apart on the break or too close, perhaps, there may be backfiring and misfiring. The points should be about .015 inch apart when fully open. Sometimes a fine adjustment will show better results. You will have to try various positions. After adjusting the points place a drop of kerosene upon them. Granting that the ignition system is properly timed and that the carburetor is adjusted correctly, you might look to poor valve timing as the cause of your trouble. Carbon deposits in the cylinders will often cause the condition you mention. If you wish to check up on the carburetor adjustment push the auxiliary valve open while the motor is operating with the throttle open more than one-half. This can be done with a pencil or screwdriver. Should the misfiring stop when the air valve is pushed open then you will have to compress the air valve spring. If the misfiring and backfiring become worse, then the spring should be stretched. There should be no air leaks around the valve caps, the spark plugs, the inlet manifold, priming cocks, etc.

Can I repair a leaky jar in a battery by dropping melted wax or tar composition material that is on top of the cell, on the hole where the solutions leak through?

If the leak is in the tar composition material on the top of the cell it can be melted together by using a hot iron. But if the leak is in the rubber jar itself it cannot be repaired. Cracked or broken jars must be replaced.

In cone clutches I notice there are two different types where the action of the spring is in opposite directions when it engages in the flywheel. Can you give the name of each type and explain their action?

The types you refer to are the inverted cone and ordinary type. In the former type the spring is on the inside and in the latter on the outside of the clutch itself. The difference between the engaging members is in the direction of slope of the cone, in the ordinary type the small portion being on the inside and the large diameter on the outside, whereas in the inverted cone it is just the opposite. By pressing the pedal of an ordinary cone clutch the spring is carried backward for compression, whereas in the inverted cone, the spring being on the opposite side, it is compressed by a forward thrust.

What compression should a car have for speed, say on a motor 4 by 6. And how can one increase the compression?

You should have about seventy pounds per square inch. To increase the compression attach a flat plate one-eighth inch thick to the top of the piston by riveting through the piston head.

Which are more practical for country use, wood or wire wheels? What are the advantages of each?

Those who are in favor of wire wheels claim that their use effects a saving in tires due to the heat radiating qualities of the steel spokes; that a wire wheel is stronger than a wooden wheel of equal size; that it gives easier riding, due to its shock absorbing qualities; that it is better in appearance. When in demountable form, in which most of the types are sold, tire changing becomes a matter of a few minutes. Quicker acceleration and more effective braking are obtained with wire wheels than with wooden because, it is claimed, the wire wheel has a light rim, and hence the flywheel effect is reduced considerably. The wooden wheel, with a heavy felly, when once started opposes the braking effort. The wooden wheel contingent states that this type is able to withstand more side strain than the wire wheel, that it has a longer life, being little affected by the elements; that the use of demountable rims makes tire changing easy, and if this feature is applied to the wire wheel it has the characteristics of a wooden one, having heavy peripheral weight. If the demountable feature is not used on the wire wheel a whole wheel must be carried around as against a covered up tire when wooden wheels are used. The wire wheel usually costs more than the wooden of the same size. Wire wheel spokes may rust and are more liable to become loose than wooden spokes. The above are the general advantages and disadvantages.

What effect has ether on a motor?

When used in small quantities with gasoline as a primer there is little noticeable effect on the motor. However, if ether is used continually in the fuel it has a detrimental effect upon the motor parts, causing excessive wear.

What might cause knocking when my car is descending a hill and the spark is fully retarded?

The question is rather broad, as you do not state whether the knock is one from the motor or whether it is coming from the rear end or gear set. If in the motor, it may be caused by the looseness of some part. The bearing ends may be flattened, causing the crank shaft to move back and forth slightly. There may be excessive play in the driving mechanism, causing slapping back and forth of the clutch unit. The flywheel may be loose.

Can you give me a formula for mixing sulphuric acid, nitric acid and water for cleaning brass parts?

The best mixture of sulphuric acid and nitric acid for cleaning brass parts is a 50 per cent of each solution without any water. For regular cleaning purposes this should be kept in a five gallon jar with an earthenware cover to prevent the fumes coming off. It is best to have the jar seated in a wood tray and perhaps water flowing through the wood tray so as to dilute the acid in case the jar should break. When dipping brass articles into this bath the utmost care must be taken not to inhale the fumes, as they are almost fatal, and every care must be taken in handling the solution. It is not a bad plan to put a half handful of table salt in a four gallon mixture. In using a cleaning dip of this nature, which will cut off spots of nickel, etc., be sure that the parts to be dipped are perfectly dry. They should be cleaned in gasoline and entirely free from water, otherwise a pitting action will take place.

The muffler on my car is becoming filled with exhaust products of the motor. How would I clean it before it gets bad enough to cause trouble?

The best way to clean the muffler is to disassemble it and clean the parts separately. If this is not done the result will not be satisfactory.

Graham flour is made by grinding the entire grain to a moderate grade of fineness. Entire wheat flour is made by grinding the grain and removing the three outer coats. If the germ were not removed from the flour, the color and the keeping qualities would be affected.

The Gala Going of the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers Will Enchant You

The peppery pick-up of this energetic car has put color and tang into popular-priced motoring hat was never there before.

There's delight in every revolution of her engine—and there are 3400 revolutions per minute every time the crankshaft attains its maximum speed, which is the highest ever developed in an American stock car.

Her glad, gala going springs from the terrific speed of an engine that was built, however, for much more than mere car speed.

Great force unites with obedience. There are sparkle and response in this 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers that you'll look for in vain in most cars with high-speed engines.

By checking the awful kick of her motor down to a point that corresponds to 60-mile-an-hour speed, her engineers were able to give you instantaneous pick-np and 18 miles of fervent flight for every gallon of gas.

You save $150 to $200 per year in gasoline bills and add many miles to the life of your tires by driving the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers.

Her riding comfort matches her economy of performance—and both spring from the same causes. This is why: her heavy, hardened crankshaft is balanced to the weight of a hair; a perfect balance of power is required and delivered by each of her six cylinders; and finally all useless weight, pressure, and friction have been removed from all reciprocating parts and bearing surfaces.

There is undreamed-of riding comfort in the even, pleasant stream of might that flows at any and every speed to her rear wheels.

One rejuvenating jaunt with your foot on the accelerator of this ruly, spirited creature, and you'll know why she has cast her spell over 740 American cities.

Until you know how it feels to release the delicious rush of power from a 3400 r. p. m. engine, you'll never know the delight of real motoring.

The performance of this engine gave me the suprise of my life—and I expected a lot from her.

She's off like a hare after every crossing stop with never a sign of effort or hint of fret. She slips from speed to speed like a dream-car. She hits the hardest grade with the lightest heart. I know, because I've put her to every conceivable test.

And what she'll do for me, shel'l do for you.

Economy Hints

A penny saved is a penny earned.—Benjamin Franklin.

EVERY one should have on hand directions for removing various stains which are apt to disturb one's peace of mind at some time or other.

A grease spot on silk is a common thing, and yet in many cases it could easily be removed by applying a paste made of equal parts of powdered French chalk and fuller's earth. Allow the mixture to remain on the spot for a few days, and then brush it off.

Iron rust, the bugbear of many housekeepers, can often be effaced by applying lemon juice and salt. Spread the stained article in the sun and keep the stained portion moist with lemon. Wash the article in the regular way when the stain has disappeared.

Milk applied to a fresh ink stain will prove successful in removing it, but the trouble is that the ink usually spills when there is no milk near at hand. In this event the unfortunate one must wait until it is convenient to purchase oxalic acid. Having procured it, the spot should be moistened with cold water before the acid is applied, drop by drop. Allow it to stand a few minutes, and then rinse the stained article in cold water, to which a little ammonia has been added. A medicine dropper is a splendid thing to use to apply the acid.

It is advisable for every woman who was unable to remove fruit stains that marred her linen in the summer to place the linen out in the frost now that real winter days are here.

Stubborn tea stains can be eradicated by spreading the stained portion over a bowl and pouring glycerin through the material. Afterward pour boiling water.

Boiling water poured from a height will also remove coffee stains.

FOR HOUSEKEEPERS.

How to Remember Certain Proportions in Cooking Common Things.

Four eggs to one quart of milk for custards.

One teaspoonful of vanilla to one quart of custard.

Two ounces of gelatin to one and three-quarters quarts of liquid.

One even tablespoonful of baking powder to one cupful of flour.

One teaspoonful of soda to one pint of sour milk. One teaspoonful of soda to one pint of molasses.

One teaspoonful of baking powder is equal to one-half teaspoonful of soda and one teaspoonful of cream of tartar.

In preparing for baking, mix dry materials in one bowl and liquids in another; combine them quickly and put at once into the oven.

The oven for baking bread should be hot enough to brown a teaspoonful of flour in five minutes. For biscuits it should brown in one minute.

Rubbing a pie crust with butter a few minutes before it is time to take it from the oven will make it crisp.

How to "Do" Your Hair For Evenings This Winter.

Coimards of tortoise shell or imitation amber, with touches of gold inlay on the ends, are intended to be thrust through the loose knot of hair.

Pins whose tops are on hinges so that they may be folded down flatly after they are thrust into the hair are set with rhinestones and with colored gems.

Tall Spanish combs of crystal set with brilliants that are beautiful in dark hair or the gray hair of the middle aged woman make stunning hair ornaments.

Gray pins of artistic shades and shapes are popular not only with white haired women, but also with girls who have blue eyes, since the use of gray pins or a gray comb in the hair will accentuate the blue and deepen it.

How to Let Down a Hem of a Cotton Gown.

Almost all cotton dresses shrink in washing and need letting down in the skirt. Before the dress goes to the tub take out the wide hem and turn it again at half the width. This brings the edge of the new hem to the crease in the bottom of the skirt, which gives a straight guide for basting. In almost every case the skirt comes out of the wash just the right length, with no streak of dirt to mark the old line.

Easily Off.

How I Saved My Brother

A Story of Two Confederates

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

Jim and I were twins. The only physical difference between us was that I was born with a deformed big toe on my right foot. When we were boys mother bought two circular pieces of silver about the size of a dollar and hung one around the neck of each of us. On Jim's were engraved the words: "This is James Arthur Chittenden, one of twin boys. He may very easily be distinguished from Frederick Booth Chittenden, his twin brother, by having a perfect great toe on both feet, while his brother has a deformed great toe on his right foot." The disk she hung around my neck stated that I was the brother with the deformed toe. She entered a copy of these inscriptions on our record at the church when we were baptized.

Our home was in the Shenandoah valley, Virginia. When the war between the states opened Jim and I were nineteen years old. We didn't have to go far to see fighting, for there was plenty of it right where we were. General Stonewall Jackson was cavorting up and down the valley, striking one Federal force on one side of the Shenandoah river, then crossing, burning the bridge behind him and cutting up another force on the opposite side.

The general stopped at our house one day and asked Jim to bring him a glass of water. Jim went for it, and, mother calling to him, he asked me to carry the water. I did so, and the general made a remark to me in connection with something he had said to Jim. I explained that it was not I he had asked for the water. He was very much surprised. Presently Jim came out, and the general looked from one to the other of us, evidently much interested in our similarity of appearance.

"Are you young men thinking of fighting for the south?" he asked.

We replied that in deference to our mother's wishes we had not yet done so, but expected to enlist very soon.

General Jackson was very ingenious in his methods of getting information of the enemy. He told Jim and me that if we would enter his secret service force he thought he could use us to better advantage than if we fought in the ranks. We asked him to explain, but he did not do so. However, we concluded to join him and went with him to his headquarters.

The first thing the general did was to order us before a surgeon for physical examination. We were told to strip, which we did, and it was not long before the surgeon noticed my deformed toe. He at once told us to put on our clothes, the examination being ended. Then we were ordered to report to the general. He told us that he wished to send one of us into the Union lines for information, but that the Federals were on the lookout for spies, and capture was almost certain. Of course capture meant death. Jim and I both offered to go, so the general suggested that we draw lots for the privilege. We did so, and Jim won.

As soon as Jim had gone the general told me to get into woman's dress. I did so, and, having no beard, but a pair of red cheeks, I made a first rate girl. The general told me to follow Jim and bring back any information he had to send, for he wished Jim to accomplish all he could.

I fixed up a basket of butter and eggs and went north, selling my produce to the Federal soldiers, keeping my eyes and ears open all the while. Jim had been told to leave any message for me with a certain woman who lived within the Federal lines. I went to her and made myself known, only to learn that Jim had been caught redhanded in her house with a lot of incriminating documents on him.

Now, the general had suggested that in this event I might be able to save Jim by a ruse, and this is why he had us examined to find a physical difference. I went in among the Federal troops and learned that Jim had been tried by a drumhead courtmartial and was to be hanged the next morning. I went at once to the general commanding, told him that I was Jim's sister and begged permission to bid him goodby before he was swung off. The general gave me an order to that effect, and I hurried away. The Federals were encamped on the edge of a town where there was a jail, and Jim was imprisoned there. This favored a plan I had in view. I was taken to his cell, and after much pleading with the jailer he consented to lock me in with Jim for half an hour; then he went away and left us.

As soon as he had gone I told Jim to change clothes with me and go out in my stead. He saw no reason why I would not be hanged if he did, but I convinced him that I could prove that I was a different person. When time was up Jim walked out as a girl, I remained. After waiting long enough for him to get away I sent a message to the general stating that I could prove that I was not the man who was to be hanged. The provost marshal came to me, and I showed him the inscription on the silver disk on my neck, my deformed toe and told him that he could get proof of all I said at a church within the Confederate lines. My story was investigated, and the Federals, becoming convinced of its truth, released me, for it would have been a crime for them to hang me for an act I had not committed.

Jim and I did a heap of such work for the general after that, but neither of us was ever caught again.

Think Ahead

Spring is here and the summer vacation time is not far off, therefore, think ahead of your office, or store, arrangements when your regular staff of helpers are on their vacation.

A few little Want Ads now will ensure you good, competent substitutes for the regular ones while they are away.

Then, when the time comes, all you will have to do will be to drop them a line, or phone them, and your office need not be incommoded for a minute.

GENTLEMEN:

We take great pleasure in introducing to you this morning

"DRESS-UP WEEK"

IT is now on, and some people call it "Fashion Week." It is the latest national institution, and a very worthy one.

Like "Paint-up Week" and such events, "Dress-up Week" is intended to stir things up; give a man a few thoughts about his duty to himself and associates.

The purpose of "Dress-up week" is to remind you that maybe you need new clothes; that maybe you ought to take more interest in your appearance; that maybe your wife and children are tired of that old suit; that the new spring clothes are ready for you.

Now, don't say to yourself, "I am a practical business man, no time for fussing about clothes." If you feel that way, look around at some of the other practical business men of this town; see if some of them don't look more businesslike because they do not "fuss" a little about clothes.

The day has gone by when men were ashamed to dress well; nowadays we find that most all ages like the confidence given by wearing a well cut, smart looking suit or overcoat

So take account of stock; look over the "stand-bys" and see if they haven't stood by you too long.

Good Meats Only at Lay's Saturday Sale

Every new convert to the merits of this market usually comes to us out of curiosity and often with distrust born of past disappointments elsewhere, but invariably he or she remains to buy. The answer is simple. It consists in the fact that our Meats, Bolognas, Frankfurters, Bockwurst, and in fact all the food articles we sell, have more than fair words to commend them. No home, boarding-house or hotel-keeper, who is sufficiently interested to come and see, can doubt this statement. In selecting our meats we use the most painstaking care to see that they carry a real value which fully justifies us in our claims. No market in Kingston which keeps GOOD meats can undersell us, nor will you obtain better service anywhere in the city.

THE HIGHEST MEAT STANDARDS AT Messinger's Saturday Sale

"The folks who come our meats to buy, find that our standard's very high." We've purposely set our standard high and propose to keep it there, come what will. High-grade meats served in a superior way have earned for this market a reputation that is resulting in constantly increasing business. A telephone order will receive the same careful attention that greets a personal visit. In the face of higher wholesale cost of certain kinds of meats, we are keeping our prices down as low as possible, as will be seen by a scrutiny of our Saturday quotations.

NEW PASTOR IN TRINITY CHURCH

On Sunday next the Rev. P. C. Weyant, the newly appointed pastor of Trinity M. E. Church of this city, will occupy the pulpit both morning and evening. Mr. Weyant comes from Delhi, after having served two and one-half years on that charge, where he has done a strong work, and is held in high esteem by the members of his congregation and the community at large. He is well equipped to take up the work at Trinity, and members of the church and congregation look forward to a very successful administration under the new leadership. It is expected that he will be greeted with a large congregation both morning and evening.

LAWRENCE COPLEY THAW

WITH $25,000 A YEAR AT SEVENTEEN PLANS LIFE OF WORK.

New York, March 31.—Lawrence Copley Thaw, seventeen, a half nephew of Harry K. Thaw, has just had his income increased to $25,000 a year by the surrogate's court, and is planning a life of work.

"Don't you consider $25,000 a year pretty extravagant for living expenses?" he was asked

"No, I am not extravagant" answered Mr Thaw. "I've always been quite a tight-wad, at least they tell me I am.

"Just now I am preparing for Columbia, where I intend studying law," he explained amiably. "No, my income will not deter me from practising I regard it merely as a means toward preparing me for a useful career,'—and he coughed discreetly

"Do you really think it will cost you $25,000 a year to live?"

"I don't know until I've tried a model month," Thaw replied "I hope it won't, because I would like to save part of it if possible."

"Well, what would you do if you didn't have this income?" the reported asked

"What would anyone else do?" asked Thaw. "I look pretty healthy don't I? I'm not afraid of work. But I don't like the idea of being called a model boy'. I think it implies that one is more or less effeminate, and thank Heaven, I've never been accused of that

"I am a follower of all sorts of athletics, and although I am not particularly adept in any special branch, I am fond of them and admire those who participate in them"

SUPPLIES AT COLUMBUS NM

Owing to Carranza's refusal to allow the American expeditionary force to use the railroads of Mexico difficulty is being experienced in getting food, fodder and other army supplies to the American flying columns Motor truck trains are doing their best to carry these supplies on to the American forces, but the service is great.

The photograph shows great area quantities of hay, grain and other supplies piled up at Columbus, N. M., awaiting shipment by motor trucks to General Pershing's forces in Mexico.

WHO'S WHO IN TROY COURT HOUSE

Justice Hasbrouck Decides That the Sheiff is It When it Comes to the Appointing of the Court Officers.

Judge Hasbrouck has handed down his decision in the matter of the application of Bernard J. Halligan for a writ of mandamus against Delmer Runkle, as county treasurer of Rensselaer county.

The case briefly stated as described in Judge Hasbrouck's opinion is that at the annual election in November, 1914, a Republican sheriff was elected to succeed a Democratic incumbent. Among the powers of the sheriff by an old law was the appointment of 13 court officers and attendants to serve during court but by an amendment the county laws were amended so as to confer on the board of supervisors the power to fix the amount and time or manner of payment of salaries of the county officers and employe and the mode of appontment, number and grade of assistants or employes in any county office notwithstanding the provisions of any special law. The board of supervisors passed a resolution to take effect on January 1, 1915 empowering the sheriff to appoint three court officers and authorizing the superintendent of the court house and annex to appoint ten laborers at $3 a day.

In his opinion Judge Hasbrouck says, the apparent object was to take the appointment of the thirteen officers out of the hands of the sheriff.

When court convened in Troy in January, 1915, there were apparently two sets of court officers, those appointed by the sheriff and those appointed by the superintendent of the court house and annex. It was decided to recognize those appointed by the sheriff.

The applicant for the writ was a laborer appointed by the superintendent of the court house and annex under the resolution of the board of supervisors. This man wanted pay for his services since being appointed and the county treasurer, Mr. Runkle, held that the appointments made by the superintendent of the court house and annex were not legal and the laborers appointed had not been certified upon an estimate payroll an account by the state civil service commission as required by law. The motion therefore is denied by Judge Hasbrouck.

The Modern Spirit.

The modern spirit is not the spirit "which always denies," delighting only in destruction; still less is it that which builds castles in the air rather than not construct; it is that spirit which works and will work, "without haste and without rest," gathering harvest after harvest of truth into its barns and devouring error with unquenchable fire.

HOW TO DOCTOR FRUIT TREES

A demonstration that had nothing to do with automobiles but which interested every member of the Agriculture Class of the High School and a number of practical farmers as well was given Thursday afternoon by County Farm Bureau Manager W. H. Hook in the orchard of John Reiner at Marius street and Greenkill avenue. The demonstration was on tree-pruning and in all about 40 were in attendance.

In the plain, practical fashion which marks Mr. Hook's demonstrations he showed the different ways in which to properly graft and prune fruit trees and how to treat cankers on apple, pear and plum trees. The more drastic methods employed on peach trees were also exemplified.

How to identify fruit buds and leaf buds, upon what year's wood different fruits are borne, and how water sprouts can be made practical value were shown. This last experiment shows how trees can be made to branch out low and the advantages resulting therefrom. The lack of common sense in attempting to grow hay off the same land where fruit is grown was made plain.

A lively discussion followed and a chance discovery of a peach tree affected by the ravages of borers made an object lesson for the demonstrator. The methods of fighting this pest and also preparedness against sunscald, or canker, and other diseases affecting fruit trees were explained bp Mr. Hook during the two hour session which was pronounced a most profitable one by all present.

Union Evening Service.

The five Protestant churches united in the evangelistic services in January and February, will hold a union service in the First Reformed Church Sunday evening next. A place in the gallery will be reserved for all the members of the Tullar and Meredith chorus until 7:20. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. F. B. Seeley, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church.

Nell Gwyn's Choice.

An old friend was being shown over a country seat in North Wales which is famous for its fine pictures. One of these was a portrait of "Nell Gwyn, after Sir Peter Lely." DRANK POISON BY MISTAKE

Miss Helena K. Dann, 23 years old, died at her home, No. 118 Hone street, Thursday evening shortly after 11 o'clock from the effects of a bottle of poison she had drank by mistake, thinking it was medicine. From what could be learned she had gone to the bath room looking for a bottle of medicine and picked up the wrong bottle. Dr. A. S. Vrooman was summoned and done all that was possible to save her life, but without avail. Besides her mother she is survived by four brothers, George, Peter, William and Charles, and four sisters, Flora, Rose, Martha and Mary. The funeral will be held from the late residence on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, with interment in Montrepose Cemetery.

Villa Led in Massacre.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

El Paso, Tex., March 31.—Francisco Villa in person led the band of troops that massacred the 172 Carranza soldiers forming the garrison at Guerrero, and with his own hand killed more than a dozen of the victims, according to reports reaching the border today. These advices asserted that Villistas were overrunning the entire Guerrero district, robbing, burning and killing.

"PARIS" OPENING A SCENE OF ENCHANTING BEAUTY

Attend This Fashion Show Saturday---Good Music Will be Provided--Come !

Our Annual Opening Exhibition of Spring Millinery began today, and the display was viewed by thousands of of deeply interested women. Tomorrow the exhibit will be even more beautiful. All the minor details—multitudinous as they are in the completion of an affair of this character—will have been attended to, and the kaliedoscopic scene will be marvelous and enchanting.

We wish to see present every woman who can conveniently come, and particularly those ladies who have been paying milliners about the city excessively high prices for their Hats. We refer to members of Kingston's exclusive circles who demand Millinery of the most distinctive character. The sooner women in general understand that this is not a high-priced millinery, the sooner will their dressy appearance reflect the elegance and refinement of our really artistically modeled Hats.

The new management of "The Paris" insists upon the enforcement of a ONE-PRICE rule and the extending of courtesy to patrons—a courtesy that is sufficiently far-reaching to have you approach our store with the friendly spirit we are reaching out to you. Call it what you will, but in the end we all prosper—as we sensibly co-operate—and we all lose when co-operation, through the door of courtesy, fails.

Every Hat on sale during this Opening Display expresses the very latest word in Style and Economy. Here are styles and effects for every occasion, the whole gathering marking our best efforts in bringing out really choice, aristocratic Millinery. And moderate prices are the rule right through the stock. Our lines are purchased for 12 stores from the most reputable makers in the land, enabling us to underprice and overvalue all local competitors.

HORRORS OF WAR SHOWN.

"Birth of a Nation" All That it Was Expected to Be.

"War is hell!" we quote Sherman's words with more or less seriousness. Then we go to some big movie and see a great Roman battle, or scene from the French Revolution, etc., and we repeat the words with a little deeper conviction of what they mean. But nothing produced in the film world can bring to our realization just what those words meant when they were uttered as do the marvelous scenes from "The Birth of a Nation." Those men fighting and dying agonizing deaths with hands outstretched, are our folks and those scenes are in our country where many and many of us have been. While the big audience at the Kingston opera house waxed wildly enthusiastic over the inspiring deeds of valor of the Ku Klux Klan, as well they might, even if not worked up to the point of needing relief for overstrained nerves by what had gone before, still it seemed that the crowning feature of this incomparable presentation of American history was reached in the fall of Petersburgh. The vast stretches spread before one, with the distant encounters, brought nearer until the terrific trench fighting brought the combatants almost within the touch of one's hand, made it possible for even the women in the audience to realize the meaning of "war." It is utterly useless to describe this marvelous production, with the beautiful love story running all through the three hours of rapidly moving scenes, for in the one case it is telling or reading, in the other it is seeing, and the visual impression is always the most intense. It has truly been said that no northerner, especially of today, can fully realize the southern attitude regarding the civil war, its cause and the agonizing reconstruction period until he has seen "The Birth of a Nation." Certainly the resultant realization cuts into one's sense like a surgeon's knife.

And the music of this production is as marvelous as the scenic effects. It is indeed Wagnerian in its form, power and effect. Again and again the sinister motiff of the struggle holds one with an awful dread and prescience. The weird plantation motiff has in it that element of the barbaric that found in a race make possible the scenes enacted in the the little village of Piedmont, South Carolina. The tenseness of all this is relieved by the home music, and the inspiring if occasionally frenzied "bugle call." Woven together in one great whole, sometimes realistic, sometimes prophetic, always an integral part of the story, the music as played by a master orchestra is well worth the hearing alone.

Mr. Gildersleeve has had the largest advanced sale of tickets for the "Birth of a Nation" of any production that he has ever brought to the Kingston opera house.

Nature's Workings.

How plants absorb nitrogen from the soil is utterly unknown. No animal must get the large quantities of nitrogen that are necessary to it by using plants for food. When the animal or the plant dies the constituents of its body are returned to the earth, where the bacteria of putrefaction break up the elaborate organic chemical compounds upon which the plants again can feed.

ADVERTISERS ESTIMATE THE VALUE BY THT CIRCULATION.

And The Freeman has a circulation double that of all other Kingston dailies combined.

TREATMENT THAT SATISFIES

We apply the golden rule of honesty to every department of this dentistry, and permit no transaction to be closed until the patient is satisfied. We have no quarrel with dentists who charge higher prices for their work—it is worth all they can get if it is GOOD. We simply want to do a greater volume of business at less profit. We practice on ethical lines of honesty and efficiency.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, March 30.—Last wednesday evening, March 22, was a stormy one. Snow came down rapidly and the wind blew, as it always blows in March, and was very disagreeable. Still, it was known the Knights of Pythias had issued a number of invitations for their reception and the people felt as if they must make extra effort to be present and there was present for the affair over 100 people, and all were glad they ventured out for they were well paid. The program was fine. The orchestra, composed of Mrs. Kelsey Staples at the piano, Bessie Dickinson, violinist, Charles DuBois, cornet, Hubert Elting, trombone, Kelsey Staples, tenor, was largely responsible for a lot of good music throughout the evening, which was greatly appreciated. Byron Clearwater was master of ceremonies, and called upon A. D. Lent, who welcomed the guests in an appropriate address, delivered in his usual happy vein. Mrs. E. A. Marsh, who is an elocutionist of exceptional ability, gave a recitation which was funny and exceedingly well delivered. She was greeted with enthusiastic applause and responded with a very cute encore. A vocal duet by E. Van Wagner and Clifton Carpenter, was well received. E. A. Marsh, principal of the high school here, gave a fine address and one long to be remembered by all who heard it, and last on the program was the farce entitled "Dinner at Six," and a capital little play it was too. The cast, Mrs. Charles DuBois, Mrs. Lloyd Plass, Misses Hattie and Bessie Dickinson, little Ruby Cornell, George Canfield and William Maynard. These people were all called clever amateurs and the auditors were not slow in recognizing their excellent portrayal with most generous applause. The program was said to be the best ever given for the K. of P. receptions. Mrs. R. H. Decker had the full management of the farce. At the conclusion of this, fine refreshments were served and a social time enjoyel. It seemed good after the cares and trials of the day for all to lay aside their work and spend the evening in a cheerful, social way with the members of the order, who have friendship, charity and benevolence as their foundation stones. Zeno Lodge may congratulate themselves that one more social event has passed on in the history of the Knights of Pythias.

The dance in Feeter's Hall last Saturday night was well patronized. Several from out of town attended and they danced till the wee small hours in the morning.

Mrs. Gertrude Simpson has been quite ill for some time. She is now able to sit up some and we hope soon to see her around as usual.

April 5, the Grangers are going to have an illustrated lecture. All members earnestly invited to be present for this will be interesting.

Mrs. Myron Terpening is spending several days in Poughkepsie with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Jere Miller of Poughkeepsie were guests of relatives here Sunday.

Miss Beatrict Short, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Short, has returned home, after spending some time in Kingston with her grandmother, Mrs. Ganoung.

Reuben Dawald is in Poughkeepsie at St. Francis's Hospital, where he went a few weeks ago. Sorry to report his condition is very serious and we hear no hopes of his recovery. He was a painter and paper hanger and decorator, always had a great deal to do and was a good workman. He will be missed here and out of town also, for he did work in many places and always gave satisfaction.

Highland Library seems to be on the increase with reading matter. It is a grand thing for our place. They have just elected new officers and we expect to see it boom greatly.

G. Bradshaw is at his home here on Milton avenue. He is in Montreal, Canada, and visits his family as often as he possibly can.

Dr. and Mrs. B. W. Reynolds have been entertaining guests from Poughkeepsie a few days the past week.

Rev. J. C. Coddington arrived home from the conference Tuesday evening. He had a busy time. Methodist people here are very grateful that he comes to them again for he is well liked both in and out of the pulpit and is a fine preacher.

Miss Daisy Davis, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. G. S. Davis, former pastor of M. E. Church here, now of Hyde Park was a guest of Miss Clara Mandershied last week at her home on Washington avenue.

Mrs. George Davis, wife of Rev. G. S. Davis of Hyde Park was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Melins recently.

The Masonic order met on Monday evening and admitted one candidate.

Miss Dora Steller, who has been south for some time, has returned to her home on Grand street.

People will not drop asleep in this place, if parties and entertainments can keep them awake for the calendar seems to be filled to overflowing for days and nights. The city will have a job to keep pace with the country.

Miss Ruth Dumond of West Park is spending some time here with her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Simpson.

The men of the Presbyterian Church gave a clam chowder supper Tuesday evening. They declared it was good and we have not heard of any case of indigestion from it. They will be so elated at the service that perhaps they may be called on to act as caterers for some parties in the future. They said they did it all themselves.

Mrs. James S. Mack and Mrs. Nash were shoppers in Poughkeepsie on Monday.

Alfred Palmer of New Jersey was a week end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Palmer, on Grand street.

Queen Esther Circle of M. E. Church was delightfully entertained by Mrs. B. A. Reynolds Monday evening. It was a very interesting meeting.

Wednesday evening, April 5, the Daughters of America will hold their regular meeting. The councilor most earnestly urges the officers to be on time and requests all members to be present as there will, at that meeting, be a candidate for initiation.

Eastern Star will hold their regular meeting on Monday evening, April 3. Every member is expected to be present.

Auxiliary Club will hold their regular business and social on Friday, April 7. The hostesses will be Mrs. Fred Decker, Mrs. John Fisher, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. Edward Tubbs. This meeting will be held in the church parlor, and the membership most cordially requested to be present as the supper and sale will be discussed and many other items taken up.

Auxiliary Club will hold a supper and sale of candy and aprons and many other useful articles the last of April. We have noticed in some papers it said a fair. This is not the case; the season for fairs seems to be winter time. They did not expect to hold a fair this year and it was voted on to that effect months ago. This will be held in the church. The supper will be served downstairs where they have a kitchen and ample seating capacity in the dining room and the sale will be upstairs in the lecture room. We hear they are to have music, and a good time is expected. The committees in charge will tell more of this later, but no doubt this will be first class in every respect as these people never disappoint. They always keep in mind that whatever is worth doing is worth doing well—well worthy and well done acts, like well done meals, are easy to digest.

Mrs. S. A. Ferris was greatly takn back one evening last week when her Sunday school class arrived there and gave her a real old-fashioned surprise party, and to say they enjoyed themselves would be putting it lightly. One of them said they had the best time of the whole season. They enjoyed games and a bountiful supply of refreshments.

Miss Eugenia Terwilliger and brother, William Terwilliger, from this place, were guests the week end of Mrs. Deborah DeGraff at Milton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Rose were out of town Monday.

The M. E. Church here was closed last Sunday on account of the pastor's absence to conference, which was held as usual at half after nine, and in the evening the Epworth League held their meeting. J. W. Feeter was the leader. His topic was a fine one and he handled it admirably, showing forth what work they should undertake. These meetings are growing in interest and numbers, and the league and Sunday school are sisters. They belong to the same household. They are both departments of church work, and each should help the other. The league should be a recruiting station, from which may be drawn disciplined teachers every year, and also for the superintendent to draw his reserves in case of emergency. We offer sincere congratulations to the pastor over the auspicious activities of all the societies in connection with the M. E. Church of this place.

Odd Fellows met Thursday evening in the council room, and they had a good time as usual.

Mrs. Kelsey Staples was a visitor in Poughkeepsie on Wednesday.

Ezra Selleck of Sullivan county was here recently for a visit of a week. He used to reside here several years ago. He is a brother of Mrs. Josiah Covert of Maple avenue.

A. W. Lent, one of our lawyers, has been in Plattsburg for a few days on a business trip.

Miss Susie Lent has been home for a few days from Richmond Hill.

Mrs. Daniel Starr has been on a visit in Newburgh for a few days and reports a very delightful time.

Mrs. Abram Brinckerhoff and daughter, Miss Belle, were shoppers in Poughkeepsie Friday.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church met in the church for their meeting Wednesday afternoon and at that time elected officers for the year.

Irving Rathgeb has been ill for a short time. Glad to report he is able to resume work again.

Mrs. Hopper and daughter, Mrs. Schumacher, spent one day last week visiting in Poughkeepsie with Mrs. Norbet Schutz and had a very delightful time.

Few women from here attended the card party given at Wagner Inn by some suffrage people of Poughkeepsie last Friday afternoon. They spent a delightful afternoon at their games. Punch and cake were served.

James Westcott was in Poughkeepsie on business Monday.

Miss Bessie Dickinson entertained four week end guests from Poughkeepsie.

Look out for the April fool party, or some of those people will get a good joke on some of you people. But you must expect it and take it in fun as it is given.

Mrs. B. Johnson of Washington avenue, who has been in Vassar Hospital for five weeks, returned home Sunday. We were informed they did not operate on her as was expected, on account of high blood pressure. All hope she will improve rapidly at home while under the care of a good doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Millen entertained guests last Sunday from Newburgh.

STONE RIDGE.

Stone Ridge, March 30.—The Home Made Choir, given in the M. E. Church on Tuesday evening, was a great success in spite of the bad condition of the roads which prevented many people from coming. The proceeds amounted to about $45.

Mrs. J. L. Snyder went to Highland on Wednesday to attend the W. C. T. U. convention.

Rev. Chauncey Stevens will occupy the pulpit of the Reformed Church on Sunday morning, April 2.

Regular Grange meeting on Tuesday evening, April 7. Circle No. 1, will have charge of the lecturer's hour.

Irwin Cornish is making extensive improvements to the place purchased by him a short time ago.

DeForest Bishop is having his kitchen enlarged.

Joseph Pratt, Sr., intends putting an up to date plumbing and heating plant in his house, besides making other improvements.

Word has been received that Mrs. Fred Hansen is improving and expects to come home for a visit as soon as she is able to travel. Mrs. Hansen was formerly Miss Elizabeth Vandemark.

The C. E. prayer meeting on Sunday evening will be led by Cornelia Van Wazenen. Subject, "The Consecration of Time." Consecration meeting. Ps. 90:1-17.

The entertainment which was to Mission Band on Tuesday evening. Mission Band on Tuesday evenig, April 4, has been postponed on account of the bad roads until Tuesday evening, April 11. Those who are getting up this entertainment realize that there are many who wish to see this entertainment but who would be prevented from attending owing to the present condition of the roads, and as they wish to give everyone a chance to come, they have postponed it for a week. This is the same band that gave "The White Cap Sisters" last year, an entertainment which all who attended enjoyed. The band hopes to please you as well this year. Besides songs, etc., two dialogues will be given. One by the young ladies entitled "The Wrong Box," and one by the young gentlemen entitled "No Peddler Wanted."

AMERICANS HAVE FOUGHT VILLA

No News of the Outcome of the Fight Has Been Received, Although Gen. Funston is Sure it Took Place.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Antonio, Tex., March 31.—An engagement, the first since United States troops entered Mexico, has been fought by Americans and Mexicans south of the border, according to reliable information which reached Major General Frederick Funston today.

General Funston himself believes that Brig. General John J. Pershing's forces have been in contact with the followers of Francisco Villa, but has received no news as to the outcome of the battle nor its extent.

In a statement given out today, Major General Funston warned the public not to get excited should news of a Mexican victory enanate from sources friendly to Villa, but to wait calmly until the United States military authorities issue a report on the fight—if a fight has taken place.

Army officers at Fort Sam Houston said that if a battle had been fought, it probably took place near the lines of the Mexico Northwestern railroad in the vicinity of Guerrero, state of Chihuahua.

"It is true there may have been an engagement," said Major General Funston. "If so, it is likely that the first news of it may come out through Mexican sources. These reports are liable to be wild, and it is more than likely to give the impression that we have met with disaster. The American public will do well not to get excited until the offical reports of the military authorities are made public."

ABOUT THE FOLKS.

Miss Mary E. Alliger, supreme court stenographer, is recovering from a week's illness at her home on Main street.

Mrs. Walter Kittle of Seager, N. Y., and Miss Beatrice Kittle of New Hurley, are the guests of E. H. Kittle, 77 Maiden Lane.

Mrs. Katherine Rieser of No. 113 Abeel street is in New York city attending the 25th anniversary of the profession as a Dominican nun of her daughter, Sister M. Antoinnette. Sister Antoinnette has been stationed at Holy Rosary Convent, Second street, New York city, for the past 27 years as musical instructress.

A Treat For Port Ewen.

Port Ewen will be given a rare treat Decoration Day night when the play, "The Old Dairy Homestead" will be presented in Pythian Hall. The best of local talent will endeavor to do their best to the different characters in the play. The play was written along the lines of the "Old Homestead" and is full of wit and replete with opportunities for good acting which this cast feels capable of doing justice to. This is the first play to be given in the Pythian Hall this season and as many visitors will be present on that night the cast will present the "Old Dairy Homestead" in their very best way.

Stop-Over Proved Disastrous.

Joseph Jacobs, who told the Newburgh police that he was on his way back from Brooklyn to Dr. Sahler's hospital, this city, informed the recorder in that city Thursday that he had been robbed of $50 and a traveling bag by some strangers. A telephone message to the sanitarium bore out Jacob's statement and he was put on the train for Kingston. He told the Newburgh police that he just couldn't bear to pass through that city without stopping.

Author of "Obvious Adams."

"Obvious Adams," a story of a successful advertising man in the April 1 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, was written by Robert R. Updegraff, a member of the 1906 Ulster Academy graduating class, who is at present advertising manager of the Daniel Low Jewelry Company of Salem, Mass., one of the largest concerns of its kind in the country. Shortly after his graduation, Mr. Updegraff became assistant editor of the "Advertising and Selling" Magazine of New York city and has quickly worked his way forward in the advertising field.

Trains Were Run Recklessly.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cleveland, O., March 31.—Testimony given at the joint probe into the cause of Wednesday's New York Central wreck at Amherst, today, brought out the fact that both sections of train No. 86 were exceeding their regular running time, although fog conditions made this proceeding hazardous. The federal-state probe was presided over by Chief H. W. Belnap, of the interstate commerce commission's division of safety.

Kelder Deeds Filed.

Three deeds relating to the transfer of the Kelder property on Fair street have been filed with the county clerk, the value being estimated at $9,000. One is between Guy, Emma, Anette and Mary J. Kelder and the Shatemuck Realty Company, who made the sale, another between the realty company and Samuel Weisberg the purchaser, and the third between the Ulster County Savings Institution and the four Kelders mentioned above.

HUNDREDS ATTENDED OUR SPRING'S COMPLETE DISPLAY

THURSDAY and FRIDAY

Tomorrow, Saturday Is the Big Day of Our Spring Opening

This Will Be a Day of Great Interest to Women

Every suit and every coat now to be seen in this stock—is a model, you need not hesitate to buy, fearing it will not be in style a month or two hence.

We have adopted for our showing only the most approved models and styles, eliminating all the "freaks" and "fads" that are in style today and out of style tomorrow.

We have laid particular emphasis on the standard and practical things—those which insure your dressing in the very best of taste, and looking the part of an exceptionally well dressed woman.

Quite a few garments are here in the most fashionable black and white checks as an illustration—but not so many of them as to make them commonplace. They're sure to be in style all season—so are the suits in grays, blues and browns—of such fabrics as light-weignt Serges, Poplins, Mohair, Taffetas, Failles and Pongees.

Quite a few of the cloth suits are in very strict tailored models, the coats having notched collars and revers along with mannish sleeves. The upper part of these coats outlines the figure, but considerable fullness is introduced at the sides, below the waistline.

Some garments show mannish waistcoats of silk cloth or linen, giving an extremely smart touch.

Silk suits have jackets of varying lengths, some in flare, some in cape effect. Practically all of the skirts are wide and full—a good many in circular or semi-circular effect, aong with a number that are boxed or side pleated.

Quite a number of silk coats are being shown—in satin, taffeta and faille of pretty shades, and the sport coats in worsted or knitted fabrics as well as in wool velours, novelty checks, stripes and plaids are very much in favor.

To see what is here is to see the BEST of what there is to see—in Kingston. No other local showing—within this price-range of $14.75 to $39.50—can in any way compare with it. And we've higher cost garments—if you wish them.

HIGH cost of gasoline is causing motorists to demand better mileage than most cars can give.

Many car owners are growing tired of using one third of their gasoline just to keep a water-cooling system at work.

Owners of Franklin Direct-Air-Cooled Cars are showing them daily averages of 18 to 25 miles per gallon of gasoline—

Franklin savings in gasoline, tires, upkeep are causing many a man to sell his old car and buy a Franklin.

Come in. Get Franklin facts and figures that will stop that leak in your gasoline tank.

DAY'S WAR NEWS AT A GLANCE

Washington — President Wilson and cabinet discussed submarine controversy at length. No decisive action agreed on pending official report from Ambassador Gerard. Reported Germany defending sinking of certain vessels attacked because they refused to stop on signal.

Berlin—Germans captured Malancourt by storm. French positions on both sides of the village were carried by Germans. Over 300 prisoners taken.

Paris—In fierce night attack, Germans captured Malancourt, delivering assaults on three sides of village. French retired but still hold outskirts of village. Germans suffered heavy losses.

Rome — Twenty-nine Austrian aeroplanes took part in raid over cities in northern Italy. Four machines shot down.

SECRETARY OF STATE ARRIVES

Secretary of State Hugo, the speaker at the Automobile Show tonight, arrived in Kingston at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon via the Rhinecliff ferry and was met by a big delegation of automobiles with the attendant chorus which swelled into a considerable volume of sound. The secretary of state was taken directly to the Eagle Hotel and with him were Mayor Canfield, Hon. Philip Elting and President Elva Bogart, of the Automobile Club.

The secretary of state is known as the best posted official of any state in the union on the extent and growth of the automobile industry and the statistics furnished by his office alone fill ten volumes of atlas size in press clippings alone. Secretary Hugo personally is one of the most approachable of men and is a public speaker of exceptional ability. His presence at the Automobile Show is the occasion of visits from delegations from several other cities of the Hudson valley, some of whose residents want to change the number of the genial secretary's official license either this year or in 1918.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 31.—There was a little demand from room trades at the opening of the stock exchange today because nothing of a disturbing character was reported in the morning news, and the majority of the issues, in which there was speculative interest, ranged higher on the initial sales. These gains, however, were not maintained, except in a few stocks. Steel common opened up ⅝ at 84⅛, and then dropped to 83¾. Studebaker advanced ½ to 140½, but lost this gain in the next few minutes, and similar recessions after opening advances were noted in Maxwell Motor and Inspiration Copper. Reading continued influenced by quiet accumulation, and gained ¾ to 85¾. Mexican Petroleum advanced 1⅜ to 108⅜8, from which it reacted to 108⅛. Both Utah and Anaconda made fractional gains. Crucible Steel rose 1⅛ to 89¼. Changes in the other issues were mixed and without importance.

Price movements in the late forenoon were irregular, some stocks being in good demand at moderate advances, while others were heavy and ranged fractionally below yesterday's close. Steel common held firm around 84, and Union Pacific advanced ¾ to 132½. Inspiration rose to 47⅞, American Locomotive to 79¼, and Industrial Alcohol to 154. American Beet Sugar fell ⅝ to 71⅝. Money loaning at 2 per cent.

Price movements in the late afternoon continued irregular, increased activity being shown in some issues, while others, including the railway issues, were heavy and declined substantially. New York Central declined to 103¼, and fractional losses were scored in Reading, Union Pacific, and St. Paul. Bethlehem Steel jumped 25 points to 480, Baldwin rose to 105⅜, Marine preferred to 70½, and Crucible to 91⅜.

The market closed irregular. Price movements in the last hour were confused. New York Central fell 2 points on large selling by an important house. New Haven was heavy. Reading and St. Paul showed fractional losses. The specialties displayed strength. Crucible Steel crossed 93, a gain in all of 5 points. Steel common moved up ¾ to 84½. Governments unchanged; other bonds irregular.

Real Pleasant.

Nellie, aged four, was gazing intently at the visitor's new bonnet.

"Well, dear," asked the lady at last, "what do you think of it?"

"Oh," replied the small observer, "I think it's all right. Aunt Mary told mamma it was a perfect fright, but it doesn't frighten me any." — Kansas City Star.

RU-BER-OID ROOFING

COSTS MORE—WEARS LONGER

Every roll of RU-BER-OID that we have sold has given perfect satisfaction.

We know that RU-BER-OID is made of better materials than any other roofing that we could buy. It contains no paper, wood fibre, tar, asphalt or other short-lived materials such as are found in cheaper roofings.

RU-BER-OID roofs put on more than 20 years ago are still watertight and look as good as new.

RU-BER-OID roofing always looks well. Its color is attractive gray—the same shade as more expensive slate. Colored RU-BER-OID (Kolor-oid) is made in permanent Tile Red and Copper Green.

Come in and let us show you this roofing, which is so good that it is widely imitated. So called "Rubber roofings" are counterfeits. There is only one RU-BER-OID. The genuine has the "Ru-ber-oid Man," shown above, on every roll.

M'GRAW WILL DEPEND ON HIS VETERANS

Great Things Expected of New York Giants' Pitchers.

John McGraw, Giant manager, says he has three pitchers on whom he can count for good work this season. Poor pitching put the Giants in the second division last season.

"Dope that Matty is through and that some of the other pitchers who did not do well last season will not be good this year is not borne out by baseball experience," says McGraw.

WHERE BALL STARS SPARKLE

Scout Mike Kahoe Gravely Informs Umpire Evans Where He Had Seen Many Crack Players.

Late last summer Umpire Evans bumped into Mike Kahoe, scout for the Boston Braves, after he had returned from a scouting expedition that had covered a number of western minor circuits.

"Have you seen any stars this summer, Mike?" Evans asked.

"A lot of them," he answered. Evans' curiosity was aroused, for Kahoe, always successful in digging up young phenoms, evidently had picked up some new ones.

"In what league did you see them?" Evans queried.

IS STRONG FOR DISCIPLINE

Percy Haughton, New Owner of Braves, Always an Advocate of Obedience to Training Rules.

Discipline is likely to be the watchword of the Boston National league baseball club under the direction of the new president, Percy D. Houghton, during the coming season. Haughton, as a Harvard baseball and football player, and later coach of the eleven, has always been a strong advocate of strict obedience to training rules, instructions and the playing code of whatever game he was interested in.

While it is not to be expected that Haughton will insist that the players of the Boston Braves will be held to the same degree of accountability that prevails in college football circles, it is certain that the new president of the club will insist upon an observance of all the rules recently laid down by former President Gaffney in his letter to the players, and may even go further. With Haughton as president and George Stallings as manager, it would appear as though the players of the Boston club will have to make baseball playing strictly a business proposition in 1916, or learn that a new regime prevails in the game.

"I would like to ask you one more question," said the youth.

"Let it come," rejoined the home grown philosopher.

"When," queted the youth, "would you say that a man has achieved greatness?"

"When he deserves his own opinion of himself," answered the home grown philosopher.—Chicago News.

POULTRY

HAVE CLEAN NEST MATERIAL

Percentage of Dirty or Soiled Eggs May Be Materially Reduced by Proper Management.

Poultry keepers may easily reduce the percentage of dirty or soiled eggs, and losses entailed to insignificant figures. First, an ample number of nests is, of course, necessary, but an ample number means no more, than, and probably not as many as, are usually directed by poultry writers. Laying houses are, as a rule, provided with a sufficient number, but where the keeper falls down is in failing to supply enough nesting material and floor litter.

Obviously the nesting material must be clean, or the eggs become soiled by contact, and it must be sufficient in quantity, or the eggs are often broken by dropping upon the hard floor of the nest.

In houses where the dropping-boards are above the nests, and the custom is to sand the boards, small stones often drop into the nest and breakage results when newly-laid eggs fall upon them. The condition of nests should be noticed daily, and the nesting material replenished when necessary. Plenty of nesting material prevents breakage and insures clean eggs.

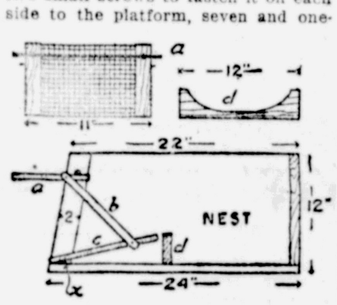

An ample and clean litter on the floor is also very essential when an A-1 clean product is sought. Particularly is this true when the hens are allowed outdoors during wet weather. The litter acts as a food mat for the hens on their way to the nests.

MAKING A CHEAP TRAP NEST

Simple and Satisfactory Device Can Be Constructed From Orange Box at Small Expense.

Here is a trap nest that can be made from an orange box for less than $1, writes Thomas Mayberry of Pennsylvania in Farm and Home. The box is 24 inches long, 12 inches wide and 12 inches high. It is shown ready for the hen to enter. When she treads on the platform, C, to go to the nest she closes the door, A, behind her and her weight will not let her out. B is made one by one-fourth inches, with two small screws to fasten it on each side to the platform, seven and one-half inches from screw to steel rod X. A is the door covered with one-half inch wire netting. The platform is held off the bottom by wire staples and rod X goes through it. A, the door, has staples for the rod to go through, as shown at the tip, and one inch from that is where the screws hold. D is a partition three inches high to keep the nesting material in place.

VENTILATION FOR HENHOUSE

Reason Given for So Many Apparently Healthy Fowls Dropping Dead Off Their Roosts.

It has been proved by experiments that impurities given off from the lungs of one animal are much more poisonous to another animal than they are to the animal giving them off.

You can prove this for your own satisfaction, if you care to. Put a mouse in a self-sealing fruit jar and make the cover tight. In a few minutes he will begin to show signs of suffocation. Then without admitting any more fresh air than you can help, introduce a second mouse into the jar. This second mouse will die before the first one, though he was fresh when the first one was nearly suffocated. The reason for this is that the second mouse did not die of suffocation, but was killed by the poison given off from the lungs of the first one.

It is entirely possible that this is the reason why so many hens in apparently good physical thrift drop dead off the roost. The ventilation is poor and the birds become poisoned by the gases from the lungs of their perchmates.

UNIFORMITY IN EGGS URGED

Separate Dark-Colored Eggs From the Light and Keep the Different Sizes by Themselves.

It will be worth an experiment to assort eggs before selling them, by separating the dark-colored eggs from those that are light, and also having the different sizes together.

Appearance is worth a great deal in the selling of an article, and eggs will sell quicker than anything else if sent to market in an attractive manner, which adds at least one-fourth more to the prices.

STYLE TIPS.

About Capes, Frills, Scarfs, Ribbons and Other Frivolities.

Skirts are to be longer, if we are to believe a certain rumor which comes from Paris—not very long, but not quite so abbreviated as they have been for some time. Some of the evening gowns, on the other hand, are closely draped and clinging, falling in at the feet with narrow pointed trains, and as different as possible from the fluffy skirted creations which we are now wearing.

Then the new lingerie is very fascinating, but not a single scrap of lace is to be used for decorating it by those who wish to be really up to date. Silk, ninon and crepe de chine have taken the place of lawn and cambric and are simply ornamented with very fine hemstitching or silk embroidery and rows of handwork in faggot or chain stitch or buttonholed slots for inserting ribbon. Flesh pink is still the most popular color or an exquisite shade of pale parma violet mauve.

For afternoon frocks there is a distinct tendency to copy old fashioned modes, such as the styles of 1830 and the latter part of the eighteenth century. Silk gowns are made with paniers very much looped up at the sides and back over contrasting underskirts. The sleeves will be close fitting for afternoon frocks, with a little puff at the top, while for evening dresses they are made with a tiny puff all by itself.

Tailor mades are completed with little capes across the shoulders or falling down the center of the back as far as the waist line. Most fascinating of all perhaps are the quaint neck ruffles in velvet or taffetas that make such a pretty frame to the face. These will be designed to suit the particular gown and will have a tiny bunch of flowers or a bow of colored ribbon in one of the old fashioned shades, such as sevres blue or vieille rose, attached to one side.

Long ninon or taffeta scarfs are also designed to match the various frocks, often in black, lined with a contrasting shade and bordered with a narrow ribbon ruching or embroidered with sprays and wreaths of small flowers in silks and ribbon work. Anything, indeed, that gives a suggestion of the days of long ago is a feature of the newest design.

DENIES WAITE BOUGHT HER LOVE.

Mrs. Margaret W. Horton, Photographed in the District Attorney's Office.)

New York, March 31.—The childlike smile of innocence was wiped from the face of Mrs. Margaret Weaver Horton, the beautiful young "woman of mystery" in the Peck murder case, by a query put to her in the District Attorney's office. She answered it stormily.

"Did Dr. Waite pay my husband $8,000, through A. Morrison, for alienation of my affections? No! No! I never heard of A. Morrison in my life, and neither did my husband."

All through the difficult hours of questioning during the last few days Mrs. Horton had remained calm and good natured. With no appearance of anger, she had just denied being a corespondent in the divorce suit of the Cincinnati family with whom she made her home. But she did not once smile after the mention of the $8,000.

"I could kill the people who say things about my husband!" she cried later in the office of her attorney, Harold Spielberg. "They'd better not do it."

It had been learned that A. Morrison, lawyer of Miss Catherine Peck, Dr. Waite's aunt; had obtained $8,000 by a real estate transfer about the time that a similar amount came into the hands of Harry Mack Horton and his wife.

"He got the money from wireless telegraphy with Mexico," explained Mrs. Horton. "He didn't get it all at once, but in small sums. They don't know how to understand a gentleman. Because my husband has stood by me they drag out every little fact of his life in the effort to make him seem a criminal. They've got to stop it. I'm in the mood to do anything.

"I've only done what a million other women do constantly, in being guilty of a slight indiscretion," she asserted, wearily. "It was just my luck to have it all come out like this. Of course, it didn't imply that I was going abroad with Dr. Waite because I studied the languages with him. I couldn't sing Italian operas in English, could I?"

By La Racontense.

Such accessories as gloves, hats and neckwear, are important details to be considered if a woman desires to be correctly attired. White silk gloves with striped borders are new and very attractive. The collar of white voile with dainty filet lace edge is a late creation. A charming turban of lacquered straw trimmed with a dashing moire bow is more youthful and fashionable.

A Story of Medieval Art

By ETHEL HOLMES

Satan, while always sowing, reaps by periods. Every now and again the world is astonished at some new outbreak of evil—not the ordinary criminality that is always with us, confined largely to those who are born to crime, but a harvest of villainy among those who are supposed to stand for morality.

An epidemic of crime settled upon Italy during the middle ages which pertained more especially to the very highest classes. It became the custom to eliminate one's enemy or such as stood in one's way by poison. Scientists instead of devoting themselves to interpreting the secrets of nature with a view to preserving life used their talents to discover means of producing death. Persons in authority instead of trying to benefit those under their sway sought the means of secretly putting out of the way those who opposed them.

The city of Florence, then in the province of Tuscany, has always been the home of art. A young man in Pisa, Giovanni Tolci, having shown marvelous artistic talents, removed to Florence to get the benefit of the masters and the works of art to be found in that city. So rapid was his progress and so great became his fame that he received a commission from the pope to paint an altar piece.

During Giovanni Tolci's stay in Florence, while loitering one evening on the banks of the Arno, he saw a girl on one of the bridges looking down into the river. Going on to the bridge, Giovanni stood near her and saw that she was looking at the mild Italian heavens reflected in the water. From her rapt appearance he surmised that she possessed that artistic temperament which was in himself. He was seized with a desire to know her and, inquiring who she was, secured an introduction.

Bianca Cellini was not an artist herself, but art was so natural to her that she was of inestimable benefit to Giovanni. She was able to warn him when he was entering upon false ground and to encourage him when he struck that which promised well. So keen was her artistic sense that he came to rely upon her entirely and would not trust his work until she had criticised it.

Bianca came to love the man in whose career she was interested. As for Giovanni, he was absorbed in his work. If he loved Bianca he was not aware of it, though there was a vague feeling within him that she was necessary to him as a companion as well as a critic.

When his altar piece was finished he left Florence with it to take it to Rome. On parting with Bianca he said to her:

"Whatever success I have made in this picture I owe to you. If it brings me fame you are entitled to share it with me. There is no way by which you can do that so well as becoming my wife. That you shall be whenever you choose."

"You owe me nothing, Giovanni," was the reply. "If I have guided you on right artistic paths it has been with the greatest ease. I have had simply to see with my eyes and speak with my voice."

Giovanni, not considering that his cold offer was unlikely to draw any different reply, was much disappointed in it. It is possible that it revealed to him that his heart was in Bianca's possession. At any rate, he went to Rome wishing that she had accepted his offer.

His altar piece was accepted by the pope and when set up in the church for which it had been created was much admired. The new artistic star that had arisen was much courted. At times when he was surrounded by flatterers Bianca was forgotten, but as soon as he was alone she resumed her accustomed place in his mind, and he remembered that it was largely due to her he was enjoying this triumph.

At this time the Borgias were prominent in Rome. Signora Beatrici Borgia, who had married in the celebrated Borgia family, hearing of the fame of the Florentine artist, expressed a desire to see him. She was a very ambitious woman, one who possessed great power over men and who achieved her ends by bringing them under her sway. It occurred to her to make a conquest of this shining light. Why she desired to do so is not clear; but, judging from her character, it is probable that it was simply the eclat the domination of a famous man would give her.

Signora Borgia sent for Giovanni Tolci and commissioned him to paint her portrait. During the sittings she was dressed in the most becoming costumes that could be devised. She was as beautiful as she was unscrupulous and strove to dominate the artist through his senses. While he was at work he kept her talking in order to bring out an animated expression. She contrived to turn the conversation upon what interested him, for she was desirous to learn if his heart was preoccupied.

It was not long before she got the story of Bianca. Giovanni, who was not yet conscious of the fact that Bianca possessed his whole heart, spoke only of what he owed her as a counselor, but the wily signora knew more about what he really felt than he did himself. Since he dwelt continually on the little Florentine girl and would talk of no one else Signora Borgia was not long in inferring that he loved her.

All the art the temptress possessed, all the flattery, the appeals to the senses, seemed to elicit but little response from the artist. The last named appeal was the strongest, but its effect was only temporary. She prolonged the sittings by requiring him to do over certain features, but even with this advantage she knew before the picture was finished that the Florentine girl was keeping from her the man she wished to conquer.

When nothing more seemed to be done to the portrait Signora Borgia said to the artist:

"This girl to whom you owe so much should share the triumph you are sure to make in this portrait. I am going to send for her to come to Rome to visit me, that she may enjoy your success."

Giovanni, who had arranged with the pope for a mural decoration that would take him at least a year to finish, eager to see again the girl who by this time he realized was necessary to him, gladly fell in with the plan. He sent a letter to Bianca with the one dispatched by the signora, assuring her of the change there was in him since he had left her and begging her to accept the invitation. Indeed, he wrote a genuine love letter.

Bianca, who was desirous to learn more of the woman whose portrait her lover was painting, wrote that she would come to Rome, but would feel bound to visit an aunt living there who had long ago given her a standing invitation. Signora Borgia insisted that when Bianca came she must sup at her palazzo with her and Giovanni.

Bianca went to Rome and a few days after her arrival went with Giovanni in the evening to the palazzo of Signora Beatrici to supper. If the artist had given away his feelings for Bianca in her absence he certainly confirmed the matter in her presence. His love was apparent as the sun in heaven.

There seems to be a sixth sense in women that enables them to discern antagonism from members of their own sex. Signora Borgia made a great ado over Bianca, expressing herself as delighted with her and folding her in an embrace. Giovanni, however, noticed a tremor pass over his beloved, and when released from her hostess' arms she was deadly pale. But she soon recovered herself and seemed to be trying to show her appreciation of her reception. When her wraps had been laid aside supper was announced, and the three went into the room where it was laid.

For an hour they continued to partake of a sumptuous repast. The signora pressed her guest to partake of her wines, of which there was a great variety, saying: "Try this; it came from Sorrento and is considered very fine. Here is some from Frascati. Perhaps you will prefer it to the other. This muscatel is delicious." In this way she endeavored to persuade her guests to drink. Bianca sipped the first glass handed her, and nothing could induce her to touch another. She also gave an appealing glance to her lover, which served its purpose, for when the signora placed a glass before him he simply wet his lips with the wine.

Toward the end of the meal the hostess reached for a dish of figs on the center of the table and handed one to each of her guests. Bianca noticed that when the signora handed her a fig she selected it carefully from the dish. Bianca took it and noticed a tiny mark on it so near the color of the fig as scarcely to be distinguished. She left the fruit on her plate without touching it.

"Do you not like figs?" asked the signora.

"I do not care especially for them," was the reply.

"Try mine, and I will eat yours."

Bianca clapped her hand on the fig on her plate, uttering at the same time a cry. The hostess looked at her as if in astonishment and said:

"Give it to me. I will eat it."

Bianca held it in her clinched hand. "No," she said; "I will take it home and eat it there."

The signora changed from leopardess to lion.

"Give it to me!" she cried imperiously.

Bianca clutched it all the tighter. The signora strove to take it from her. Bianca begged Giovanni to take and keep it. He did so, and the three stood surveying one another with blanched faces and flaming eyes.

The signora ran into another room. Bianca made for an exit, followed by her lover, and when their hostess returned to the supper room with a stiletto they had vanished.

"What does it all mean?" asked Giovanni of Bianca.

"The fig is poisoned."

And so it proved on applying a test. Signora Borgia was too powerful to warrant an accusation. Giovanni and Bianca returned at once to Florence. He claimed that a swollen wrist would prevent his doing the mural work ordered by the pope and refused to return to Rome.

Of course this refusal was not to be maintained if the pope chose to enforce the order. The holy father would not have done so had not Signora Borgia circulated a report that the swollen wrist was a mere pretext to avoid returning to Rome. This report coming to the pope's ears, he ordered Giovanni to return on pain of incurring the displeasure of the head of the church. In Rome he would be examined by a physician and if his wrist was in a condition to prevent his using a brush he would be excused.

When Giovanni received this new order he bethought himself how to evade it. Signora Borgia's attempt to poison his sweetheart would not be accepted as a reason for defying the head of the church. He purposely wrenched his wrist so that it would require months to heal. Then he went to Rome, was examined and excused.

A Mistake Somewhere.

"Is it true, Miss Gertie," he said, "that there are just two things a woman will jump at—a conclusion and a mouse?"

"No," she answered; "there is a third, Mr. Philip."

After thinking the matter over a few moments he tremblingly made her an offer, but she didn't jump at it. He was not the right man.

Box Trees of Aalsmeer.

Aalsmeer, Holland, is noted for its strawberries and the clipped box tree. This local industry, which has been brought to a perfection unknown elsewhere, has been carried on for at least 200 years, as the village records show. The nurseries are most curious and interesting. In the rich peaty soil box trees grow in every size and shape.

Appropriate Styles.

"That elocutionist believes in dressing the part for any recitation."

"How do you mean?"

"Why, when she read the story about the sailors deserted on the lonely island she wore a costume of maroon, and at her lecture on Celtic wit her dress was all trimmed up with Irish point."—Exchange.

EDDYVILLE.

Eddyville, March 31.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gumaer of New Salem are receiving congratulations over a young son, born Wednesday, March 29.

Don't forget the union service of the Eddyville Epworth League and St. Remy Christian Endeavor in St. Remy Reformed Church, Sunday evening, April 2. All are cordially invited to attend.

The dance given in McNamee's Hall by some of Rosendale's young people, was a success and all present enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

Mrs. Henry Raymer spent Tuesday in Kingston.

Miss Lulu Snyder of New Salem is spending some time in Germantown.

Miss Adaline McNamee, who has been very ill with tonsilitis, is improving slowly, under the care of Dr. Rymph.

Miss Inez Raymer, who has been ill, is improving.

Mrs. Michael Coffey, her daughter, Madge, and three sons, Augustus, Joseph and Hubert, are spending some time at their home in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Tooker have returned to this place, after spending the winter in Waterbury, Conn.

Boys' Baseball Teams to be Organized by Y. M. C. A.—Big Circus Coming—Volley Ball League Tonight.

With the advent of spring the baseball bug is in the air and the boys are commencing to talk and dream baseball. The Y. M. C. A. has decided to organize a boys' league for boys under 16 years of age. Any boy desiring to play in the league is requested to register with Physical Director Godfrey at the Association. It is hoped that enough boys will register so that at least six teams may be formed to play this summer.

Preparations are under way for the big indoor circus to be given at the Y. M. C. A. April 24 and 25. The circus promises to be the best ever held by the association.

This evening the seniors will organize a volley ball league to play during April and May.

WILLIE KEELER

WILLIE KEELER TO DON SPANGLES ONCE MORE

New York, March 31.—Willie Keeler is to don the spangles once more. Wee Willie one-time wonder with the bat and in the outfield, has been signed to manage the Allentown Club of the Pennsylvania State League.

Keeler has not been active in baseball since he left the New York Yankees. He was coach with the Superbas for a while and did some scouting work but on the main he attended pretty strictly to real estate business in Brooklyn. Keeler was approached with what looked like a good proposition in Allentown, where it is understood he will have a financial interest in the club. Willie's advent as a manager will be watched with great interest.

ARMORY CROWDED AT SHOW OPENING

chaps that were carrying the guns represented the loyality and the sentiment not only of themselves but of the men and the boys along the sidewalk that watched them march by.

"I like to see the National Guard, not because I like war—I hate war—I hope the time will never come that these guns shall belch forth their fire. I like to see these boys in uniform and trained because it means here in this city as in other cities of the state the same spirit of devotion to the things that you and I know are worth while. Because it means that here as elsewhere in this state the spirit of liberty and devotion is living today as it has lived down through the years.

"I congratulate you on this splendid gathering. I congratulate you on your exhibition. I congratulate you more on the fact that it is your privilege, as it is mine, to be a citizen, proud of your citizenship in the greatest, noblest, most powerful and the best state in the great union in which we live today and to which we are forever devoted."

Attended Banquet.

At the close of the governor's address he was again greeted with prolonged applause. He and his party then left for the Stuyvesant Hotel, where he was the guest of honor at the annual banquet of the Automobile Club of Ulster County.

Fine Musical Program.

After the governor had left a fine musical program was rendered by Muller's Band and there was no perceptable diminishing in the large attendance who devoted considerable time to visiting and enjoying the various exhibits.

Seating Capacity Limited.

Owing to the large amount of space taken up by the exhibits it was impossible to place chairs on the floor of the drill shed and the only seats to be had were in the big gallery at the rear of the hall which was crowded every seat being taken and many standing up.

On the floor, however, many took advantage of the courtesy of the automobile dealers and occupied seats in the cars on exhibition. Through the courtesy of N. C. Lezatte & Son, whose exhibit was near the speakers' platform, the reporter was enabled to sit in comfort and enjoy the speaking. While the reporter is not up on automobiles he wants to add that the Pullman car handled by the Lezattes is a very comfortable car to sit in and undoubtedly its running qualities are just as good.

Show a Success.

Judging from the attendance at the first night the automobile show will be one of the most unqualified successes ever held in Kingston.

Catskill Line's New Agent.

Walter E. Way of Albany has been appointed traveling freight and passenger agent of the Catskill Evening Line, which recently came under the control of the Hudson River Day Line.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS NOTES

This evening the junior class of the high school will give the first dance of its social season. It is to be an informal affair of middy blouses, and street shoes, and a happy-go-lucky spirit will take the place of the formality which some might prefer. The juniors intend to have the gymnasium decorated for the occasion, and in every way intend to make the dance equal to any given in the high school gymnasium except in regard to the number of pieces in the orchestra, and the price of admission which will be the lowest price charged for any school dance this year, 15 cents for the young men, and 10 cents for the young ladies. The attendance will by no means be restricted to juniors, nor to members of the student body. The junior class is becoming known in the school for its democracy, and its desire to play the game squarely, and a proof of this is that any friend who may possibly feel that he has not gotten his money's worth out of the dance tonight will have it refunded upon request.

Junior Comedy.

Under the able direction of Miss Parker the junior comedy is fast progressing toward perfection. The 19th of April is the date set for its production, and the high school press is doing its part to make it as great, or greater success than the recently given minstrels, by printing the tickets, and the programs for the juniors. Both parts of the entertainment which will be given, have proven great laugh producers. "The Case of Suspension" was given in this city some years ago, and then proved its worth. While the scene, "Mr. Struver Proposes to Wed" taken from Dickens, "Tale of Two Cities," is always remembered by all who have read that portion of the novel, as one of the most humorous of the many humorous sketches found throughout that writer's works.

Around the World in 40 Minutes.

The world is shrinking. Not in terms of miles, but in the time necessary for travel and communication. It took the old Greeks forty days to go the length of the Mediterranean in heir swiftest triremes. The greatest stretch of open water in the world is 10,000 miles in the Pacific ocean. Vessels afloat today can traverse this 10,000 miles in one-half the time it took the Greeks to go the length of the Mediterranean. A message from Philadelphia to San Francisco in 1849 required months for delivery. Now the Liberty Bell is struck in the Quaker City and telephone wires instantly carry the ringing notes over plain and mountain to the ears of listeners at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. When Jules Verne published "Around the World in Eighty Days," the journey described was laughed at as an impossible feat. Today it is possible to circle the globe in one-half the time of which Jules Verne wrote. With the balopticon it is even possible to circle the world in forty minutes, as will be illustrated at the Rondout Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening. Admission always free.

taxed for the protection of the health of its citizens and countless other activities, simply for the making of the right kind of men and women to make the right kind of a state.

"Thus," he said, "if danger comes to the state, through these opportunities given your boys and mine they may be depended upon to protect the priceless privileges involved in American ideals and the American republic."

Safeguard Against War.

Such form of preparedness, he set forth, was not because we want war, or because we believe in war and want bloodshed, but because we hate war and regard it as one of the worst things that can befall us when it becomes the solemn duty of the people to protect their nation. In this connection, the executive paid his respects to the pacifists who assert that such training begets love of warfare and encourages a juvenile fighting spirit, stating that the more intelligent belief in the country scouted such views.

"And Ulster county is an intelligent county, the most intelligent in the state—I think I got one of the largest majorities of any county in the state in Ulster," the governor interjected amid laughter.

The Governor referred to the loss of hundreds of thousands of lives in the Civil War and thousands in the Spanish-American war because of stupid, untrained and untaught leadership of men called upon to take charge of regiments who had not yet learned to take care of themselves, a statement he said that Grand Army veterans and soldiers in the later war could bear him out in. If it ever came to be the lot of the boys of the present day to pay the last full measure of devotion he said, responsible for a repetition of these blunders will be upon the head of father, mother guardian or friend who now urges against the teaching of military training for the youth of the commonwealth.

Making True Americans.

"Those people are doing the very thing to create a condition such as we have had before," he declared, "when the flower of our manhood has blundered on by the hundred thousands to death. It is the duty of our government to guard against a repetition of such a calamity and the military training is not to teach our boys to be soldiers but to be the right kind of true American citizens."

Governor Whitman then paid tribute to the Empire State, citing the oft-quoted impressions of western progress such as are styled the Wisconsin idea, the Iowa idea and other reforms credited to that section of the country. He scouted the belief that along social, altruistic and charity lines that this New York Sate was backward and the West leading in these works.

Many Activities of State.

"The State of New York," he said, "is today paying more per capita for the education of its youth than any other state in the Union, than any other political unit in the world. It is doing more for charity, more for the health of its citizens. Proportionately I mean too for, of course, this state has more citizens than any other. Four millions of dollars a year are paid for charitable work and eight millions for hospitals. More is paid out for prisons and we are doing more for criminals, more on any altruistic and social line for the betterment of our fellow men and for the succour of the distressed and helpless than any other states. When we hear of how much other states are doing if we as citizens only take the time to look into what our own state is doing, more and more will we have reason to be proud of New York and of the fact that the Empire State is leading the entire United States in movements for the uplifting of man and for the improvement of the human race."

Speaking on taxation, the governor said that so long as the money raised was spent on public improvements, was spent for the state and for its citizens, and honestly spent, we can stand the taxation bill. The question, he declared, is not one so much of higher taxes as it was whether the people received a dollar's value in return for every dollar expended.

Praise for Ulster Solons.

"So far as we can judge, I believe the men associated in the administration of this state are honest and honestly endeavoring to give such service," he said, "and there are no better men than those you have sent to the legislature as your representatives. I believe those men are honestly trying to give the best service to the public."

In conclusion, the governor declared that he pleadged himself to a continuance of that policy in his administration. He praised party government in this country and said it was a good thing to have two political parties watching each other and criticising each other so long as the citizens understand that the men placed in office know they are going to be held responsible for their conduct. In this connection the governor took occasion to praise Republican party principles briefly and the policies he has endeavored to carry out at Albany.

"For the next few months—I almost said years," said the governor in closing, "we are going to conserve the interests of the people of this state, the interests of the whole people all the time!"

An outburst of applause showed that the governor's emphatic expression of his sentiments had found a responsive chord among his hearers and the diners expressed their appreciation of his presence in unmistakable enthusiasm. The governor was unable to remain throughout the banquet and shortly after his speech left the Stuyvesant.

President Frank M. Baucus of the New York State Automobile Association, introduced as the man who has done more for roads than any other man in the state, followed Governor Whitman and launched into a dissertation upon the importance of the automobile and its growth in this to fourth place in the country's industrial life in which lumber, steel and clothing led in the order named.

Praise For Auto Show.

The speaker said he was glad that he came for three reasons, first because the Kingston exhibition was the finest of the kind he had attended in the Hudson Valley, second because the ladies were present and third because the governor of the state was present and converted into a real good automobilist.

He continued to discuss taxation, urging the need for motor trucks and busses bearing more of these burdens rather than pleasure cars. How a club can protect its members and owners of cars, aid in the placing of properly lettered signs for tourists were other points together with praise for the Rondout bridge project which he hoped would soon be realized.

"Treat the stranger right, don't try to get all his money," was another maxim President Baucus offered and he urged co-operation in place of selfishness. He then made a plea for Motordom which his predecessor in office, A. J. Deere of Hornell, he declared, was conducting at a considerable loss. He urged assistance from the club in getting subscribers and getting advertisers as the latter would meet the expense of publication, he said, while the magazine worth $1 would cost members only 25 cents. In conclusion, he expressed the hope that the Ulster Club would soon increase from 200 members to three times as many from among the 2,200 motorists in the county and that next year would see the state association composed of 125 clubs with a total membership of 25,000 instead of 15,000 as at present.

Secretary Baker Speaks.

Secretary Herbert W. Baker of the State Association, reviewed legislation affecting automobilists and told of 114 bills affecting autoists introduced last year at Albany, of which 111 were killed. Those passed were favored by the association and included the law compelling lights on all vehicles and the sale of gasoline on Sunday. He told stories which kept the audience in more or less of an uproar for nearly an hour.

Mayor in Brief Speech.

Mayor Canfield, who made the principal address at the armory earlier in the evening, made a brief response in which he recited a humorous poem on "My Auto, 'Tis of Thee."

The only other speech contributed was from a trolley car conductor, who announced the last car for Rondout and the banquet finally broke up at about 1 o'clock this morning after one of the most successful gatherings of its kind in the history of the club,

Ellenville Defeated Liberty.

A basketball game of importance to inland sporting towns was played at Monticello Wednesday night when the Ellenville Independents defeated the Liberty Emeralds by the close score of 24 to 20 before an attendance of 800. Ellenville's line-up included Tuthill, McDowell and Charles Freer, forwards; Edwin Taylor, center; Chris Sherry and George Freer, guards.

NO DROP IN COAL PRICES

The Usual Drop in Price of Coal the First of April Will Not Occur Saturday—No Change in Price Until Mining Difficulties Are Settled.

Local coal dealers have announced that the usual drop in coal prices will not occur on Saturday, the first of April, and that there will be no change in the present prices until negotiations pending between the miners and the coal operatives is definitely settled.

It has been customary in Kingston for many years past for the coal dealers to drop the price of coal fifty cents a ton the first of April and then to advance the price ten cents a ton until the winter prices are reached. This drop in prices was so that consumers would lay in their winter supply of coal during April.

The price of coal today follows: Egg and stove sizes delivered, $6.60; chestnut size delivered, $6.85; and pea size $5 a ton delivered. These prices will be maintaind for some time at least.

THEY SAY.

Two readers of The Freeman called up today to ask if the sighting of an eagle from Broadway yesterday was an advertisement for Peter Black's automobile exhibit or an advance notice of the Barnum & Bailey circus. As an exhibition of the skepticism of the average newspaper reader this is a fair sample. But the eagle was actually sighted and will probably be heard from through the season as he was sighted from this or that resort where a live press agent whiles away his summer.

* * * *

It is rumored that the high school students who did such good lettering on the signs for the automobile show will ask the school authorities for permission to letter a new sign for the wooden offense which now graces one of the pillars at the entrance to warn vehicles which way to go.

* * * *

Governor Whitman's selection of the Rhinebeck ferry as a means of entry to Kingston made a hit with merchants on the Strand, where the city employes cut ice all day Thursday as though life itself depended on getting the slush out of the way.

The Day After.

The hour was late as I hustled home
And hastily doffed my duds;
I tore off my tie and let it lie,
Likewise collar and studs.
But speeches and toasts and clinking of glass
Boiled through my towel-bound head
As I drowsed—hey, scat! Votine!
Is that
Perched on the foot of the bed?
Two eyes glared out of the Stygian dark
Flanked by enormous ears
While around its chin lurked a fiendish grin
That justified all my fears.
In a purring voice the monster spoke
"Come now with me, prepare!"
But senseless I lay as it bore me away
Through the shivery, cold night air.
Then lo, in a trice, on the armory floor
It gently set me down
While 'round me in ranks with chockfull tanks
Stood every car in town.
With rattle and roar of exhaust and horn
They called on me for a speech
And replied with an earsplitting screech.
Then old Twin Six stepped out and said
"His tank has gone dry, by heck!"
And with solemn mien he poured gasoline
Down my unoffending neck.
Some thought my magnets were out of whack,
Some said my gears were stripped,
But all were agreed I could make no speed
While some of my cylinders skipped.
And then as they started to make repairs
I fell out of bed in my fright
And recalled with a pang I'd been out with the gang
At the Auto Club Banquet last night.

BLOOMINGTON.

Bloomington, March 30.—Mrs. John DuVall of Creek Locks visited Kingston on Tuesday.

Mrs. J. Bell and children of Whiteport spent Sunday with her brother, Willis DuBois, and family.

John Pangburn visited Kingston on Saturday, and on returning to his home in the evening he was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Seymour Warner, who visited her parents over Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Pangburn, and returned to the city on Monday morning.

The Christian Endeavor meeting will begin at 7:30 o'clock on Sunday evening, and the leader will be Miss Margurette Mack. Topic, "The Consecration of Time," Ps. 90:1-17. (Consecration meeting.)

The Christian Endeavor executive meeting was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Rickard for transacting business.

Miss Florence Relyea went on Thursday to New Jersey, where she will visit relatives and friends for a few days.

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

If the one rear wheel of a car is jacked up and then a mark put on the universal, so that it can be watched, and the rear wheel is then turned around, is the gear ratio given the correct ratio? In other words, if a car is geared say, four to one and the wheel is turned around once, will the shaft turn four times, or will the fact that the one gear in the differential is not moving cause a drag and therefore give a wrong ratio?

The ratio with one wheel jacked up will not be the correct ratio because there are two reductions to be considered. When turning the wheel the first reduction is between the shaft bevel and the spider bevels and the second between the ring gear and the driving pinion. The correct ratio can be obtained by jacking up both wheels and turning both of them. Why not try this on your own car? Jack up one wheel, place the gear shift lever in direct and then turn the one wheel which has been jacked up.

When going up a grade slowly on high gear my engine makes a dull, thumping sound. The carburetor is set low, requiring a long manifold. Do you think this sound is due to condensation in the manifold? I was told that the trouble might be remedied by having a new exhaust manifold made divided, a separate exhaust for each pair of cylinders, for the trouble might be that the explosions overlap and the engine not scavenge properly.

The knock is either a spark knock or a gas knock. If it is a spark knock you should retard the ignition somewhat when in heavy pulling, such as up grade work. If it is a gas knock try closing the throttle a little more when pulling up a hill. Open the throttle gradually as the load on the motor becomes heavier. It is not likely that a double exhaust manifold would benefit you. Do not try to negotiate steep hills on high gear. Give the motor a chance by dropping to a lower gear when the pull is too much for direct drive. If it were true that the cylinders are not scavenged properly you would notice it at other times than when climbing hills.

How can rim cutting be prevented? I am having great trouble with casing rim cutting on my car. I use sixty pounds in 30 by 3½ inch tires and seventy pounds in 31 by 4 inch.

Rim cutting is due to under inflation. Get a new pressure gauge that you are sure is correct. Probably your gauge is reading too high, making it appear that the tires are properly inflated when they are not.

What may be the injurious effect using overtension on clutch springs? Is there an excessive pressure brought to bear on the crank shaft bearing by using tight clutch springs?

If the clutch is properly designed with a thrust bearing there will be no pressure brought to bear upon the crank shaft bearing by the clutch springs. The big objection to too tight an adjustment on the clutch spring is that it will make the clutch grab instead of giving it a gradual engagement.

My car works nicely running below fifteen miles an hour, but over that speed it misfires and spits back in the carbureter. It will do the same on heavy pulls, on hills and on sudden opening of the throttle above a certain point. Carbureter adjusting does not do any good. I have put in new piston rings and new brushes in distributer and breaker boxes. Is the trouble in the magneto or the carburetor?

It is possible that your trouble is caused by a poor adjustment of the interrupter of the magneto This interrupter is used for both battery and magneto circuits, and should the points be too far apart on the break or too close, perhaps, there may be backfiring and misfiring. The points should be about .015 inch apart when fully open. Sometimes a fine adjustment will show better results. You will have to try various positions. After adjusting the points place a drop of kerosene upon them. Granting that the ignition system is properly timed and that the carburetor is adjusted correctly, you might look to poor valve timing as the cause of your trouble. Carbon deposits in the cylinders will often cause the condition you mention. If you wish to check up on the carburetor adjustment push the auxiliary valve open while the motor is operating with the throttle open more than one-half. This can be done with a pencil or screwdriver. Should the misfiring stop when the air valve is pushed open then you will have to compress the air valve spring. If the misfiring and backfiring become worse, then the spring should be stretched. There should be no air leaks around the valve caps, the spark plugs, the inlet manifold, priming cocks, etc.

Can I repair a leaky jar in a battery by dropping melted wax or tar composition material that is on top of the cell, on the hole where the solutions leak through?

If the leak is in the tar composition material on the top of the cell it can be melted together by using a hot iron. But if the leak is in the rubber jar itself it cannot be repaired. Cracked or broken jars must be replaced.

In some clutches I notice there are two different types where the action of the spring is in opposite directions when it engages in the flywheel. Can you give the name of each type and explain their action?

The types you refer to are the inverted cone and ordinary type. In the former type the spring is on the inside and in the latter on the outside of the clutch itself. The difference between the engaging members is in the direction of slope of the cone, in the ordinary type the small portion being on the inside and the large diameter on the outside, whereas in the inverted cone it is just the opposite. By pressing the pedal of an ordinary cone clutch the spring is carried backward for compression, whereas in the inverted cone, the spring being on the opposite side, it is compressed by a forward thrust.

What compression should a car have for speed, say on a motor 4 by 6. And how can one increase the compression?

You should have about seventy pounds per square inch. To increase the compression attach a flat plate one-eighth inch thick to the top of the piston by riveting through the piston head.

Which are more practical for country use, wood or wire wheels? What are the advantages of each?

Those who are in favor of wire wheels claim that their use effects a saving in tires due to the heat radiating qualities of the steel spokes; that a wire wheel is stronger than a wooden wheel of equal size; that it gives easier riding, due to its shock absorbing qualities; that it is better in appearance. When in demountable form, in which most of the types are sold, tire changing becomes a matter of a few minutes. Quicker acceleration and more effective braking are obtained with wire wheels than with wooden because, it is claimed, the wire wheel has a light rim, and hence the flywheel effect is reduced considerably. The wooden wheel, with a heavy felly, when once started opposes the braking effort. The wooden wheel contingent states that this type is able to withstand more side strain than the wire wheel, that it has a longer life, being little affected by the elements; that the use of demountable rims makes tire changing easy, and if this feature is applied to the wire wheel it has the characteristics of a wooden one, having heavy peripheral weight. If the demountable feature is not used on the wire wheel a whole wheel must be carried around as against a covered up tire when wooden wheels are used. The wire wheel usually costs more than the wooden of the same size. Wire wheel spokes may rust and are more liable to become loose than wooden spokes. The above are the general advantages and disadvantages.

What effect has ether on a motor?

When used in small quantities with gasoline as a primer there is little noticeable effect on the motor. However, if ether is used continually in the fuel it has a detrimental effect upon the motor parts, causing excessive wear.

What might cause knocking when my car is descending a hill and the spark is fully retarded?

The question is rather broad, as you do not state whether the knock is one from the motor or whether it is coming from the rear end or gear set. If in the motor, it may be caused by the looseness of some part. The bearing ends may be flattened, causing the crank shaft to move back and forth slightly. There may be excessive play in the driving mechanism, causing slapping back and forth of the clutch unit. The flywheel may be loose.

Can you give me a formula for mixing sulphuric acid, nitric acid and water for cleaning brass parts?

The best mixture of sulphuric acid and nitric acid for cleaning brass parts is a 50 per cent of each solution without any water. For regular cleaning purposes this should be kept in a five gallon jar with an earthenware cover to prevent the fumes coming off. It is best to have the jar seated in a wood tray and perhaps water flowing through the wood tray so as to dilute the acid in case the jar should break. When dipping brass articles into this bath the utmost care must be taken not to inhale the fumes, as they are almost fatal, and every care must be taken in handling the solution. It is not a bad plan to put a half handful of table salt in a four gallon mixture. In using a cleaning dip of this nature, which will cut off spots of nickel, etc., be sure that the parts to be dipped are perfectly dry. They should be cleaned in gasoline and entirely free from water, otherwise a pitting action will take place.

The muffler on my car is becoming filled with exhaust products of the motor. How would I clean it before it gets bad enough to cause trouble?

The best way to clean the muffler is to disassemble it and clean the parts separately. If this is not done the result will not be satisfactory.

The Gala Going of the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers Will Enchant You

The peppery pick-up of this energetic car has put color and tang into popular-priced motoring that was never there before.

There's delight in every revolution of her engine—and there are 3400 revolutions per minute every time the crankshaft attains its maximum speed, which is the highest ever developed in an American stock car.

Her glad, gala going springs from the terrific speed of an engine that was built, however, for much more than mere car speed.

Great force unites with obedience. There are sparkle and response in this 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers that you'll look for in vain in most cars with high-speed engines.

By checking the awful kick of her motor down to a point that corresponds to 60-mile-an-hour speed, her engineers were able to give you instantaneous pick-np and 18 miles of fervent flight for every gallon of gas.

You save $150 to $200 per year in gasoline bills and add many miles to the life of your tires by driving the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers.

Her riding comfort matches her economy of performance—and both spring from the same causes. This is why: her heavy, hardened crankshaft is balanced to the weight of a hair; a perfect balance of power is required and delivered by each of her six cylinders; and finally all useless weight, pressure, and friction have been removed from all reciprocating parts and bearing surfaces.

There is undreamed-of riding comfort in the even, pleasant stream of might that flows at any and every speed to her rear wheels.

One rejuvenating jaunt with your foot on the accelerator of this ruly, spirited creature, and you'll know why she has cast her spell over 740 American cities.

Until you know how it feels to release the delicious rush of power from a 3400 r. p. m. engine, you'll never know the delight of real motoring.

The performance of this engine gave me the suprise of my life—and I expected a lot from her.

She's off like a hare after every crossing stop with never a sign of effort or hint of fret. She slips from speed to speed like a dream-car. She hits the hardest grade with the lightest heart. I know, because I've put her to every conceivable test.

And what she'll do for me, shel'l do for you.

Economy Hints

EVERY one should have on hand directions for removing various stains which are apt to disturb one's peace of mind at some time or other.

A grease spot on silk is a common thing, and yet in many cases it could easily be removed by applying a paste made of equal parts of powdered French chalk and fuller's earth. Allow the mixture to remain on the spot for a few days, and then brush it off.

Iron rust, the bugbear of many housekeepers, can often be effaced by applying lemon juice and salt. Spread the stained article in the sun and keep the stained portion moist with lemon. Wash the article in the regular way when the stain has disappeared.

Milk applied to a fresh ink stain will prove successful in removing it, but the trouble is that the ink usually spills when there is no milk near at hand. In this event the unfortunate one must wait until it is convenient to purchase oxalic acid. Having procured it, the spot should be moistened with cold water before the acid is applied, drop by drop. Allow it to stand a few minutes, and then rinse the stained article in cold water, to which a little ammonia has been added. A medicine dropper is a splendid thing to use to apply the acid.

It is advisable for every woman who was unable to remove fruit stains that marred her linen in the summer to place the linen out in the frost now that real winter days are here.

Stubborn tea stains can be eradicated by spreading the stained portion over a bowl and pouring glycerin through the material. Afterward pour boiling water.

Boiling water poured from a height will also remove coffee stains.

FOR HOUSEKEEPERS.

How to Remember Certain Proportions In Cooking Common Things.

Four eggs to one quart of milk for custards.

One teaspoonful of vanilla to one quart of custard.

Two ounces of gelatin to one and three-quarters quarts of liquid.

One even tablespoonful of baking powder to one cupful of flour.

One teaspoonful of soda to one pint of sour milk. One teaspoonful of soda to one pint of molasses.

One teaspoonful of baking powder is equal to one-half teaspoonful of soda and one teaspoonful of cream of tartar.

In preparing for baking, mix dry materials in one bowl and liquids in another; combine them quickly and put at once into the oven.

The oven for baking bread should be hot enough to brown a teaspoonful of flour in five minutes. For biscuits it should brown in one minute.

Rubbing a pie crust with butter a few minutes before it is time to take it from the oven will make it crisp.

How to "Do" Your Hair For Evenings This Winter.

Combs of tortoise shell or imitation amber, with touches of gold inlay on the ends, are intended to be thrust through the loose knot of hair.

Pins whose tops are on hinges so that they may be folded down flatly after they are thrust into the hair are set with rhinestones and with colored gems.

Tall Spanish combs of crystal set with brilliants that are beautiful in dark hair or the gray hair of the middle aged woman make stunning hair ornaments.

Gray pins of artistic shades and shapes are popular not only with white haired women, but also with girls who have blue eyes, since the use of gray pins or a gray comb is the hair will accentuate the blue and deepen it.

How to Let Down a Hem of a Cotton Gown.

Almost all cotton dresses shrink in washing and need letting down in the skirt. Before the dress goes to the tub take out the wide hem and turn it again at half the width. This brings the edge of the new hem to the crease in the bottom of the skirt, which gives a straight guide for basting. In almost every case the skirt comes out of the wash just the right length, with no streak of dirt to mark the old line.

Easily Off.

How I Saved My Brother

A Story of Two Confederates

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

Jim and I were twins. The only physical difference between us was that I was born with a deformed big toe on my right foot. When we were boys mother bought two circular pieces of silver about the size of a dollar and hung one around the neck of each of us. On Jim's were engraved the words: "This is James Arthur Chittenden, one of twin boys. He may very easily be distinguished from Frederick Booth Chittenden, his twin brother, by having a perfect great toe on both feet, while his brother has a deformed great toe on his right foot." The disk she hung around my neck stated that I was the brother with the deformed toe. She entered a copy of these inscriptions on our record at the church when we were baptized.

Our home was in the Shenandoah valley, Virginia. When the war between the states opened Jim and I were nineteen years old. We didn't have to go far to see fighting, for there was plenty of it right where we were. General Stonewall Jackson was cavorting up and down the valley, striking one Federal force on one side of the Shenandoah river, then crossing, burning the bridge behind him and cutting up another force on the opposite side.

The general stopped at our house one day and asked Jim to bring him a glass of water. Jim went for it, and, mother calling to him, he asked me to carry the water. I did so, and the general made a remark to me in connection with something he had said to Jim. I explained that it was not I he had asked for the water. He was very much surprised. Presently Jim came out, and the general looked from one to the other of us, evidently much interested in our similarity of appearance.

"Are you young men thinking of fighting for the south?" he asked.

We replied that in deference to our mother's wishes we had not yet done so, but expected to enlist very soon.

General Jackson was very ingenious in his methods of getting information of the enemy. He told Jim and me that if we would enter his secret service force he thought he could use us to better advantage than if we fought in the ranks. We asked him to explain, but he did not do so. However, we concluded to join him and went with him to his headquarters.

The first thing the general did was to order us before a surgeon for physical examination. We were told to strip, which we did, and it was not long before the surgeon noticed my deformed toe. He at once told us to put on our clothes, the examination being ended. Then we were ordered to report to the general. He told us that he wished to send one of us into the Union lines for information, but that the Federals were on the lookout for spies and capture was almost certain. Of course capture meant death. Jim and I both offered to go, so the general suggested that we draw lots for the privilege. We did so, and Jim won.

As soon as Jim had gone the general told me to get into woman's dress. I did so, and, having no beard, but a pair of red cheeks, I made a first rate girl. The general told me to follow Jim and bring back any information he had to send, for he wished Jim to accomplish all he could.

I fixed up a basket of butter and eggs and went north, selling my produce to the Federal soldiers, keeping my eyes and ears open all the while. Jim had been told to leave any message for me with a certain woman who lived within the Federal lines. I went to her and made myself known, only to learn that Jim had been caught redhanded in her house with a lot of incriminating documents on him.

Now, the general had suggested that in this event I might be able to save Jim by a ruse, and this is why he had us examined to find a physical difference. I went in among the Federal troops and learned that Jim had been tried by a drumhead courtmartial and was to be hanged the next morning. I went at once to the general commanding, told him that I was Jim's sister and begged permission to bid him goodby before he was swung off. The general gave me an order to that effect, and I hurried away. The Federals were encamped on the edge of a town where there was a jail, and Jim was imprisoned there. This favored a plan I had in view. I was taken to his cell, and after much pleading with the jailer he consented to lock me in with Jim for half an hour; then he went away and left us.

As soon as he had gone I told Jim to change clothes with me and go out in my stead. He saw no reason why I would not be hanged if he did, but I convinced him that I could prove that I was a different person. When time was up Jim walked out as a girl, I remained. After waiting long enough for him to get away I sent a message to the general stating that I could prove that I was not the man who was to be hanged. The provost marshal came to me, and I showed him the inscription on the silver disk on my neck, my deformed toe and told him that he could get proof of all I said at a church within the Confederate lines. My story was investigated, and the Federals, becoming convinced of its truth, released me, for it would have been a crime for them to hang me for an act I had not committed.

Jim and I did a heap of such work for the general after that, but neither of us was ever caught again.

GENTLEMEN:

We take great pleasure in introducing to you this morning

"DRESS-UP WEEK"

IT is now on, and some people call it "Fashion Week." It is the latest national institution, and a very worthy one.

Like "Paint-up Week" and such events, "Dress-up Week" is intended to stir things up; give a man a few thoughts about his duty to himself and associates.

The purpose of "Dress-up week" is to remind you that maybe you need new clothes; that maybe you ought to take more interest in your appearance: that maybe your wife and children are tired of that old suit: that the new spring clothes are ready for you.

Now, don't say to yourself, "I am a practical business man, no time for fussing about clothes." If you feel that way, look around at some of the other practical business men of this town; see if some of them don't look more businesslike because they do not "fuss" a little about clothes.

The day has gone by when men were ashamed to dress well; nowadays we find that most all ages like the confidence given by wearing a well cut, smart looking suit or overcoat

So take account of stock; look over the "stand-bys" and see if they haven't stood by you too long.

WHO'S WHO IN TROY COURT HOUSE

Justice Hasbrouck Decides That the Sheiff is It When it Comes to the Appointing of the Court Officers.

Judge Hasbrouck has handed down his decision in the matter of the application of Bernard J. Halligan for a writ of mandamus against Delmer Runkle, as county treasurer of Rensselaer county.

The case briefly stated as described in Judge Hasbrouck's opinion is that at the annual election in November, 1914, a Republican sheriff was elected to succeed a Democratic incumbent. Among the powers of the sheriff by an old law was the appointment of 13 court officers and attendants to serve during court but by an amendment the county laws were amended so as to confer on the board of supervisors the power to fix the amount and time or manner of payment of salaries of the county officers and employe and the mode of appointment, number and grade of assistants or employes in any county office notwithstanding the provisions of any special law. The board of supervisors passed a resolution to take effect on January 1, 1915 empowering the sheriff to appoint three court officers and authorizing the superintendent of the court house and annex to appoint ten laborers at $3 a day.

In his opinion Judge Hasbrouck says, the apparent object was to take the appointment of the thirteen officers out of the hands of the sheriff.

When court convened in Troy in January, 1915, there were apparently two sets of court officers, those appointed by the sheriff and those appointed by the superintendent of the court house and annex. It was decided to recognize those appointed by the sheriff.

The applicant for the writ was a laborer appointed by the superintendent of the court house and annex under the resolution of the board of supervisors. This man wanted pay for his services since being appointed and the county treasurer, Mr. Runkle, held that the appointments made by the superintendent of the court house and annex were not legal and the laborers appointed had not been certified upon an estimate payroll an account by the state civil service commission as required by law. The motion therefore is denied by Judge Hasbrouck.

The Modern Spirit.

The modern spirit is not the spirit "which always denies," delighting only in destruction; still less is it that which builds castles in the air rather than not construct; it is that spirit which works and will work, "without haste and without rest," gathering harvest after harvest of truth into its barns and devouring error with unquenchable fire.

HOW TO DOCTOR FRUIT TREES

A demonstration that had nothing to do with automobiles but which interested every member of the Agriculture Class of the High School and a number of practical farmers as well was given Thursday afternoon by County Farm Bureau Manager W. H. Hook in the orchard of John Reiner at Marius street and Greenkill avenue. The demonstration was on tree-pruning and in all about 40 were in attendance.

In the plain, practical fashion which marks Mr. Hook's demonstrations he showed the different ways in which to properly graft and prune fruit trees and how to treat cankers on apple, pear and plum trees. The more drastic methods employed on peach trees were also exemplified.

How to identify fruit buds and leaf buds, upon what year's wood different fruits are borne, and how water sprouts can be made practical value were shown. This last experiment shows how trees can be made to branch out low and the advantages resulting therefrom. The lack of common sense in attempting to grow lay off the same land where fruit is grown was made plain.

A lively discussion followed and a chance discovery of a peach tree affected by the ravages of borers made an object lesson for the demonstrator. The methods of fighting this pest and also preparedness against sunscald, or canker, and other diseases affecting fruit trees were explained bp Mr. Hook during the two hour session which was pronounced a most profitable one by all present.

Union Evening Service.

The five Protestant churches united in the evangelistic services in January and February, will hold a union service in the First Reformed Church Sunday evening next. A place in the gallery will be reserved for all the members of the Tullar and Meredith chorus until 7:20. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. F. B. Seeley, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church.

Passing of Old K. A.

The north wing of Kingston Academy has been nearly demolished, only parts of the bare walls remaining. According to the contract the work must be done by April 15 but the backward weather has made progress in razing the old building difficult.

Nell Gwyn's Choice.

DRANK POISON BY MISTAKE

Miss Helena K. Dann, 23 years old, died at her home, No. 118 Hone street, Thursday evening shortly after 11 o'clock from the effects of a bottle of poison she had drank by mistake, thinking it was medicine. From what could be learned she had gone to the bath room looking for a bottle of medicine and picked up the wrong bottle. Dr. A. S. Vrooman was summoned and done all that was possible to save her life, but without avail. Besides her mother she is survived by four brothers, George, Peter, William and Charles, and four sisters, Flora, Rose, Martha and Mary. The funeral will be held from the late residence on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, with interment in Montrepose Cemetery.

Villa Led in Massacre.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

El Paso, Tex., March 31.—Francisco Villa in person led the band of troops that massacred the 172 Carranza soldiers forming the garrison at Guerrero, and with his own hand killed more than a dozen of the victims, according to reports reaching the border today. These advices asserted that Villistas were overrunning the entire Guerrero district, robbing, burning and killing.

"PARIS" OPENING A SCENE OF ENCHANTING BEAUTY

Attend This Fashion Show Saturday---Good Music Will be Provided--Come !

Our Annual Opening Exhibition of Spring Millinery began today, and the display was viewed by thousands of of deeply interested women. Tomorrow the exhibit will be even more beautiful. All the minor details—multitudinous as they are in the completion of an affair of this character—will have been attended to, and the kaliedoscopic scene will be marvelous and enchanting.

We wish to see present every woman who can conveniently come, and particularly those ladies who have been paying milliners about the city excessively high prices for their Hats. We refer to members of Kingston's exclusive circles who demand Millinery of the most distinctive character. The sooner women in general understand that this is not a high-priced millinery, the sooner will their dressy appearance reflect the elegance and refinement of our really artistically modeled Hats.

The new management of "The Paris" insists upon the enforcement of a ONE-PRICE rule and the extending of courtesy to patrons—a courtesy that is sufficiently far-reaching to have you approach our store with the friendly spirit we are reaching out to you. Call it what you will, but in the end we all prosper—as we sensibly co-operate—and we all lose when co-operation, through the door of courtesy, fails.

Every Hat on sale during this Opening Display expresses the very latest word in Style and Economy. Here are styles and effects for every occasion, the whole gathering marking our best efforts in bringing out really choice, aristocratic Millinery. And moderate prices are the rule right through the stock. Our lines are purchased for 12 stores from the most reputable makers in the land, enabling us to underprice and overvalue all local competitors.

HORRORS OF WAR SHOWN.

"Birth of a Nation" All That it Was Expected to Be.

"War is hell!" we quote Sherman's words with more or less seriousness. Then we go to some big movie and see a great Roman battle, or scene from the French Revolution, etc., and we repeat the words with a little deeper conviction of what they mean. But nothing produced in the film world can bring to our realization just what those words meant when they were uttered as do the marvelous scenes from "The Birth of a Nation." Those men fighting and dying agonizing death with hands outstretched, are our folks and those scenes are in our country where many and many of us have been. While the big audience at the Kingston opera house waxed wildly enthusiastic over the inspiring deeds of valor of the Ku Klux Klan, as well they might, even if not worked up to the point of needing relief for overstrained nerves by what had gone before, still it seemed that the crowning feature of this incomparable presentation of American history was reached in the fall of Petersburgh. The vast stretches spread before one, with the distant encounters, brought nearer until the terrific trench fighting brought the combatants almost within the touch of one's hand, made it possible for even the women in the audience to realize the meaning of "war." It is utterly useless to describe this marvelous production, with the beautiful love story running all through the three hours of rapidly moving scenes, for in the one case it is telling or reading, in the other it is seeing, and the visual impression is always the most intense. It has truly been said that no northerner, especially of today, can fully realize the southern attitude regarding the civil war, its cause and the agonizing reconstruction period until he has seen "The Birth of a Nation." Certainly the resultant realization cuts into one's sense like a surgeon's knife.

And the music of this production is as marvelous as the scenic effects, it is indeed Wagnerian in its form, power and effect. Again and again the sinister motiff of the struggle holds one with an awful dread and prescience. The weird plantation motiff has in it that element of the barbaric that found in a race make possible the scenes enacted in the the little village of Piedmont, South Carolina. The tenseness of all this is relieved by the home music, and the inspiring if occasionally frenzied "bugle call." Woven together in one great whole, sometimes realistic, sometimes prophetic, always an integral part of the story, the music, as played by a master orchestra is well worth the hearing alone.

Mr. Gildersleeve has had the largest advanced sale of tickets for the "Birth of a Nation" of any production that he has ever brought to the Kingston opera house.

Nature's Workings.

How plants absorb nitrogen from the soil is utterly unknown. No animal must get the large quantities of nitrogen that are necessary to it by using plants for food. When the animal or the plant dies the constituents of its body are returned to the earth, where the bacteria of putrefaction break up the elaborate organic chemical compounds upon which the plants again can feed.

ADVERTISERS ESTIMATE THE VALUE BY THE CIRCULATION.

And The Freeman has a circulation double that of all other Kingston dailies combined.

AMERICANS HAVE FOUGHT VILLA

No News of the Outcome of the Fight Has Been Received. Although Gen. Funston is Sure it Took Place.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Antonio, Tex., March 31.—An engagement, the first since United States troops entered Mexico, has been fought by Americans and Mexicans south of the border, according to reliable information which reached Major General Frederick Funston today.

General Funston himself believes that Brig. General John J. Pershing's forces have been in contact with the followers of Francisco Villa, but has received no news as to the outcome of the battle nor its extent.

In a statement given out today, Major General Funston warned the public not to get excited should news of a Mexican victory emanate from sources friendly to Villa, but to wait calmly until the United States military authorities issue a report on the fight—if a fight has taken place.

Army officers at Fort Sam Houston said that if a battle had been fought, it probably took place near the lines of the Mexico Northwestern railroad in the vicinity of Guerrero, state of Chihuahua.

"It is true there may have been an engagement," said Major General Funston. "If so, it is likely that the first news of it may come out through Mexican sources. These reports are liable to be wild, and it is more than likely to give the impression that we have met with disaster. The American public will do well not to get excited until the official reports of the military authorities are made public."

ABOUT THE FOLKS.

Miss Mary E. Alliger, supreme court stenographer, is recovering from a week's illness at her home on Main street.

Mrs. Walter Kittle of Seager, N. Y., and Miss Beatrice Kittle of New Hurley, are the guests of E. H. Kittle, 77 Maiden Lane.

Mrs. Katherine Rieser of No. 113 Abeel street is in New York city attending the 25th anniversary of the profession as a Dominican nun of her daughter, Sister M. Antoinnette. Sister Antoinnette has been stationed at Holy Rosary Convent, ... past 27 years as musical instructress.

A Treat For Port Ewen.

Port Ewen will be given a rare treat Decoration Day night when the play, "The Old Dairy Homestead" will be presented in Pythian Hall. The best of local talent will endeavor to do their best to the different characters in the play. The play was written along the lines of the "Old Homestead" and is full of wit and replete with opportunities for good acting which this cast feels capable of doing justice to. This is the first play to be given in the Pythian Hall this season and as many visitors will be present on that night the cast will present the "Old Dairy Homestead" in their very best way.

Stop-Over Proved Disastrous.

Joseph Jacobs, who told the Newburgh police that he was on his way back from Brooklyn to Dr. Sahler's hospital, this city, informed the recorder in that city Thursday that he had been robbed of $50 and a traveling bag by some strangers. A telephone message to the sanitarium bore out Jacob's statement and he was put on the train for Kingston. He told the Newburgh police that he just couldn't bear to pass through that city without stopping.

Author of "Obvious Adams."

"Obvious Adams," a story of a successful advertising man in the April 1 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, was written by Robert R. Updegraff, a member of the 1906 Ulster Academy graduating class, who is at present advertising manager of the Daniel Low Jewelry Company of Salem, Mass., one of the largest concerns of its kind in the country. Shortly after his graduation, Mr. Updegraff became assistant editor of the "Advertising and Selling" Magazine of New York city and has quickly worked his way forward in the advertising field.

Trains Were Run Recklessly.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cleveland, O., March 31.—Testimony given at the joint probe into the cause of Wednesday's New York Central wreck at Amherst, today, brought out the fact that both sections of train No. 86 were exceeding their regular running time, although fog conditions made this proceeding hazardous. The federal-state probe was presided over by Chief H. W. Belnap, of the interstate commerce commission's division of safety.

Kelder Deeds Filed.

Three deeds relating to the transfer of the Kelder property on Fair street have been filed with the county clerk, the value being estimated at $4,000. One is between Guy, Emma, Anette and Mary J. Kelder and the Shatemuck Realty Company, who made the sale, another between the realty company and Samuel Weisberg the purchaser, and the third between the Ulster County Savings Institution and the four Kelders mentioned above.

HUNDREDS ATTENDED OUR SPRING'S COMPLETE DISPLAY

THURSDAY and FRIDAY

Tomorrow, Saturday Is the Big Day of Our Spring Opening

This Will Be a Day of Great Interest to Women

Every suit and every coat now to be seen in this stock—is a model, you need not hesitate to buy, fearing it will not be in style a month or two hence.

We have adopted for our showing only the most approved models and styles, eliminating all the "freaks" and "fads" that are in style today and out of style tomorrow.

We have laid particular emphasis on the standard and practical things—those which insure your dressing in the very best of taste, and looking the part of an exceptionally well dressed woman.

Quite a few garments are here in the most fashionable black and white checks as an illustration—but not so many of them as to make them commonplace. They're sure to be in style all season—so are the suits in grays, blues and browns—of such fabrics as light-weight Serges, Poplins, Mohair, Taffetas, Failles and Pongees.

Quite a few of the cloth suits are in very strict tailored models, the coats having notched collars and revers along with mannish sleeves. The upper part of these coats outlines the figure, but considerable fullness is introduced at the sides, below the waistline.

Silk suits have jackets of varying lengths, some in flare, some in cape effect. Practically all of the skirts are wide and full—a good many in circular or semi-circular effect, along with a number that are boxed or side pleated.

Quite a number of silk coats are being shown—in satin, taffeta and faille of pretty shades, and the sport coats in worsted or knitted fabrics as well as in wool velours, novelty checks, stripes and plaids are very much in favor.

To see what is here is to see the BEST of what there is to see—in Kingston. No other local showing—within this price-range of $14.75 to $39.50—can in any way compare with it. And we've higher cost garments—if you wish them.

HIGH cost of gasoline is causing motorists to demand better mileage than most cars can give.

Many car owners are growing tired of using one third of their gasoline just to keep a water-cooling system at work.

Owners of Franklin Direct-Air-Cooled Cars are showing them daily averages of 18 to 25 miles per gallon of gasoline—

Telling how their cars keep in service in all weathers—

Proving how much easier the car is to handle—and how much more comfortable on the road.

Franklin savings in gasoline, tires, upkeep are causing many a man to sell his old car and buy a Franklin.

Come in. Get Franklin facts and figures that will stop that leak in your gasoline tank.

SPRING ADV. WRITING.

REACHING out for spring trade is now the order among live merchants. Let me show you that newspaper readers always appreciate the unusual in advertising. A little clever ingenuity in display, combined with a tactfully worded appeal such as I employ, can be made to reach the eye and hold the attention of many readers who might not be otherwise interested. Why not give my advertising service a trial? George M. Zellmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

SECRETARY OF STATE ARRIVES

Secretary of State Hugo, the speaker at the Automobile Show tonight, arrived in Kingston at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon via the Rhinecliff ferry and was met by a big delegation of automobiles with the attendant chorus which swelled into a considerable volume of sound. The secretary of state was taken directly to the Eagle Hotel and with him were Mayor Canfield, Hon. Philip Elting and President Elva Bogart, of the Automobile Club.

The secretary of state is known as the best posted official of any state in the union on the extent and growth of the automobile industry and the statistics furnished by his office alone fill ten volumes of atlas size in press clippings alone. Secretary Hugo personally is one of the most approachable of men and is a public speaker of exceptional ability. His presence at the Automobile Show is the occasion of visits from delegations from several other cities of the Hudson valley, some of whose residents want to change the number of the genial secretary's official license either this year or in 1918.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 31.—There was a little demand from room trades at the opening of the stock exchange today because nothing of a disturbing character was reported in the morning news, and the majority of the issues, in which there was speculative interest, ranged higher on the initial sales. These gains, however, were not maintained, except in a few stocks. Steel common opened up ⅝ at 84⅛, and then dropped to 83¾. Studebaker advanced ½ to 140½, but lost this gain in the next few minutes, and similar recessions after opening advances were noted in Maxwell Motor and Inspiration Copper. Reading continued influenced by quiet accumulation, and gained ¾ to 85¾. Mexican Petroleum advanced 1⅜ to 103⅜8, from which it reacted to 103½. Both Utah and Anaconda made fractional gains. Crucible Steel rose 1⅜ to 89¼. Changes in the other issues were mixed and without importance.

Price movements in the late forenoon were irregular, some stocks being in good demand at moderate advances, while others were heavy and ranged fractionally below yesterday's close. Steel common held firm around 84, and Union Pacific advanced ¾ to 132½. Inspiration rose to 47⅞. American Locomotive to 79¾, and Industrial Alcohol to 154. American Beet Sugar fell ⅜ to 71⅝. Money loaning at 2 per cent.

Price movements in the late afternoon continued irregular, increased activity being shown in some issues, while others, including the railway issues, were heavy and declined substantially. New York Central declined to 103¼, and fractional losses were scored in Reading, Union Pacific, and St. Paul. Bethlehem Steel jumped 25 points to 480, Baldwin rose to 105⅝, Marine preferred to 70½, and Crucible to 91⅜.

The market closed irregular. Price movements in the last hour were confused. New York Central fell 2 points on large selling by an important house. New Haven was heavy. Reading and St. Paul showed fractional losses. The specialties displayed strength. Crucible Steel crossed 93, a gain in all of 5 points. Steel common moved up ⅜ to 84½. Governments unchanged; other bonds irregular.

Real Pleasant.

Nellie, aged four, was gazing intently at the visitor's new bonnet.

"Well, dear," asked the lady at last, "what do you think of it?"

"Oh," replied the small observer, "I think it's all right. Aunt Mary told mamma it was a perfect fright, but it doesn't frighten me any." — Kansas City Star.

M'GRAW WILL DEPEND ON HIS VETERANS

Great Things Expected of New York Giants' Pitchers.

John McGraw, Giant manager, says he has three pitchers on whom he can count for good work this season Poor pitching put the Giants in the second division last season

'Dope that Matty is through and that some of the other pitchers who did not do well last season will not be good this year is not borne out by baseball experience," says McGraw

WHERE BALL STARS SPARKLE

Late last summer Umpire Evans bumped into Mike Kahoe, scout for the Boston Braves after he had returned from a scouting expedition that had covered a number of western minor leagues.

"Did you seen any stars this summer?" Evans asked

'A lot of them,' he answered Evans' curiosity was aroused, for Kahoe, always successful in digging up young phenoms, evidently had picked up some new ones

"In what league did you see them?" Evans queried.

Percy Haughton, New Owner of Braves, Always an Advocate of Obedience to Training Rules.

Discipline is likely to be the watchword of the Boston National league baseball club under the direction of the new president, Percy D Houghton, during the coming season. Haughton, as a Harvard baseball and football player, and later coach of the eleven, has always been a strong advocate of strict obedience to training rules, instructions and the playing code of whatever game he was interested in.

While it is not to be expected that Haughton will insist that the players of the Boston Braves will be held to the same degree of accountability that prevails in college football circles, it is certain that the new president of the club will insist upon an observance of all the rules recently laid down by former President Gaffney in his letter to the players, and may even go further. With Haughton as president and George Stallings as manager, it would appear as though the players of the Boston club will have to make baseball playing strictly a business proposition in 1916, or learn that a new regime prevails in the game.

When a Man's Great.

"I would like to ask you one more question," said the youth.

"Let it come," rejoined the home grown philosopher.

"When," quoted the youth, "would you say that a man has achieved greatness?"

"When he deserves his own opinion of himself," answered the home grown philosopher.—Chicago News.

POULTRY

HAVE CLEAN NEST MATERIAL

Percentage of Dirty or Soiled Eggs May Be Materially Reduced by Proper Management.

Poultry keepers may easily reduce the percentage of dirty or soiled eggs, and losses entailed to insignificant figures. First, an ample number of nests is, of course, necessary, but an ample number means no more, than, and probably not as many as, are usually directed by poultry writers. Laying houses are, as a rule, provided with a sufficient number, but where the keeper falls down is in failing to supply enough nesting material and floor litter.

Obviously the nesting material must be clean, or the eggs become soiled by contact, and it must be sufficient in quantity, or the eggs are often broken by dropping upon the hard floor of the nest.

In houses where the dropping-boards are above the nests, and the custom is to sand the boards, small stones often drop into the nest and breakage results when newly laid eggs fall upon them The condition of nests should be noticed daily, and the nesting material replenished when necessary. Plenty of nesting material prevents breakage and insures clean eggs

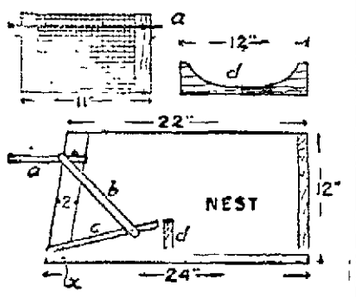

An ample and clean litter on the floor is also very essential when an A 1 clean product is sought. Particularly is this true when the hens are allowed outdoors during wet weather. The litter acts as a food mat for the hens on their way to the nests

MAKING A CHEAP TRAP NEST

Simple and Satisfactory Device Can Be Constructed From Orange Box at Small Expense.

Here is a trap nest that can be made from an orange box for less than $1, writes Thomas Mayberry of Pennsylvania in Farm and Home. The box is 24 inches long, 12 inches wide and 12 inches high It is shown ready for the hen to enter When she treads on the platform, C, to go to the nest she closes the door, A, behind her and her weight will not let her out. B is made one by one-fourth inches, with two small screws to fasten it on each side to the platform, seven and one-half inches from screw to steel rod X. A is the door covered with one-half inch wire netting The platform is held off the bottom by wire staples and rod X goes through it. A, the door, has staples for the rod to go through, as shown at the tip, and one inch from that is where the screws hold D is a partition three inches high to keep the nesting material in place.

VENTILATION FOR HENHOUSE

It has been proved by experiments that impurities given off from the lungs of one animal are much more poisonous to another animal than they are to the animal giving them off.

You can prove this for your own satisfaction, if you care to. Put a mouse in a self-sealing fruit jar and make the cover tight In a few minutes he will begin to show signs of suffocation. Then without admitting any more fresh air than you can help, introduce a second mouse into the jar. This second mouse will die before the first one, though he was fresh when the first one was nearly suffocated The reason for this is that the second mouse did not die of suffocation but was killed by the poison given off from the lungs of the first one.

It is entirely possible that this is the reason why so many hens in apparently good physical thrift drop dead off the roost The ventilation is poor and the birds become poisoned by the gases from the lungs of their perchmates

Separate Dark-Colored Eggs From the Light and Keep the Different Sizes by Themselves.

It will be worth an experiment to assort eggs before selling them, by separating the dark-colored eggs from those that are light, and also having the different sizes together.

Appearance is worth a great deal in the selling of an article, and eggs will sell quicker than anything else if sent to market in an attractive manner, which adds at least one-fourth more to the prices.

STYLE TIPS.

About Capes, Frills, Scarfs, Ribbons and Other Frivolities.

Skirts are to be longer, if we are to believe a certain rumor which comes from Paris—not very long, but not quite so abbreviated as they have been for some time Some of the evening gowns, on the other hand, are closely draped and clinging, falling in at the feet with narrow pointed trains, and as different as possible from the fluffy skirted creations which we are now wearing

Then the new lingerie is very fascinating, but no, a single scrap of lace is to be used for decorating it by those who wish to be really up to date. Silk, ninon and crepe de chine have taken the place of lawn and cambric and are simply ornamented with very fine hemstitching or silk embroidery and rows of handwork in facon or chain stitch or buttonhole eyes for inserting ribbon. Flesh pink is still the most popular color or an exquisite shade of pale parma violet mauve.

For afternoon frocks there is a distinct tendency to copy old fashioned modes, such as the styles of 1830 and the latter part of the eighteenth century Silk gowns are made with paniers very much looped up at the sides and back over contrasting underskirts. The sleeves will be close fitting for afternoon frocks with a little puff at the top, while for evening dresses they are made with a tiny puff all by itself.

Tailor mades are completed with little capes across the shoulders or falling down the center of the back as far as the waist line. Most fascinating of all perhaps are the quaint neck ruffles in velvet or taffetas that make such a pretty frame to the face. These will be designed to suit the particular gown and will have a tiny bunch of flowers or a bow of colored ribbon in one of the old fashioned shades, such as serres blue or vieille rose, attached to one side.

Long ninon or taffeta scarfs are also designed to match the various frocks, often in black, lined with a contrasting shade and bordered with a narrow ribbon ruching or embroidered with sprays and wreaths of small flowers in silks and ribbon work. Anything, indeed, that gives a suggestion of the days of long ago is a feature of the newest design.

WANT ADS INSERTED AT THE SMALL COST OF ONE CENT-A-WORD

DENIES WAITE BOUGHT HER LOVE.

Mrs. Margaret W. Horton, Photographed in the District Attorney's Office.)

New York, March 31.—The childlike smile of innocence was wiped from the face of Mrs. Margaret Weaver Horton, the beautiful young "woman of mystery" in the Peck murder case, by a query put to her in the District Attorney's office. She answered it stormily.

"Did Dr. Waite pay my husband $8,000, through A. Morrison, for alienation of my affections? No! No! I never heard of A. Morrison in my life, and neither did my husband."

All through the difficult hours of questioning during the last few days Mrs. Horton had remained calm and good natured. With no appearance of anger, she had just denied being a corespondent in the divorce suit of the Cincinnati family with whom she made her home. But she did not once smile after the mention of the $8,000.

"I could kill the people who say things about my husband!" she cried later in the office of her attorney, Harold Spielberg. "They'd better not do it."

It had been learned that A. Morrison, lawyer of Miss Catherine Peck, Dr. Waite's aunt; had obtained $8,000 by a real estate transfer about the time that a similar amount came into the hands of Harry Mack Horton and his wife.

"He got the money from wireless telegraphy with Mexico," explained Mrs. Horton. "He didn't get it all at once, but in small sums. They don't know how to understand a gentleman. Because my husband has stood by me they drag out every little fact of his life in the effort to make him seem a criminal. They've got to stop it. I'm in the mood to do anything.

"I've only done what a million other women do constantly, in being guilty of a slight indiscretion," she asserted, wearily. "It was just my luck to have it all come out like this. Of course, it didn't imply that I was going abroad with Dr. Waite because I studied the languages with him. I couldn't sing Italian operas in English, could I?"

Such accessories as gloves, hats and neckwear, are important details to be considered if a woman desires to be correctly attired. White silk gloves with striped borders are new and very attractive. The collar of white voile with dainty filet lace edge is a late creation. A charming turban of lacquered straw trimmed with a dashing moire bow is more youthful and fashionable.

A Story of Medieval Art

By ETHEL HOLMES

Satan, while always sowing, reaps by periods. Every now and again the world is astonished at some new outbreak of evil—not the ordinary criminality that is always with us, confined largely to those who are born to crime, but a harvest of villainy among those who are supposed to stand for morality.

An epidemic of crime settled upon Italy during the middle ages which pertained more especially to the very highest classes. It became the custom to eliminate one's enemy or such as stood in one's way by poison. Scientists instead of devoting themselves to interpreting the secrets of nature with a view to preserving life used their talents to discover means of producing death. Persons in authority instead of trying to benefit those under their sway sought the means of secretly putting out of the way those who opposed them.

The city of Florence, then in the province of Tuscany, has always been the home of art. A young man in Pisa, Giovanni Tolci, having shown marvelous artistic talents, removed to Florence to get the benefit of the masters and the works of art to be found in that city. So rapid was his progress and so great became his fame that he received a commission from the pope to paint an altar piece.

During Giovanni Tolci's stay in Florence, while loitering one evening on the banks of the Arno, he saw a girl on one of the bridges looking down into the river. Going on to the bridge, Giovanni stood near her and saw that she was looking at the mild Italian heavens reflected in the water. From her rapt appearance he surmised that she possessed that artistic temperament which was in himself. He was seized with a desire to know her and, inquiring who she was, secured an introduction.

Bianca Cellini was not an artist herself, but art was so natural to her that she was of inestimable benefit to Giovanni. She was able to warn him when he was entering upon false ground and to encourage him when he struck that which promised well. So keen was her artistic sense that he came to rely upon her entirely and would not trust his work until she had criticised it.

Bianca came to love the man in whose career she was interested. As for Giovanni, he was absorbed in his work. If he loved Bianca he was not aware of it, though there was a vague feeling within him that she was necessary to him as a companion as well as a critic.

When his altar piece was finished he left Florence with it to take it to Rome. On parting with Bianca he said to her:

"Whatever success I have made in this picture I owe to you. If it brings me fame you are entitled to share it with me. There is no way by which you can do that so well as becoming my wife. That you shall be whenever you choose."

"You owe me nothing, Giovanni," was the reply. "If I have guided you on right artistic paths it has been with the greatest ease. I have had simply to see with my eyes and speak with my voice."

Giovanni, not considering that his cold offer was unlikely to draw any different reply, was much disappointed in it. It is possible that it revealed to him that his heart was in Bianca's possession. At any rate, he went to Rome wishing that she had accepted his offer.

His altar piece was accepted by the pope and when set up in the church for which it had been created was much admired. The new artistic star that had arisen was much courted. At times when he was surrounded by flatterers Bianca was forgotten, but as soon as he was alone she resumed her accustomed place in his mind, and he remembered that it was largely due to her he was enjoying this triumph.

At this time the Borgias were prominent in Rome. Signora Beatrici Borgia, who had married in the celebrated Borgia family, hearing of the fame of the Florentine artist, expressed a desire to see him. She was a very ambitious woman, one who possessed great power over men and who achieved her ends by bringing them under her sway. It occurred to her to make a conquest of this shining light. Why she desired to do so is not clear; but, judging from her character, it is probable that it was simply the eclat the domination of a famous man would give her.

Signora Borgia sent for Giovanni Tolci and commissioned him to paint her portrait. During the sittings she was dressed in the most becoming costumes that could be devised. She was as beautiful as she was unscrupulous and strove to dominate the artist through his senses. While he was at work he kept her talking in order to bring out an animated expression. She contrived to turn the conversation upon what interested him, for she was desirous to learn if his heart was preoccupied.

It was not long before she got the story of Bianca. Giovanni, who was not yet conscious of the fact that Bianca possessed his whole heart, spoke only of what he owed her as a counselor, but the wily signora knew more about what he really felt than he did himself. Since he dwelt continually on the little Florentine girl and would talk of no one else Signora Borgia was not long in inferring that he loved her.

All the art the temptress possessed, all the flattery, the appeals to the senses, seemed to elicit but little response from the artist. The last named appeal was the strongest, but its effect was only temporary. She prolonged the sittings by requiring him to do over certain features, but even with this advantage she knew before the picture was finished that the Florentine girl was keeping from her the man she wished to conquer.

When nothing more seemed to be done to the portrait Signora Borgia said to the artist:

"This girl to whom you owe so much should share the triumph you are sure to make in this portrait. I am going to send for her to come to Rome to visit me, that she may enjoy your success."

Giovanni, who had arranged with the pope for a mural decoration that would take him at least a year to finish, eager to see again the girl who by this time he realized was necessary to him, gladly fell in with the plan. He sent a letter to Bianca with the one dispatched by the signora, assuring her of the change there was in him since he had left her and begging her to accept the invitation. Indeed, he wrote a genuine love letter.

Bianca, who was desirous to learn more of the woman whose portrait her lover was painting, wrote that she would come to Rome, but would feel bound to visit an aunt living there who had long ago given her a standing invitation. Signora Borgia insisted that when Bianca came she must sup at her palazzo with her and Giovanni.

Bianca went to Rome and a few days after her arrival went with Giovanni in the evening to the palazzo of Signora Beatrici to supper. If the artist had given away his feelings for Bianca in her absence he certainly confirmed the matter in her presence. His love was apparent as the sun in heaven.

There seems to be a sixth sense in women that enables them to discern antagonism from members of their own sex. Signora Borgia made a great ado over Bianca, expressing herself as delighted with her and folding her in an embrace. Giovanni, however, noticed a tremor pass over his beloved, and when released from her hostess' arms she was deadly pale. But she soon recovered herself and seemed to be trying to show her appreciation of her reception. When her wraps had been laid aside supper was announced, and the three went into the room where it was laid.

For an hour they continued to partake of a sumptuous repast. The signora pressed her guest to partake of her wines, of which there was a great variety, saying: "Try this; it came from Sorrento and is considered very fine. Here is some from Frascati. Perhaps you will prefer it to the other. This muscatel is delicious." In this way she endeavored to persuade her guests to drink. Bianca sipped the first glass handed her, and nothing could induce her to touch another. She also gave an appealing glance to her lover, which served its purpose, for when the signora placed a glass before him he simply wet his lips with the wine.

Toward the end of the meal the hostess reached for a dish of figs on the center of the table and handed one to each of her guests. Bianca noticed that when the signora handed her a fig she selected it carefully from the dish. Bianca took it and noticed a tiny mark on it so near the color of the fig as scarcely to be distinguished. She left the fruit on her plate without touching it.

"Do you not like figs?" asked the signora.

"I do not care especially for them," was the reply.

Giovanni had broken his fig open and handed it to his sweetheart, saying:

"Try mine, and I will eat yours."

Bianca clapped her hand on the fig on her plate, uttering at the same time a cry. The hostess looked at her as if in astonishment and said:

"Give it to me. I will eat it."

Bianca held it in her clinched hand. "No," she said; "I will take it home and eat it there."

The signora changed from leopardess to lion.

"Give it to me!" she cried imperiously.

Bianca clutched it all the tighter. The signora strove to take it from her. Bianca begged Giovanni to take and keep it. He did so, and the three stood surveying one another with blanched faces and flaming eyes.

The signora ran into another room. Bianca made for an exit, followed by her lover, and when their hostess returned to the supper room with a stiletto they had vanished.

"What does it all mean?" asked Giovanni of Bianca.

"The fig is poisoned."

And so it proved on applying a test. Signora Borgia was too powerful to warrant an accusation. Giovanni and Bianca returned at once to Florence. He claimed that a swollen wrist would prevent his doing the mural work ordered by the pope and refused to return to Rome.

Of course this refusal was not to be maintained if the pope chose to enforce the order. The holy father would not have done so had not Signora Borgia circulated a report that the swollen wrist was a mere pretext to avoid returning to Rome. This report coming to the pope's ears, he ordered Giovanni to return on pain of incurring the displeasure of the head of the church. In Rome he would be examined by a physician and if his wrist was in a condition to prevent his using a brush he would be excused.

When Giovanni received this new order he bethought himself how to evade it. Signora Borgia's attempt to poison his sweetheart would not be accepted as a reason for defying the head of the church. He purposely wrenched his wrist so that it would require months to heal. Then he went to Rome, was examined and excused.

A Mistake Somewhere.

"Is it true, Miss Gertie," he said, "that there are just two things a woman will jump at—a conclusion and a mouse?"

"No," she answered; "there is a third, Mr. Philip."

After thinking the matter over a few moments he tremblingly made her an offer, but she didn't jump at it. He was not the right man.

Box Trees of Aalsmeer.

Aalsmeer, Holland, is noted for its strawberries and the clipped box tree. This local industry, which has been brought to a perfection unknown elsewhere, has been carried on for at least 200 years, as the village records show. The nurseries are most curious and interesting. In the rich peaty soil box trees grow in every size and shape.

EDDYVILLE.

Eddyville, March 31.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gumaer of New Salem are receiving congratulations over a young son, born Wednesday, March 29.

chaps that were carrying the guns represented the loyality and the sentiment not only of themselves but of the men and the boys along the sidewalk that watched them march by.

"I like to see the National Guard, not because I like war—I hate war—I hope the time will never come that these guns shall belch forth their fire. I like to see these boys in uniform and trained because it means here in this city as in other cities of the state the same spirit of devotion to the things that you and I know are worth while. Because it means that here as elsewhere in this state the spirit of liberty and devotion is living today as it has lived down through the years.

"I congratulate you on this splendid gathering. I congratulate you on your exhibition. I congratulate you more on the fact that it is your privilege, as it is mine, to be a citizen, proud of your citizenship in the greatest, noblest, most powerful and the best state in the great union in which we live today and to which we are forever devoted."

Attended Banquet.

At the close of the governor's address he was again greeted with prolonged applause. He and his party then left for the Stuyvesant Hotel, where he was the guest of honor at the annual banquet of the Automobile Club of Ulster County.

Fine Musical Program.

After the governor had left a fine musical program was rendered by Muller's Band and there was no perceptable diminishing in the large attendance who devoted considerable time to visiting and enjoying the various exhibits.

Seating Capacity Limited.

Owing to the large amount of space taken up by the exhibits it was impossible to place chairs on the floor of the drill shed and the only seats to be had were in the big gallery at the rear of the hall which was crowded every seat being taken and many standing up.

On the floor, however, many took advantage of the courtesy of the automobile dealers and occupied seats in the cars on exhibition. Through the courtesy of N. C. Lezatte & Son, whose exhibit was near the speakers' platform, the reporter was enabled to sit in comfort and enjoy the speaking. While the reporter is not up on automobiles he wants to add that the Pullman car handled by the Lezattes is a very comfortable car to sit in and undoubtedly its running qualities are just as good.

Show a Success.

Catskill Line's New Agent.

Walter E. Way of Albany has been appointed traveling freight and passenger agent of the Catskill Evening Line, which recently came under the control of the Hudson River Day Line.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS NOTES

This evening the junior class of the high school will give the first dance of its social season. It is to be an informal affair of middy blouses, and street shoes, and a happy-go-lucky spirit will take the place of the formality which some might prefer. The juniors intend to have the gymnasium decorated for the occasion, and in every way intend to make the dance equal to any given in the high school gymnasium except in regard to the number of pieces in the orchestra, and the price of admission which will be the lowest price charged for any school dance this year, 15 cents for the young men, and 10 cents for the young ladies. The attendance will by no means be restricted to juniors, nor to members of the student body. The junior class is becoming known in the school for its democracy, and its desire to play the game squarely, and a proof of this is that any friend who may possibly feel that he has not gotten his money's worth out of the dance tonight will have it refunded upon request.

H. S. Outbowls St. Peter's.

Wednesday afternoon a team of high school fellows, collected for the occasion won a bowling match held on the Y. M. C. A. alleys, against a team which represented St. Peter's by the score of 2,344 to 2,025.

The scores were:

Junior Comedy.

Under the able direction of Miss Parker the junior comedy is fast progressing toward perfection. The 19th of April is the date set for its production, and the high school press is doing its part to make it as great, or greater success than the recently given minstrels, by printing the tickets, and the programs for the juniors. Both parts of the entertainment which will be given, have proven great laugh producers. "The Case of Suspension" was given in this city some years ago, and then proved its worth. While the scene, "Mr. Struver Proposes to Wed" taken from Dickens. "Tale of Two Cities," is always remembered by all who have read that portion of the novel, as one of the most humorous sketches found throughout that writer's works.

Around the World in 40 Minutes.

The world is shrinking. Not in terms of miles, but in the time necessary for travel and communication. It took the old Greeks forty days to go the length of the Mediterranean in heir swiftest triremes. The greatest stretch of open water in the world is 10,000 miles in the Pacific ocean. Vessels afloat today can traverse this 10,000 miles in one-half the time it took the Greeks to go the length of the Mediterranean. A message from Philadelphia to San Francisco in 1849 required months for delivery. Now the Liberty Bell is struck in the Quaker City and telephone wires instantly carry the ringing notes over plain and mountain to the ears of listeners at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. When Jules Verne published "Around the World in Eighty Days," the journey described was laughed at as an impossible feat. Today it is possible to circle the globe in one-half the time of which Jules Verne wrote. With the balopticon it is even possible to circle the world in forty minutes, as will be illustrated at the Rondout Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening. Admission always free.

taxed for the protection of the health of its citizens and countless other activities, simply for the making of the right kind of men and women to make the right kind of a state.

"Thus," he said, "if danger comes to the state, through these opportunities given your boys and mine they may be depended upon to protect the priceless privileges involved in American ideals and the American republic."

Safeguard Against War.

Such form of preparedness, he set forth, was not because we want war, or because we believe in war and want bloodshed, but because we hate war and regard it as one of the worst things that can befall us when it becomes the solemn duty of the people to protect their nation. In this connection, the executive paid his respects to the pacifists who assert that such training begets love of warfare and encourages a juvenile fighting spirit, stating that the more intelligent belief in the country scouted such views.

"And Ulster county is an intelligent county, the most intelligent in the state—I think I got one of the largest majorities of any county in the state in Ulster," the governor interjected amid laughter.

The Governor referred to the loss of hundreds of thousands of lives in the Civil War and thousands in the Spanish-American war because of stupid, untrained and untaught leadership of men called upon to take charge of regiments who had not yet learned to take care of themselves, a statement he said that Grand Army veterans and soldiers in the later war could bear him out in. If it ever came to be the lot of the boys of the present day to pay the last full measure of devotion he said, responsible for a repetition of these blunders will lie upon the head of father, mother guardian or friend who now urges against the teaching of military training for the youth of the commonwealth.

Making True Americans.

"Those people are doing the very thing to create a condition such as we have had before," he declared, "when the flower of our manhood has blundered on by the hundred thousands to death. It is the duty of our government to guard against a repetition of such a calamity and the military training is not to teach our boys to be soldiers but to be the right kind of true American citizens."

Governor Whitman then paid tribute to the Empire State, citing the oft-quoted impressions of western progress such as are styled the Wisconsin idea, the Iowa idea and other reforms credited to that section of the country. He scouted the belief that along social, altruistic and charity lines that this New York Sate was backward and the West leading in these works.

Many Activities of State.

The State of New York, he said, "is today paying more per capita for the education of its youth than any other state in the Union, than any other political unit in the world. It is doing more for charity, more for the health of its citizens. Proportionately I mean too for, of course, this state has more citizens than any other. Four millions of dollars a year are paid for charitable work and eight millions for hospitals. More is paid out for prisons and we are doing more for criminals, more on any altruistic and social line for the betterment of our fellow men and for the succour of the distressed and helpless than any other states. When we hear of how much other states are doing if we as citizens only take the time to look into what our own state is doing, more and more will we have reason to be proud of New York and of the fact that the Empire State is leading the entire United States in movements for the uplifting of man and for the improvement of the human race."

Speaking on taxation, the governor said that so long as the money raised was spent on public improvements, was spent for the state and for its citizens, and honestly spent, we can stand the taxation bill. The question, he declared, is not one so much of higher taxes as it was whether the people received a dollar's value in return for every dollar expended.

Praise for Ulster Solons.

"So far as we can judge, I believe the men associated in the administration of this state are honest and honestly endeavoring to give such service," he said, "and there are no better men than those you have sent to the legislature as your representatives. I believe those men are honestly trying to give the best service to the public."

In conclusion, the governor declared that he pleadged himself to a continuance of that policy in his administration. He praised party government in this country and said it was a good thing to have two political parties watching each other and criticising each other so long as the citizens understand that the men placed in office know they are going to be held responsible for their conduct. In this connection the governor took occasion to praise Republican party principles briefly and the policies he has endeavored to carry out at Albany.

"For the next few months—I almost said years," said the governor in closing, "we are going to conserve the interests of the people of this state, the interests of the whole people all the time!"

An outburst of applause showed that the governor's emphatic expression of his sentiments had found a responsive chord among his hearers and the diners expressed their appreciation of his presence in unmistakable enthusiasm. The governor was unable to remain throughout the banquet and shortly after his speech left the Stuyvesant.

President Frank M. Baucus of the New York State Automobile Association, introduced as the man who has done more for roads than any other man in the state, followed Governor Whitman and launched into a dissertation upon the importance of the automobile and its growth in this to fourth place in the country's industrial line in which lumber, steel and clothing led in the order named.

Praise For Auto Show.

The speaker said he was glad that he came for three reasons, first because the Kingston exhibition was the finest of the kind he had attended in the Hudson Valley, second because the ladies were present and third because the governor of the state was present and converted into a real good automobilist.

He continued to discuss taxation, urging the need for motor trucks and busses bearing more of these burdens rather than pleasure cars. How a club can protect its members and owners of cars, aid in the placing of properly lettered signs for tourists were other points together with praise for the Rondout bridge project which he hoped would soon be realized.

"Treat the stranger right, don't try to get all his money," was another maxim President Baucus offered and he urged co-operation in place of selfishness. He then made a plea for Motordom which his predecessor in office, A. J. Deere of Hornell, he declared, was conducting at a considerable loss. He urged assistance from the club in getting subscribers and getting advertisers as the latter would meet the expense of publication, he said, while the magazine worth $1 would cost members only 25 cents. In conclusion, he expressed the hope that the Ulster Club would soon increase from 200 members to three times as many from among the 2,200 motorists in the county and that next year would see the state association composed of 125 clubs with a total membership of 25,000 instead of 15,000 as at present.

Secretary Baker Speaks.

Secretary Herbert W. Baker of the State Association, reviewed legislation affecting automobilists and told of 114 bills affecting autoists introduced last year at Albany, of which 111 were killed. Those passed were favored by the association and included the law compelling lights on all vehicles and the sale of gasoline on Sunday. He told stories which kept the audience in more or less of an uproar for nearly an hour.

Mayor in Brief Speech.

Mayor Canfield, who made the principal address at the armory earlier in the evening, made a brief response in which he recited a humorous poem on "My Auto, 'Tis of Thee."

The only other speech contributed was from a trolley car conductor, who announced the last car for Rondout and the banquet finally broke up at about 1 o'clock this morning after one of the most successful gatherings of its kind in the history of the club.

Ellenville Defeated Liberty.

A basketball game of importance to [illegible] towns was played at Monticello Wednesday night when the Ellenville Independents defeated the Liberty Emeralds by the close score of 24 to 20 before an attendance of 500. Ellenville's line-up included Tuthill, McDowell and Charles Freer, forwards; Edwin Taylor, center; Chris Sherry and George Freer, guards.

COAL PRICES

The Usual Drop in Price of Coal the First of April Will Not Occur Saturday—No Change in Price Until Mining Difficulties Are Settled.

Local coal dealers have announced that the usual drop in coal prices will not occur on Saturday, the first of April, and that there will be no change in the present prices until negotiations pending between the miners and the coal operatives is definitely settled.

It has been customary in Kingston for many years past for the coal dealers to drop the price of coal fifty cents a ton the first of April and then to advance the price ten cents a ton until the winter prices are reached. This drop in prices was so that consumers would lay in their winter supply of coal during April.

The price of coal today follows: Egg and stove sizes delivered, $6.60; chestnut size delivered, $6.85; and pea size $5 a ton delivered. These prices will be maintaind for some time at least.

THEY SAY.

Two readers of The Freeman called up today to ask if the sighting of an eagle from Broadway yesterday was an advertisement for Peter Black's automobile exhibit or an advance notice of the Barnum & Bailey circus. As an exhibition of the skepticism of the average newspaper reader this is a fair sample. But the eagle was actually sighted and will probably be heard from through the season as he was sighted from this or that resort where a live press agent whiles away his summer.

It is rumored that the high school students who did such good lettering on the signs for the automobile show will ask the school authorities for permission to letter a new sign for the wooden offense which now graces one of the pillars at the entrance to warn vehicles which way to go.

Governor Whitman's selection of the Rhinebeck ferry as a means of entry to Kingston made a hit with merchants on the Strand, where the city employes cut ice all day Thursday as though life itself depended on getting the slush out of the way.

The Day After.

The hour was late as I hustled home
And hastily doffed my duds;
I tore off my tie and let it lie.
Likewise collar and studs.
But speeches and toasts and clinking of glass
Boiled through my towel-bound head
As I drowsed—hey, scat! Voting
is that
Perched on the foot of the bed?
Two eyes glared out of the Stygian dark
Flanked by enormous ears
While around its chin lurked a fiendish grin
That justified all my fears.
In a purring voice the monster spoke
"Come now with me, prepare!"
But senseless I lay as it bore me away
Through the shivery, cold night air.
Then lo, in a trice, on the armory floor
It gently set me down
While 'round me in ranks with chockfull tanks
Stood every car in town.
With rattle and roar of exhaust and horn
They called on me for a speech
And replied with an earsplitting screech.
Then old Twin Six stepped out and said
"His tank has gone dry, by heck!"
And with solemn mien he poured gasoline
Down my unoffending neck.
Some thought my magnets were out of whack,
Some said my gears were stripped,
But all were agreed I could make no speed
While some of my cylinders skipped.
And then as they started to make repairs
I fell out of bed in my fright
And recalled with a pang I'd been out with the gang
At the Auto Club Banquet last night.
